Historic ranch going on block

Special to The Bulletin

PRINEVILLE — An historic Crook County ranch, located on the new road to the Prineville reservoir, is to be auctioned in 160-acre tracts in Portland on July 15, according to an advertisement of the sale received here.

The ranch is the spread well known to oldtime residents as the Day Creek Ranch, or the "Yancey place," southeast of Prineville. Some 13,000 acres of deeded land were sold by the Yancey family to Barney Corbin and Merton Schwartz on April 11.

Mrs. and Mrs. Don Yancey and family, living on the ranch at the time, later moved to a small acreage near Prineville.

The ranch was originally owned, according to the memory of members of the family, by famed Colonel Nye who figured in epoch-making events during the settlement of Crook County, including the cattle and sheep wars.

The ranch was later purchased by Steve Yancey, sold, and repurchased by Mr. and Mrs. Don Yancey some years ago.

Auction sale is to be held in the Portland Sheraton Hotel following free flights over the ranch area by prospective customers next weekend.

Lantz named board chairman

Special to The Bulletin

REDMOND — Norman Lantz was named chairman of the Redmond Union High School board of directors for the 1963-64 school year at its organization meeting Monday at the school.

Dan Kilgore was named vice chairman. Mrs. Neil Shive, clerk, administered the oath of office to Lantz and Dr. Robert L. Unger, who were elected last spring.

Two grade school directors, Pershing Andrews and Robert Whittier, and the grade district clerk, Mrs. Marjorie Robinson, were on hand to assist with opening bids on furnace oil and gasoline. Representatives of five oil firms also were in attendance. Bids of Mid-Oregon Oil Company for both gasoline and furnace oil for the bus garage were accepted, having been the lowest received. The bid from Deschutes Farmers' Cooperative for fuel oil for the high school building was accepted.

The group voted to ask for bids for construction of a new exit to the high school. It was announced that Clyde Talbot, bus manager, had left by plane July 5 for Lima, Ohio, where he will pick up a new school bus. He planned to be back in Redmond by July 12.

Rural fire district may buy rig

The Rural Fire Protection District 2, Board is negotiating today with the Capital Fire Equipment Company on its bid for sale of a new tanker rig, to be purchased by the district and donated to the City of Bend.
