Study reveals future Oregon timber shortage

EUGENE (UPI)—Western Oregon faces a timber shortage in the future, according to a study published by the University of Oregon Bureau of Business Research. The study, by geography instructor Dr. Louis Hamill, indicates that contrary to popular belief, there is evidence that the forest resource of western Oregon is not capable of supporting much longer a high level of production and employment.

Bend radio ham aids project

A Bend amateur radio operator, Don Peters of WYJVO, was called on from Alaska earlier this week to assist in obtaining from Memphis, Tenn., some special film needed in photographing the total eclipse of the sun on July 29.

Scientists from the University of Memphis, now on location in Alaska making ready to observe the eclipse, attempted to get in touch with U. of M. to get some special photographic supplies, asking that these be placed aboard a plane that was heading from Memphis for Alaska.

But the observers in Alaska were unable to make radio connections with Memphis. Peters learned of the trouble and offered assistance.

The Bend man copied the message from Alaska, then relayed it to Memphis.

Musa reports Vatican message

THE DALLES (UPI) — Senate President Ben Musa, D - The Dalles, has received a message from the Vatican which expresses the gratitude of Pope Paul VI for a resolution passed by the 1963 Legislature on the illness of the late Pope John XXIII.

Sen Musa said a cablegram he received from the Vatican over the name of Cardinal Cicognana, reads:

PANCAKE FLIPPERS—It takes all kinds to make a world — and a successful pancake feed, so say Camp Sherman Community Clubbers. They have enlisted the aid of all ages and sizes to prepare for the Ponderosa Pancake Breakfast, to be held July 7 from 7 until 11 a.m. in the Camp Sherman Community Hall.

Canadians spot Russian trawler

OFINA, B.C. (UPI) — A Maritime Command aircraft and five Fisheries Patrol vessels are trying to locate a Russian fishing trawler spotted Wednesday and Thursday off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Fisherman Ken Mead-Miller of Ucluellet, B.C., spotted the 150-foot trawler about 12 miles off this fishing community.

He said the Soviet ship carried two radar antennas, a wireless antenna, direction finder and other electronic devices.

Mead-Miller said, "I think the trawler I saw was reconnoitering the fishing grounds...if its reports to Moscow are favorable, then Red fishboats will flock in next year."

He said the trawler appeared to be fishing as well as taking scientific observations.

The fisheries ship Laurier was hunting for the trawler off Ucluellet. Four other fisheries boats are on the lookout elsewhere along the island's west coast.

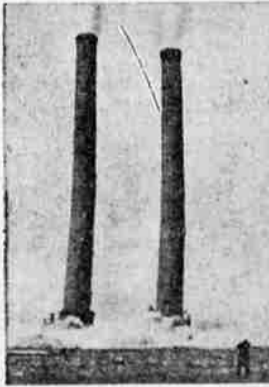

Ken Lucas, deputy fisheries director in Vancouver, B.C., said the fisheries men will attempt to communicate with the Russian boat if it is sighted and try to find out its purpose.

He said crewmen from the Laurier could board the Russian ship and order it to port if it is caught fishing within Canada's three-mile limit. The vessel when sighted was in international waters where it has every right to be.

The Canadian government is at present considering extending the three-mile limit to 12 miles, possibly next year.

STEAL PLYWOOD

About 15 sheets of 4 x 8' plywood were stolen from behind the senior high school sometime in the past few days. The wood was for construction of the school's new addition at the south end of the building. No footprints or tire tracks were found by investigating officers.

THAT THEY BLOW—Looking like the stacks of some ancient battlewagon sinking beneath the waves, twin smokestacks crumble into rubble in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, as 100 pounds of explosives are set off at their bases. The 275-foot smokestacks, part of a now dismantled power plant, had served as landmarks on the edge of Hamilton Bay for nearly half a century. These photos were clipped from movie film taken by Ontario Hydro News.

Camp Sherman readies for annual pancake feed

Special to The Bulletin

REDMOND — Innumerable amounts of work, worry, time and contributions have gone into the planning of the first annual Ponderosa Pancake Breakfast, to be held July 7 in the Camp Sherman Community Hall.

General chairmen are directors, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Odem and committee members, Laurence Dyer, Robert Appleton, Clyde Rau and Mrs. Mack Bell.

Beginning at 7 a.m. and continuing until the last hungry straggler has been fed (around 11 a.m., they're hoping), breakfasters will have pancakes, sausage, eggs, juice, coffee and milk. Food and other supplies have been donated by business people in Redmond, Sisters and Bend.

The hall, built in 1948 on land donated to the community by the late Hayes McMullen and his wife, Mrs. McMullen, (present owner of the Lake Creek Lodge,) has become a true community center.

Vietnamese say Americans try coup d'etat

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI) — Charges that the U.S. Embassy was involved in an attempted coup d'etat put new strains today on relations between the United States and the South Vietnamese government.

The charges were made Friday by a government prosecutor in the opening session of a special military trial of 19 Vietnamese army officers and soldiers accused of plotting the abortive uprising in 1960.

Vietnamese sources said the government prosecutor told defense attorneys in the closed session that two U.S. Embassy officials—who since have left the country — were involved in the plot against the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The sources said all 19 Vietnamese defendants deny any U.S. complicity.

The playgirl testified against Gordon at his trial. Extracts from the tape recordings allegedly made by her have been sent to British Atty. Gen. Sir John Jobson, it was learned.

Gordon's lawyer, Ellis Lincoln, has said he will appeal the singer's conviction.

"If this tape is produced to me, and I presume it will be, it could prove to be a statement of the highest importance to my client," he said.

In another development Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies, Miss Keeler's former roommate, returned to London from Majorca. She had testified at the pre-trial vice hearing of Dr. Stephen Ward, who introduced Miss Keeler to Profumo, that she had slept with Lord Astor. Ward is accused of living off prostitution earnings of Christine, Mandy and other girls.

"I have disgusted the boy I really love," Miss Rice-Davies told newsmen. "I am leaving Majorca and will never return."

New aspects of Keeler case are explored

LONDON (UPI)—British police are looking into new aspects of the activities of Christine Keeler, the call girl who played a key role in the Profumo scandal, it was reported today.

Informed sources said police Friday questioned Miss Keeler's former business manager, Robert Drury, in connection with 12 hours of tape recordings he claimed were made by her about her relations with a Jamaican jazz singer. The sources said the tapes were in a bank vault.

The singer, Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, one of Christine's former boy friends, has been sentenced to three years in jail for shooting at her through an apartment door.

The incident occurred before Miss Keeler's name was linked publicly to resigned War Minister John Profumo. It was in the midst of the uproar about Profumo that the 21-year-old redhead fired Drury.

Drury, a 29-year-old Canadian, is suing Miss Keeler for a third of the fee she collected for selling her story to British newspapers.
