Start hemlock looper spraying despite wind

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI)—The controversial hemlock looper spraying program got under way at dawn today in spite of overcast skies and a wind velocity which was threatening to rise above five miles per hour.

The weather remains a key factor in the State Department of Natural Resources program, designed to spray 62,000 acres of timber in Pacific and Wahkiakum counties in an effort to wipe out the insect pest.

The supervisor of the department's forest management division, Donald R. Hopkins, said the project must be halted in the event of rain or a wind velocity above five miles per hour.

He said that helicopters were spraying Sevin on a 2,000-acre experiment plot about six miles north of Naselle, and simultaneously, DDT was being sprayed on a 1,100-acre tract in the Jim Crow Creek drainage area.

The experimental program is designed to find out if the Sevin is strong enough to kill the looper larvae in sufficient quantities to effectively destroy it.

The Dalles man claims robbery

He said they stopped the car on the highway near Bell Road and left him with his hands tied behind his back with wire. He freed himself and called the sheriff's office from a farmhouse, deputies said.

Horror grips missile site when rocket is off course

By Leon Daniel
UPI Staff Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—For eight horrible seconds the sleek, white rocket—instead of arching harmlessly over the Atlantic—veered sharply over the heart of the Cape and aimed death and destruction toward the mainland.

At the end of those eight seconds, which seemed much longer, a range safety officer triggered a pair of "destruct" switches which blew the Minuteman ICBM into hundreds of fiery fragments, including tons of volatile solid propellant, into a "safety area," keeping damage at a minimum.

There were no injuries in the spectacular accident here last October.

A year and a half earlier an Atlas missile knifed into the sky in the first effort to orbit an unmanned space capsule.

"She looks like a good one," an observer remarked. Others thought so too.

But an Air Force officer intently watching electronic indicators on an instrument panel knew better. The indicators told him the rocket was off course.

He let the missile rise for a few more seconds, then triggered the switches which sent an electric impulse to an explosive package inside the Atlas.

Erupts in flames

Instantly, the night missile erupted in a ball of fire 15,000 feet in the air. Chunks of flaming debris showered to the ground, some falling on the blockhouse which protected missilemen at the launch site.

The space capsule was blasted free by a rocket escape system and was dropped undamaged into the ocean by parachute. There were no injuries.

That these two unsuccessful launches were not further marred by deaths or injuries can be attributed in large measure to

Special to The Bulletin

REDMOND — In the backs of trucks, in horse trailers and via "shanks' mare," from all corners of the county, horses will make their way to Redmond Tuesday, July 30, for a highlight of the annual Deschutes County Fair, 4-H "Horse Day."

With them, of course, will be approximately 135 young owners and riders, members of the county's three 4-H horse clubs and a new club, all presumably in the finest fettle, ready to ride and show.

Scheduled early in fair week to avoid conflict with the many other 4-H activities, the horse day program runs from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and is open to the public, admission free. Spectators are urged to enter the grandstand at any time to watch the events.

Horse showmanship contests will be at 9 a.m.; colts at halter, 11 a.m.; horsemanship contests, 1:30 p.m.; senior horsemanship award tryouts (including the coveted Dad Potter award), 3:30 p.m.; and harness demonstration, also at 3:30.

Although listed in the premium book, there will be no drills this year, says 4-H Club Agent John Schmid. Events will end with an obstacle course at 4:30 p.m. This will be under direction of Dick Bigelow and Mrs. Ace Clark.

Merrill Webb will serve as ringmaster throughout the day. Judges will be Paul Rutland, horse herdsman, Oregon State University; Phil Kuhl, John Day rancher, and Jim Emmons, Portland, U. S. National Bank.

Horse showmanship and horsemanship competition will be in junior, intermediate and senior 4-H entrants. Harness demonstration will be conducted by boys and girls in Mrs. Eva Thornburgh's 4-H Harness Club. The colts at halter contest will be the first of its kind for the county.
