17 youngsters to participate in Salem derby

Seventeen Bend youngsters will journey over the hump to Salem tomorrow to get ready for the capital city's annual Soap Box

Upon arrival at Salem, the boys will be assigned to their living quarters. They will be quartered in private homes.

Immediately thereafter, the boys will take their soap box racers to the pits for a checkup. Following an okay by the authorities, they will then be free to take two practice runs down the rac-ing hill.

Bend's participation in the Salem event and the local race which will be held here during the Bend Water Pageant are jointly sponsored by the Bend Jay-cees and the City Recreation De-

Two divisions of competition are organized. They are designated A and B.

Making the trek to Salem will be: Jim Lowell, Monty Patter-son, Larry Maker, Randy Cantrell, Ron Skaggs, Rodney Skaggs, Larry Bradbury, Stephen Perri-gan, Steve Webb, Alan Mortlock, David Baker, Michael Stearns, Shelton Perrigan, Dean Kirsh, Tom Busche, Stephen Busche, and Jim Pettit. This list is sub-ject to change, City Recreation Director Vince Genna has point-

"This Salem event gives the boys a chance to participate in the national program which gives scholarship awards," Genna offered. He added that the local 'motorless hotrod derby" is not sanctioned by the National Soapbox Derby Assn.

Change made on trailers

Special to The Bulletin

REDMOND - City councilmen repealed their newly-passed trailer house ordinance Tuesday and passed another which allows residents to keep camp trailers (unoccupied) on their city property, provided the trailer does not exceed 27 feet in length.

Other particulars of the new ordinance are the same as the re-pealed one. It states that trailer homes already located in Redmond with permits will be allowed to remain, but they cannot be moved to another location or another trailer house cannot be sub-stituted. From now on, trailers will not be permitted on any lo-cation other than in trailer camps if they are to be occupied as
