Favorite, Cardinal Montini, is named new pope

Next Pontiff to take name of 'Paul VI'

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini today was elected Pope of the Roman Catholic Church. He chose the name Paul VI.

Montini was a favored candidate before the election began. He has been the Archbishop of Milan.

The Sacred College of Cardinals elected Montini on the second day of balloting in their secret conclave inside the 16th-century Vatican Palace.

The new pontiff, a 65-year-old "liberal" intellectual and close friend of the late Pope John, is the 262nd successor to the throne of St. Peter.

Montini is considered forward-looking and Vatican observers believed he would continue supporting the movements started by Pope John toward church reforms, Christian unity and improved relations with the Communist governments.

The big bronze bells of St. Peter's Basilica tolled out the joyous news as a vast crowd of Pius XII, who preceded Pope John, as well as of John. The Milan archbishop was considered a likely candidate to succeed Pius in 1958 when John was elected.

Regarded by his colleagues as unusually intelligent and competent, Pope Paul VI has wide experience earned by 30 years with the Vatican secretariat of state and nine years as Archbishop of Milan, a booming industrial city.

He has been active against the Communists in the Milan region, and the Reds consider him so "dangerous" that they have tried to scare him with bombs.

The new Pope was born in Concesio, a small hamlet north of Brescia, and is one of three brothers. He is the son of a crusading lawyer and journalist who died many years ago.

The family was well off, and the new Pope's brothers chose law and medicine as careers. Brother Ludovico, the lawyer, is now a Christian Democratic senator, and Francesco is a surgeon at the Brescia Hospital.

Giovanni Battista Montini was ordained a priest in May, 1920. He was named to his post in Milan on Nov. 3, 1954.

He was not a cardinal when Pope Pius died, but he still was considered a top candidate to succeed him. He was made a prince of the church by Pope John in December, 1958.

JFK sends Paul VI his best wishes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy today sent his heartfelt congratulations to the new head of the Roman Catholic Church, Pope Paul VI and wished him "long years of leadership in the cause of peace."

The President, who will meet with the Pope in Rome July 2, sent a telegram to the new pontiff in behalf of the American people.

Kennedy leaves this weekend on a four-nation tour. Kennedy will arrive in Italy the afternoon of Sunday, June 30, for conferences with President Antonio Signi and other leaders of the Italian government.

In addition to visiting the Pope, Kennedy will make a major speech while in Italy. The White House said today it would be premature, however, to assume that this speech will be delivered in Rome.

Kennedy's message to the Pope said: "On behalf of the people and government of the United States I send my heartfelt congratulations to you as you assume your great office. We wish for you long years of leadership in the cause of peace and good will so nobly advanced by your great predecessor, Mrs. Kennedy joins in sending you our warmest good wishes."

Government officials said the Chief Executive expects to have an audience with Pope Paul on July 2 shortly before returning to this country. The new Pope will be crowned June 29, the day before Kennedy arrives in Italy.

Metke is appointed to Game Commission

Bend man gets 5-year state post

J. PAT METKE
Named to Game Commission

Appointment of J. Pat Metke, Bend, to the Oregon Game Commission for a five-year term was announced today by Governor Mark O. Hatfield.

Metke succeeds Rollin E. Bowles, Portland, whose term expires on July 17. Metke's term will end July 19, 1968.

A native of Bend, where he was born in 1922, Metke is a former member of the Oregon State Legislature, and served on the House fish and game committee at the 1959 session. He was named to the interim committee on fish and game in 1960. Metke has been a member of the Deschutes County Sportsmen's Association since 1950.

Metke is chairman of the Bend Chamber of Commerce industrial committee. He will be the fourth Central Oregonian to serve on the Oregon Game Commission in the past 40 years.

The late M. A. Lynch, Redmond, was on the commission, starting in 1921. Named in 1931, Dr. J. C. Vandeventer, Bend, served for five years. Kenneth Moody, Bend, was on the commission two years, starting in 1939, and Loyde Blakley, Bend, for two years, starting in 1948.

Metke will serve on the commission with John Amacher, Talent; Joseph W. Smith, Klamath Falls; Tallent Greenough, Coquille, and Wayne Phillips, Baker.

A graduate from Bend High School, Metke attended Portland University before entering the service in World War II, to serve as a naval pilot for three years. He was a pilot, with anti-sub patrol duty in the South Atlantic.

Metke and his wife, Polly, have three children, Mike, Mark and Mary Ellen. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Metke, Camp Sherman.

Honolulu papers hit by strike

HONOLULU (UPI)—The first daily newspaper strike in the history of Hawaii today shut down the Honolulu Advertiser and Star-Bulletin.

Some 850 members of seven newspaper craft and labor unions walked out at 6:28 a.m. (12:28 p.m. EDT) following collapse of all-night negotiations. Another 150 employees also were affected.

A newspaper spokesman said no attempt would be made to publish.

The Advertiser is a morning paper with 62,239 circulation; the Star-Bulletin an afternoon paper with 100,858 circulation, according to Editor & Publisher year book.

Exiles await reports from commandos

MIAMI (UPI)—Exile commandos were believed to have joined up today with anti-Castro forces in Cuba where a multi-point landing successfully penetrated the island's Communist defenses.

Bulletin

MIAMI (UPI)—Exile commandos, in a short-wave broadcast which they said was from somewhere inside Cuba, reported today that "our success is assured" and called on Premier Fidel Castro's militia to rebel.

The broadcast was heard in Miami with difficulty. Castro's own government apparently jammed the broadcast for listeners inside Cuba.

olutionary Council, were eagerly waiting radio reports from the commandos.

A radio broadcast from Cuba late Thursday night reported that militiamen fought with a group of eight heavily armed anti-Castroites in the vicinity of "El Camino." The broadcast did not say if the rebels were of the invading commandos or guerrillas operating in the mountains of Oriente, Las Villas and Pinar Del Rio provinces.

The broadcast said the anti-Castroites opened fire without warning late Thursday afternoon and were repelled with machine gun fire. There was no report on casualties.

Government radio messages picked up by the UPI monitoring center here announced that three air force jets — presumably Soviet-built — had been ordered into the air and told Cuban military and naval installations to maintain "permanent vigilance."

The State Department, however, announced it had "no confirmation" of the landings and the Pentagon in Washington said it was unable to substantiate the council's communique.

The landings were made in open defiance of:

—The United States' "no-raid" policy on Cuba.

—Soviet warnings against further outside exile activity.

—Premier Fidel Castro's threat to attack any exile bases operating in the Caribbean.

Summer finds nights here chilly

Summer begins this evening, shortly before sunset, calendar makers note.

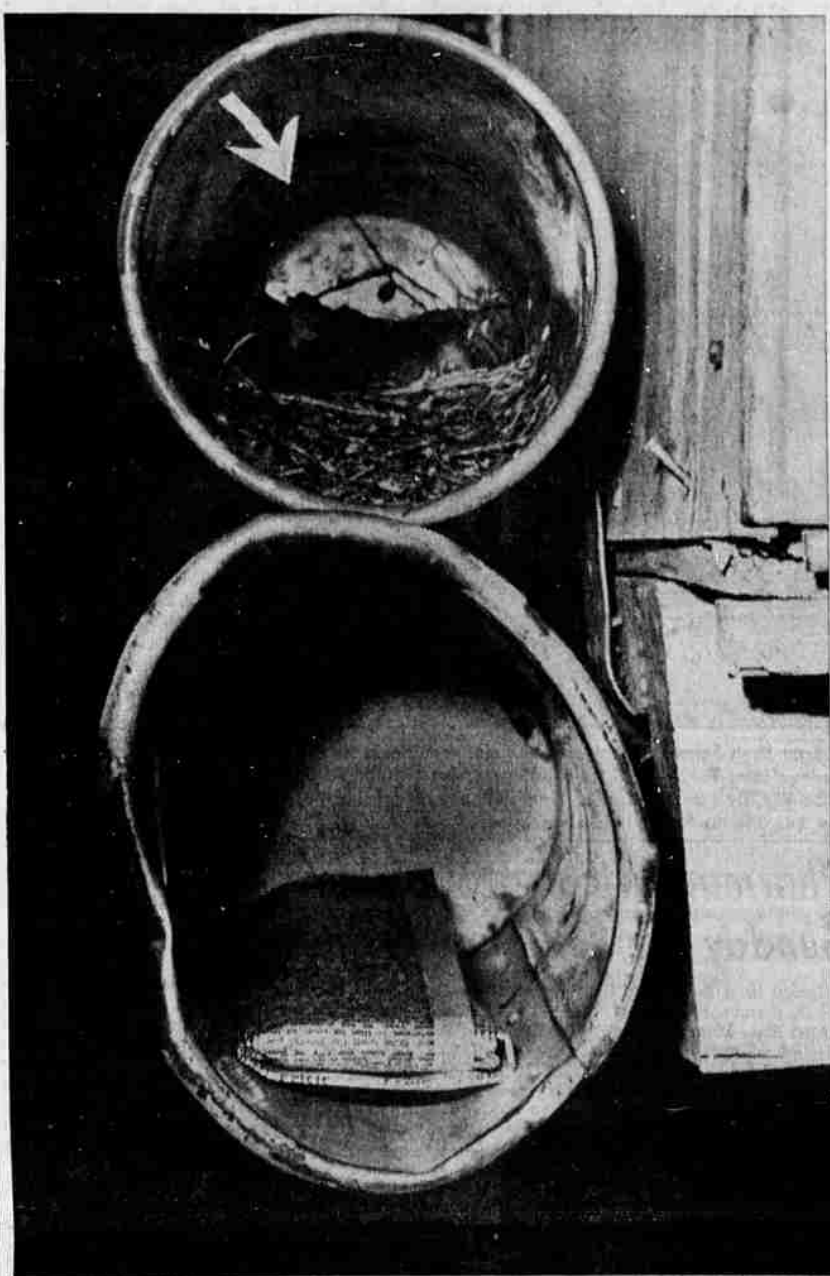

But there was a touch of fall in the Deschutes air this morning, following a night temperature of 35 degrees which made Bend one of the coolest reporting spots in the nation.

However, regardless of the morning chill, astronomers say summer is here, and will officially start at 6:04 p.m., PDT, when the tired, slightly wobbly North Pole tilts slightly more than 23 degrees toward the sun.

The occasion will be the summer solstice. Tonight will be the shortest of the year and, calendar makers note, tomorrow will be the longest day.

But in Central Oregon, days actually will not start to get shorter until the first of the week. In Bend, the sun was up this morning at 4:22, PST. It will set at 7:52, PST.

On Sunday, the sun will rise one minute later, marking the swing toward winter.

FOR THE BIRDS—Mrs. Jack Billings, Bulletin route carrier, has 12 nests complete with baby birds in Bulletin boxes on her 195 paper route. The babies in the top box are at home near the K. E. Speakman place, Rt. 2, Box 162, Bend. Mrs. Billings has put up several temporary boxes until the birds fly away.

Hatfield denies life threats cancelled visit

SALEM (UPI)—The governor's office denied today that Gov. Mark Hatfield declined to participate in Rose Festival activities because of threats on his life.

It was admitted however "there has been some extension of security measures" for the governor.

On Dec. 5, 1962, UPI learned of a threat on the governor's life, but at the request of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, did not publicize the incident.

It was believed that the threat was related to the then-pending execution of child slayer Jeannette June Freeman.

At that time, the governor had not been informed of the threat, UPI learned.

When Hatfield flew to Washington, D. C. this week to visit President Kennedy, he was accompanied by State Police Sgt. W. F. Newall.

Rumors circulated in Portland that Hatfield passed up the Rose Festival parade because of threats on his life.

"It is true that two mental patients who had exhibited unusual interest in the governor were at large the weekend prior to the Rose Festival," Travis Cross, the governor's press secretary, said.

"But both were back in confinement at the time of the Rose Festival," he said.

The governor was home with his wife who was undergoing extreme pain from an eye ailment," Cross said.

Cross said "crackpot letters and phone calls are not uncommon." He said the legislature was aware of this and after the shooting of the governor's car as it sat beside his residence, the legislature passed a resolution directing the superintendent of state police to provide whatever protection he felt appropriate.

"Several months ago, a former mental patient with an arson and burglary background telephoned the governor's residence around the clock for nearly a week," Cross said.

"The man was apprehended and placed at Dammasch State Hospital. Two weeks ago he was released on the condition he not return to Salem, which he did.

It's rodeo time at Sisters, ball planned tonight

It's rodeo time, and the small community of Sisters will be the center of a whole weekend of hoopedoo starting tonight with the rodeo queen's coronation ball.

Rodeo events get the formal kickoff, however, tomorrow morning at 10:30 when competitors, bands, and marching groups gather at the rodeo grounds for the rodeo parade.

Tonight's ball will be in the Sisters gymnasium. The Collins Kids (TV) will provide the musical entertainment, backed by the Trailhands, a Western singing group from Springfield. Rodeo events get underway Saturday at 1 p.m.

Union, steel firms reach pact accord

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—America's basic steel industry and the huge United Steelworkers Union today put finishing touches on a revolutionary new contract which insures nearly two more years of labor peace.

Climaxing six months of informal negotiations, the parties announced agreement Thursday on a 21-month contract which features a unique extended vacation plan the union says will create up to 25,000 new jobs in the industry.

And for the second consecutive year the steelworkers passed up a straight wage increase for job security.

The contract becomes effective Aug. 1 of this year. It can be reopened upon 120 days' notice anytime after Jan. 1, 1965, thus assuring labor peace in the industry during the presidential year of 1964.

The union said contracts should be signed by next week.

In Washington, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said President Kennedy was "gratified by the early agreement in steel." He deferred further comment.

Those workers retiring before the plan takes effect will receive a comparable cash payoff, a bonus week and their regular vacation time pay.

House group okays defense spending plans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Appropriations Committee approved President Kennedy's record defense spending plans today almost intact. The committee said that if war could be deterred by strength, the power this country had would deter it.

The committee voted $47 billion to support in the year starting July 1 Army, Navy and Air Force functions for which Kennedy had asked $1.9 billion more. But much of the cut reflected bookkeeping transactions which will not save any money.

The rest of the cut was scattered through most major items, and was calculated to back up the committee's insistence on elimination of waste. No major functions were eliminated or even heavily pared.

In approving the bill the House group joined Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in virtually writing off the controversial 2,000 mile-an-hour RS70 bomber, for which no additional funds were requested or provided by the committee.

Can Get More McNamara was told, however, that if the $155 million he had left from this year for this project proved insufficient to complete the three test planes beyond which he has been unwilling to go, he can get additional money by transfer from another project—Dyna-soar—also on McNamara's unfavorable list.

That would mean scrapping Dyna-soar, envisioned as a winged space vehicle or orbiting plane, launched on a missile but capable of being piloted back to a landing. Actually the committee's comments, in a report to the House, indicated that both Dyna-soar and RS70 are fated to go down the drain.

The committee's action, despite the bill's nominal cut of $1.9 billion below the budget request, also pretty well wrecked a Republican economy bloc's announced hopes to cut $10 to $15 billion from Kennedy's new appropriations request, totaling $108 billion.
