Mowlds fires 63, wins again

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE — Jerry Mowlds, 23-year-old Portland professional, finished before the elements opened up here Sunday to score a 32-31-63 and win the 1963 Prineville Invitational Golf Tournament.

It was the second straight title for Mowlds, who tied for top honors with Bob McKendrick and Bob Duden, both of Portland, last year. Duden, on the tour, passed up this year's tournament. McKendrick was down the line.

Ron Weber, former Prineville amateur ace now on the PGA tour, flew in to his former home town at the last minute and nearly pulled off a victory.

Weber scored 34-30 to gain a second place tie with long-hitting Boots Porterfield of Grants pass. Porterfield, playing in the final foursome of the day, shot a final 32 to tie with Weber for the professional low gross honors.

In third place was Ron's father, Alex Weber, former Prineville golf pro. The senior Eber, a past winner of this tournament, shot a 65 to tie with Bobby Litton of Vancouver for third place. Paul Sunda of Salem Golf Club was fourth with 66 and five players tied at 67. They were Al Cross of Salem, Bill Isbill, Larry Lamberger of Portland, Tom Marlowe of Portland and Gordon Marlatt of Eugene.

Porterfield and his partner Bend High School youngster Sandy Panzer, pulled off a mid-up shot by winning the best ball division with a score of 58. The foursome didn't come in until nearly dark and earlier finishers knew that Porterfield and Panzer had a chance to pick up all the marbles in the best ball play.

Other best ball winners were Professional Chuck Hogan and Dr. D. Michaelson, 59; Sunda and amateur Ray Renoud, 59; Professional Howard Bonar and Guy Benson, 60. Other two man teams scoring 60 included Mowlds and Bob Hogan, Gene Bunny Mason and Alan Hudspeth, and Bill Isbill and Spec Hudspeth.

In amateur individual play, there was a four way tie for first place with 67s.

The four players were Millard Porter of Madras, Joe Ahern of Portland, Bob Hogan of Prineville and Ralph Swan of Vancouver.

Next came Roy Renoud, Portland, and Alan Hudspeth of Prineville, with 68s. Bracketed at 69 were Ray Isaacs, Cecil Stevens, Bill Blakely and John Boyd, all of Portland.

Lee Bowling and Joe Ahern, both of Portland, tied for low net honors with 61 strokes.

Bruce Cudd, former Portland Walker Copper, scored 72 and Don Krieger, present Royal Oaks champion, had 73. Bend's top scorers were Owen Panzer with 71 and Vern White with 75.

Host professional Jerry Clomlinger had a 70. He is a former two time winner.

It's Arnold Palmer against field in this week's British Open golf

By Henry W. Thornberry
LYTHAM-ST. ANNES, England (UPI) — It's going to be Arnold Palmer against the field in the British Open golf tournament.

That's what the experts say, and it's also what Palmer's rivals say. Even Jack Nicklaus, a man who has beaten Palmer at his best, is touting Arnie as the likely winner.

"Arnie plays fantastically well over here," says Nicklaus. "If he continues his present 'slump,' he should win easily."

British odds-makers have installed Palmer as the 2-1 favorite in the field of 120 golfers which tees off Wednesday on the 6,757-yard, par-70 Royal Lytham and St. Annes course. Nicklaus is quoted at 7-1, four-time British Open champion Peter Thomson of Australia is rated at 8-1, and Australia's Kel Nagle is listed at 10-1.

Nicklaus' pessimism is caused by the "tight fairways" which he and other experts here insist favor Palmer's game.

"The fairways are much too tight for me," commented Nicklaus after a practice round on the championship course. "It's also very difficult to get on in two on most British courses if you stray into the rough, whereas in the United States you always have a good chance to make the green with your second shot no matter where the tee shot goes."

Palmer has won two of the last three tournaments in which he competed but he isn't taking anything for granted. In fact, he seems to be the only expert in England who thinks he may have a tough time winning.

"There are a lot of good golfers in this field," he commented. "It's an honor to be the favorite but it will be a tough battle."

The top prize in the British Open is only $4,200 compared with some of the huge winner's pots Palmer has hauled in en route to his $85,545 in earnings so far this year. But Palmer says the prestige is every bit as important as the money — perhaps more so.

"The main purpose of competing in the British Open is because it's still a great prestige event, and I wish there were more," he says.

The field will play 18 holes each on Wednesday and Thursday with the top 45 scorers and ties playing the final 36 holes Friday.

Mrs. Pascuzzi links winner for 2nd time

Mrs. Amel Pascuzzi of Vancouver, Wash., won a sudden death playoff Saturday at Bend Golf Club to take top honors in the women's Mirror Pond Golf Tournament for the second straight year.

Mrs. Pascuzzi defeated Mrs. George Calderwood of Eugene in the playoff. They had tied in the two day tournament with scores of 166.

Mrs. A. C. Stipe of Bend was runner-up in low gross division with a total of 171.

Mrs. M. W. Waugh of Bend was runner-up with the low net division of the 0-15 handicappers with 152.

Other results:
15-25: LOW GROSS: Mrs. Vern Larson, Bend, 191. Mrs. E. C. Stranahan, Redmond, 199. LOW NET: Mrs. Earl Boothe, Redmond, 157. Mrs. Chet Coryell, Bend, 160.
26-35: LOW GROSS: Mrs. Jerry Houston, Longview, 217. Mrs. Harry Sly, Redmond, 225. LOW NET: Mrs. Gordon Randall, Bend, 164. Mrs. Phil White, Corvallis, 169.

Dodgers grab two from Cincinnati

Fireballing Koufax hurls eighth shutout; Spahnne gets his fourth

By Joe Sargis
UPI Staff Writer
Okay, baseball experts, who is the National League's top left-handed pitcher, Warren Spahn or Sandy Koufax?

If you are a Spahn fan you can quote statistics to back your argument all day long, and maybe through the night, too. Koufax fans can wrap up their argument in a hurry, mostly because Sandy hasn't been around nearly as long as the soon-to-be-43 Spahn. But they are imposing figures at that.

Koufax, who was only seven years old when Spahn began his major league career with the Boston Braves in 1942, hurled his eighth shutout of the season Sunday, only two short of the National League record of 10 set by Mort Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1942, as the NL leading Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Cincinnati Reds, 4-0, in the first game of a doubleheader.

Spahn matched that performance about six hours later when he set the Houston Colts down on five hits in a 4-0 victory. It was Spahn's fourth shutout of the season and the 59th of his long career.

over the second-place San Francisco Giants to three games.

The Giants split their doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals, winning the first in 15 innings, 4-3, and the Cards taking Baltimore Orioles edged the Minnesota Twins in 10 innings, 4-3; the Chicago White Sox nipped the Boston Red Sox in 12 innings, 4-1, and Detroit and Kansas City split the Tigers winning the first game 5-1, and the A's the nightcap, 8-7.

Boyer Fumbles Grounder

The Giants struggled for three hours and 55 minutes before beating the Cardinals in their opener, the winning run coming across when Ken Boyer fumbled pinch-hitter Jose Pagan's grounder with the bases loaded and one out in the bottom of the 15th inning.

Bill White's 14th homer gave the Cards a 3-2 lead in the 13th but the Giants got that one back on a single by rookie Jim Hart and a double by Eddie Bailey.

Stan Musial rapped a two-run homer in the seventh of the nightcap to break a scoreless tie and the Cards went on to score three more in the ninth as Bob Gibson picked up his eighth victory. Juan Marchal (13-4) was the loser. A crowd of 42,787, the largest turnout in Candlestick Park's history, saw the doubleheader.

The Philadelphia Phillies beat the Cubs on Cookie Rojas' ninth-inning single and clutch pitching by Dallas Green. Green came on to get the final out after Ryne Duren filled the bases on successive walks to Billy Williams, Ron Santo and Ernie Banks. Jack Baldschun (6-4) was the winner in relief of Art Mahaffey.

The Pirates, who rapped New York pitching for 17 hits on Saturday night, kept right on going with another 15-hit assault, featured by homers by Smokey Burgess, Bob Bailey and Donn Clendenon. It was the Mets' 10th straight loss.

Jack Kearns Greatest con man of them all dies at 81

By Oscar Fraley
UPI Staff Writer
CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — There's no way today to explain or fill the vacuum.

You know the phone won't ring anymore in the middle of the night with a call from San Diego, or maybe Stockholm. No more will you hear that vibrant voice announcing flippantly:

"I'm wheelin' and dealin' here but I'll see you in a couple of days. Got something big cookin' but just wanted to see how you were doin'."

For two years you sat with him, off and on, writing his life story and he led you by the hand through the raucous days of the West, up the Barbary Coast and on into the Roaring '20s, the thirsty '30s, the furious '40s, and on through the years which seemed without ending.

But not any more.

For Jack (Doc) Kearns is dead just a month short of his 81st birthday.

Speaks of Future

You saw him early last week and, while he was thin and had his right arm in a cast after breaking his wrist in a fall, he still spoke of the only thing that actually concerned him, namely the future. The pale blue eyes and the crooked grin still gave him the look of a larcenous leprechaun.

He had known them all through the years... the Prince of Wales and a young engineer in the Klondike named Herbert Hoover... Klondike Kate and Texas Guinan... Jack London and Ernest Hemingway... Diamond Jim Brady and Toots Shore... Al Capone and Frankie Carbo... John McGraw and Joe DiMaggio.

They'll remember him best as the man who made Jack Dempsey and the million-dollar gate. But he managed seven other world champions, including Mickey Walker and Archie Moore, and threw away the millions he made faster than it came in.

"They think what I needed more than any of my fighters," he chuckled, "was a manager."

Some of them called him the buccaneer of the boxing world. To others he was the all-time king of the con men.

Loads The Gloves

"Sure there were times I loaded the gloves," he said as he sat in that big four-poster bed last Wednesday. "What happened to those other fellows was their business. I looked out for me and my own."

"Just like now," he added vehemently. "I gotta get out of this bed and get back out to Vegas for that Liston fight. In a year I expect to have my new boy, Jefferson Davis, in their fighting for the title."

He had been everywhere and

Koufax nears mound zenith with Dodgers

By Alex Kahn
UPI Staff Writer
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A more mature and confident Sandy Koufax today eagerly looked forward to the second half of the major league season in which he would need only to come close to his performances thus far to emerge as one of baseball's greatest pitchers.

The brilliant left-handed hurler went into the annual break for the all-star game Sunday by hurling his second straight shutout, his eighth of the season and his 14th win as well as his seventh consecutive victory in blanking the Cincinnati Reds, 4-0.

That win along with Nick Willite's 3-1 victory in the second game put the Los Angeles Dodgers three games ahead of the San Francisco Giants in the tight National League race.

A dazzling array of statistics were unfolded after Koufax recorded his shutout against the Reds Sunday. The soft-spoken southpaw leads the National League in earned run average with a mark of 1.73, in shutouts with eight, in strikeouts with 150, in complete games with 12 and in victories with 14.

"I'm not trying to overpower hitters with my fast ball now," Koufax said after recording his second straight shutout of the home stand. "I work more on trying to set up a batter for my pitch."

"It used to be that I was wild and so I tried to throw my fast ball past the batter for a strike. As a result, I got a lot of strikeouts but I also walked more men, and gave up more hits."

Koufax has an average of slightly better than one strikeout an inning for his major league career but he fanned only four men in Sunday's game and it didn't bother him.

"I'd just as soon have a batter swing at the first ball and pop it to one of our fielders as strike him out," Koufax continued. "And I got great defensive support both in yesterday's game and all season."

Working against Cincinnati's Bob Purkey, Koufax gave up only three hits, all singles, and allowed only one man to get as far as second base. His eight shutouts was the best mark since Mort Cooper recorded 10 shutouts in 1942 for an entire season.

Junior Loop pitchers tired as Tuesday's All-Star game nears

By Leo H. Peterson
UPI Staff Writer
CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — American League managers, putting the pennant race ahead of everything else, had Ralph Houk backed into an All-Star corner today.

Houk was faced with an "either-or" dilemma — whether to go with Ken McBride of the Los Angeles Angels, who will have had two days rest for Tuesday's 34th All-Star game, or his own rookie right-hander, Jim Bouton of the Yankees, who pitched two-thirds of an inning Sunday.

Meanwhile, Alvin Dark of the National League had well-rested southpaw Jim O'Toole of Cincinnati ready to go, and because of the uncertainty of the American League pitching, the Nationals were 3-2 favorites although playing in an American League park.

"If they let me, I'll name an either-or pitcher," said Houk, who was scheduled to name his starting hurler at a press conference today. "If they don't, well, I don't know which pitcher I'll name."

The press conference was scheduled for 10 a.m. EDT.

Available As Starters

Houk, directing the American League All-Stars for the third time, had Bouton, McBride and Bill Monbouquette of the Red Sox available as starting possibilities.

McBride pitched Friday night while Monbouquette worked in relief Sunday, as did Bouton.

"I'd like to start someone with at least two days rest," Houk said.

That seemed to narrow the field to McBride, but Houk still could name Bouton, who said he wasn't tired after Sunday's brief stint against Cleveland.

Another possibility, Jim Bunning of Detroit who has been brilliant in four previous All-Star games, pitched Sunday, as did reliever Dick Radatz of the Red Sox. That left only Jim Grant of the Indians and Juan Pizarro of the White Sox, but Houk wasn't considering either of them as a starter.

Loaded With Right-Handers

"The National League is loaded with too much right-handed hitting power to start a left-hander against them," Houk explained. "And I want to keep Grant and his fast ball, in case a spot situation comes up."

Houk said he would like to talk to the pitchers he has at his command before making his decision, but he pointed out that some of them will not arrive here until late today. As a matter of fact, neither club scheduled a workout at Municipal Stadium, where the game will be played starting at 1 p.m. EDT Tuesday, because so many of the players on the squad will not be here until late today.

Shirley makes it two in row

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — You can be sure that Shirley Englehorn of Los Angeles won't miss next year's Lady Carling Eastern Open golf tournament.

The $10,000 tournament won first place in her heart Sunday as she sank a five-foot putt on the 18th hole to capture the championship for the second consecutive year.

The 22-year-old Miss Englehorn, publicity director of the Ladies Professional Golf Association, had failed to win a major tournament since her victory in the same tournament last year.

The final putt gave her a one-under-par 71. Her 54-hole score was a five-under-par 221, two strokes better than three-time National Amateur champion Jo Anne Gunderson of Providence, R.I.

BREAKS WORLD MARK
MORGAN CITY, La. (UPI) — Ben Trumbo of Miami, piloting his Second Mortgage around the five-mile Lake Palourde course at 63.336 miles per hour, broke his own world's record in winning the American Power Boat Association's E-service ramabout eastern divisional championship Sunday.
