

Defense funds for 5 Oregon counties may be withdrawn

SALEM (UPI) — Federal funds approved Thursday for five county civil defense organizations may be withdrawn because matching funds to bolster the state agency were denied, State CD Director Robert Sandstrom indicated.

The legislature slashed the agency to a three member coordinating staff attached to the governor's office.

Before the cutback was ordered, Oregon had an 18-member CD staff, Gov. Mark Hatfield had asked funds for a 20-member staff.

Funds Conditional

The notice from Ralls that the state agency would be denied federal funds also said funds had been approved for five counties "subject to the submission and approval of a revised state program."

"One requirement that must be stated in the resubmission is the state's intent to administer the approved county programs," Ralls said.

Sandstrom said the final decision on whether the state would supervise the county programs would be made by Hatfield "sometime next week."

He said he would call the five counties "to determine what it means to them if we do not administer the program for them."

Matching funds were approved for Benton, Linn, Umatilla, Polk and Washington counties, with the condition that the state provide supervision.

In addition, Polk and Washington counties were told "if their performance... is not improved" before the next year, they would be denied further federal aid.

Sandstrom said he talked to Benton County authorities, and was told loss of federal matching funds would amount to about $2,000.

No mention was made in Ralls' report of any funds for Multnomah County, or the city of Portland. They are dropping civil defense July 1.

Several Others Quit

Sandstrom said some counties would not make a decision on whether to drop civil defense until today, the last business day of the current fiscal year. He said in addition to Portland and Multnomah County, Klamath, Lincoln, Deschutes and Lane counties have already decided to drop or reduce civil defense budgets.

In the meantime, the agency was preparing to move into its giant new $36,000 offices in the basement of the Capitol.

The move was to be made today, but was postponed one day because movers couldn't get to the job before Saturday.

In addition to the big new 50-by-90 foot offices, there is a nearby communications center with teletypes, radio equipment, and underground telephone lines to key points.

The legislature was unable to stop work on the project because funds had been appropriated before the CD cutback was ordered.

"The loss of federal matching funds to our budget means that the state will not be able to coordinate the priority shelter program and other supporting activities," Sandstrom said.

Also in doubt was the future of 37 emergency field hospital units stored in Oregon.

BOY FACES CHARGES

A nine-year-old Bend boy, accused of petty larceny in a household, was held in detention by city police Wednesday and later released to a parent. He will await action by juvenile authorities.

Timber Carnival change noted

ALBANY (UPI) — The Albany Timber Carnival will open with an evening performance Monday instead of the usual daytime show, officials said Thursday.

The second show will begin at 1 p.m. July 4.

The Timber Carnival will be highlighted by the appearance of Bill Johnston of Australia, the defending chopping champion, and Tom Kirk, who has won the Australian chopping title 23 times.

They will compete with lumberjacks from the United States and Canada for $5,000 in prize money and trophies.

Prineville busy with plans for annual invasion of rockhounds

PRINEVILLE — Preparations are in full swing for the arrival of an expected 2-3,000 rockhounds for the annual summer Pow Wow of the All Rockhounds Pow Wow Club of America, to be held again this year at the Crooked River R o u n d u p and County Fair grounds.

Rockhounds are expected to begin arriving this weekend. In preparation for the tent and trailer-house village that will be set up by camping rockhounds at the grounds, July 1-7, additional electric lighting facilities are being installed, according to Ivan Chappell, Crook County chamber of Commerce manager.

Grass will be mowed by the county in the camping area. In the 4-H building, women of the Rotana club are installing a kitchen and all other facilities are being spruced up.

Other trips during the Pow Wow will be posted at the grounds, Robinson states. On Thursday, members of the Pow Wow will join in Prineville's parade. A fluorescent rock show is planned from 1-6 p.m. that afternoon, with an old-timers' show in the evening.

On Friday and Saturday morning of that week the Prineville Ridge Riders will serve a buckaroo breakfast at the grounds for all rockhounds and interested townspeople from 5:30 — 7 a.m. Friday evening, July 5, a special program has been planned at the grounds at 7 p.m. A highlight of the program will be the drawing for prizes donated by Prineville merchants.

The annual business meeting of the organization, with election of officers, will also be held that evening, and the Pow Wow queen and court will be presented. A highlight of Saturday, July 6, will be a special miniature rodeo put on by the Prineville Ridge Riders at 7 p.m. No admission will be charged.

A non-denominational church service will be held at 10 a.m. on Sunday, final day of the Pow Wow, with a message by Rev. Carl James, Pow Wow chaplain, assisted by Elroy McCaw.

The O'Brien will join Destroyer Squadron 23 upon completion of the shipyard availability to become flagship for Commander, Destroyer Division 232.

The destroyer's new squadron is the "Little Beaver" squadron of World War II fame, when it was under the command of Admiral Arleigh "31-Knot" Burke, a former Chief of Naval Operations who is now retired.

Work on ballot title delayed due to meeting

SALEM (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton said today he would assign a title for the referral of the 1963 legislature's $60 million tax increase package "well within the time allotted."

A referral petition was filed Thursday by J. Francyl Howard, president of the Citizens Committee for Economy and Equitable Taxation.

Thornton, who is hosting the annual meeting here of Oregon district attorneys, said "I'm tied up with the confere today, but will get to it as soon as I can."

"I don't expect to take the full 10 days, but I can't say now when I will have the title assigned."

Meanwhile, there were still indications another group planned to file a second petition to refer the tax increase bill.

None but Howard's petition had been filed with the secretary of state by midmorning today, however.

House Speaker Clarence Barton, who returned to the capital today after spending the past week in Coquille, urged defeat of the referral measure.

"People should realize if taxes are not raised, education will be hurt and property taxes will go up."

"We could eliminate the $11.5 million higher education construction program, and drop the $11 million increase granted for basic school support, but that would still leave us $38 million short," he said.

"The only thing we could do would be to cut back on the present level of basic school support. This would force property taxes up."

Fifth Sunday Rally due

The fifth Sunday Rally of the Christian churches of Central Oregon will be held at the First Christian Church of Bend on June 30, starting at 3 p.m. The theme of the rally will be "The Ministry of Christian Leadership."

Guest speaker will be the Reverend B. Ross Evans of Hood River. Mr. Evans has been a pastor and evangelist for many years in Oregon and has held evangelistic meetings in most of the Christian churches of Central Oregon.

There will be seven interest groups in the afternoon for one hour, covering subjects of worship, evangelism, education, membership, stewardship, Madrad Missions and social action and community service. After the evening potluck, there will be group session held for youth, men and women.

Reverend Evans will also speak for the church service Sunday morning at the First Christian Church at 11 a.m. Everyone is welcome.

At least 22 people are registered for the Oregon Christian Convention to be held at Turner, July 2-7. The theme of the convention this year is "Committed to Christ." Governor Mark Hatfield will be featured at the 2:30 p.m. session at the convention.
