

Nats ho-hum to 5-3 win

Mays saves All-Star clash from being merely routine

By Leo H. Petersen
UPI Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — The 34th All-Star game proved little or nothing, except that Willie Mays, even at 27, will may be the greatest star of them all. He batted in what proved to be the winning run, set two All-Star records and tied another as he led the National League to a 5-3 triumph over the American League before 44,160 fans in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.

It was a gold-star performance in what was a lack-lustre game. Mays saved it from being routine. And while he was the hero, it was manager Ralph Houk's own players from his mighty New York Yankees who turned out to be the goats. Bobby Richardson, his usually flawless fielding second baseman, messed up a play that eventually resulted in setting up a fifth inning run which turned out to be the difference.

And it was Joe Pepitone, another flashy fielder, who let that run score.

Series Near Even

It was a game which brought the National League to within one victory of being even with its rival circuit in this competition which goes back 30 years—and which saw among other things:

—The pitcher who gave up the most runs and most hits—Larry Jackson of the Cubs—being the winner as the National League won its 18th game against 17 defeats in what is billed as one of baseball's top events.

—The pitcher who pitched the best—except for a base on balls and that error by Richardson—was the loser. That would be Jim Bunning, the right-hander of the Detroit Tigers, who suffered his first All-Star defeat.

—A superb two innings of clutch pitching—the eighth and ninth innings—by fast-ball side wheeler Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

—The littlest guy on either team collecting the longest hit, a double by Albie Pearson, the fine center fielder of the Los Angeles Angels.

—A game in which National League All-Star manager Al Dark of the San Francisco Giants made good his pre-game claim "we'll win". It made his All-Star record as a manager, 1-0, completing a new All-Star cycle—first as a player, then as a coach and finally as a manager.

Big Inning

There was what turned out to be that big fifth—the inning that produced the "gift" unearned run.

Bunning was pitching and the score was 3-3 when Tommy Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers led off with a walk. After Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves flied out, St. Louis Cardinal first baseman Bill White hit a ground ball to third baseman Frank Malzone of the Boston Red Sox.

Malzone, off balance, rifled a throw to second and Richardson, who had been playing deep with a left-handed hitter at the plate, appeared to be a little late covering the base. The ball bounced off Richardson's glove and rolled into center field, Davis racing to third.

"The ball was right on the bag, I should have had it," said Richardson. He accepted the stigma for the American League defeat because, in addition to that play, he grounded into double plays both times he was at bat.

Then young Pepitone came into the spotlight. He scooped up a ground ball hit by Mays and it looked like he would have had Davis out by 10 feet had he thrown to the plate. He elected, after a moment's hesitation, to throw to first instead.

"I thought Pepitone made the right play," Houk said later in the dressing room. "If he had missed the runner at home, it might have opened the way for a big rally. It was only the fifth inning and we couldn't afford to gamble on that play. We had only been to bat four times at that point."

Mays helped. He went against the wire fence in centerfield to take an extra-base hit away from the unfortunate Pepitone in the eighth inning.

Before that he had: —Stolen first in the second inning after getting on with a walk to break his all-Star stolen base record of three. Later he was to steal his second base of the game, and a new record fifth in the competition.

—Scored two runs to boost his All-Star record to 15. Willie tallied his 14th run in the second inning and his 15th in the following frame.

—Got his 20th hit, a single in the third—tying him with Musial for the most hits by any player in All-Star competition—although he is hitting only .271 for the Giants.

As it turned out, the American League might just as well have given up their next five times at bat.

FENCE BUILDERS—City employees Benny Hamilton and Les Bryan are shown putting sheet metal panels in place on the new Bend Municipal Ball Park fence. Construction of the new fence began last year, with the entire old fence slated for replacement. The new fence has extended all outfield distances by about 30 feet. Work being done above is on the south side of the field, with only the east fence remaining to be replaced.

Maybe one more

Marvelous Stan makes his 24th game, looks to 25th

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Well, maybe one more.

That was the wistful sentiment of Stan (The Man) Musial, who appeared in his 24th All-Star game Tuesday and promptly looked forward to playing in possibly his 25th a year from now.

"I sure hope this isn't my last one," grinned the 42-year-old St. Louis Cardinals' slugger, indicating for the first time he may be back in harness again next season.

"Of course, it's a little early to tell for sure what my plans are for next year," he said. "It depends on a number of things. Like how the young outfielders on our club come along, for example."

Musial served merely as a pinch hitter Tuesday for the victorious National League, flying out for pitcher Larry Jackson in the fifth inning. But that didn't keep the partisan American League crowd of 44,160 at Municipal Stadium from giving him the biggest hand of the day when he stroled to the plate to face Detroit pitcher Jim Bunning.

"I really like these games," he said with the honest enthusiasm of a kid after the contest was over. "Of course, I've got to admit I was much more excited about it when I played in my first one, but I still get a big kick out of being in them."

Before the game even started, the veteran Cardinal outfielder was questioned on whether he might decide to play next year merely because of the opportunity of setting a few more important records. But he said that wouldn't necessarily influence him.

"Those records are all right,"

he said, "and there always seems to be another one in view but at this stage of the game they're not that vital. I don't think my decision on whether or not to keep playing would hinge on any records."

When he returned to the Yankees he came down with measles. He is, this little man, a real champion. And that goes for whether you're talking about off, or on, the diamond.

Bobby proved it when he refused to alibi. The real story is that he needed none.

The Twins had their beer and cigarette licenses renewed for six months Tuesday night when they advanced the Bloomington City Council $24,696.23 to sidestep a dispute between the council and the city of Milwaukee.

The club's license to sell beer

The Bloomington City Council refused to renew the licenses when Minneapolis declined to allow payment of assessments totaling $156,000, which covered part of the costs of street improvements, sewer and water lines around the stadium.

Minneapolis has filed suit in Hennepin County District Court to have the assessments voided. Minneapolis claims a city of the first class cannot be assessed. It has obtained a court order that the unpaid assessment installments should not be considered delinquent as long as the case is unsettled.

The $24,696.23 advanced to Bloomington by the Twins represents this year's installment on the assessments.

The Bloomington City Council also passed a resolution Tuesday night ordering the Metropolitan Area Sports Commission to reimburse the Twins for their payment and to make payment of the installments falling due in the future.

The Twins' licenses were renewed by unanimous vote, but the motion to renew the Stadium Club licenses was tabled until Monday following a 3-3 vote.

Hero today, bum next? Not Bobby

By Oscar Fraley
UPI Staff Writer

CLEVELAND (UPI) — There's a saying in the sports world that one day you're a hero and the next day you're a bum—and yet little Bobby Richardson never could fit into that latter category.

He's a pro, this chunky, undersized man with the glistening blue eyes. And a real champion.

He proved it beyond debate when he didn't alibi his performance in the 34th All-Star Game.

It's on the record that the National League won this so-called classic by a 5-3 score. The winning run was let in by little Bobby, at least in the eyes of the official scorers.

Even that is debatable.

Fires To Second

Tommy Davis of the Dodgers was on first base with a walk in the top of the fifth, with the score tied at three-all, and there was one away when Cardinal Bill White rapped a sizzler down to Boston's Frank Malzone at third. Malzone did a comic skating act and handcuffing the ball, fired toward the sack at second.

Richardson didn't say it, but he was playing deep at second against the left-handed hitting White. So he had a far piece to go to get to second base.

Maybe he got a late break and it will stand in the record book that the ball trickled off his glove into center field and Davis wound up on third. At this juncture, wondrous Willie Mays tapped a roller to first—and many people believe — Yankee Joe Pepitone could easily have fired to the plate and caught Davis in a walk. Instead he ran down Mays and Davis scored the "gift" winning run.

The Nats added another later, but the onus was on Richardson and his rather debatable error.

"I was running hard when I took the throw over second base but it was right on the bag," little Bobby said staunchly.

Ignores Pepitone's Play

No mention, by him, of Pepitone's failure to take a 75-25 gamble on the throw to the plate.

He knew, of course, that he would wind up the "goat," but the little guy from Sumter, S.C., didn't cop a plea, even after hitting into two double plays.

He's accustomed to keeping his chin stiff.

Last year in the World Series, little Bobby made the final put-out that gave the Yankees their victory over the San Francisco Giants, a year, incidentally, in which he lost the league's Most Valuable Player honors to Mickey Mantle. And of which the Mick said:

"I feel that Richardson should have had it without question."

That's tough? A month ago, Bobby lost his father.

When he returned to the Yankees he came down with measles. He is, this little man, a real champion. And that goes for whether you're talking about off, or on, the diamond.

Bobby proved it when he refused to alibi. The real story is that he needed none.

Rodeo queen naming due

SPECIAL TO THE BULLETIN
FORT ROCK — North Lake County misses between 16 and 21 will compete at 2:00 p.m. July 21, at the Christmas Valley rodeo arena where one will be named queen of the second annual Christmas Valley rodeo set for July 27-28.

The Sage Riders, local horse club, are sponsoring the events. Bud Baert heads rodeo plans, assisted by Doug Houston and Austin McClister. Mrs. Johnny Pettus is program chairman, with Mrs. Kenyon Morehouse in charge of publicity.

Girls who are residents of the Paisley, Summer Lake, Silver Lake, Fort Rock and Christmas Valley communities are eligible to compete for the queen title. Applications are to be turned in to the club secretary, Mrs. Jack Gillette, Christmas Valley, by July 17. Play day events will also be part of the July 21 queen and princess selections. Judging in the royalty contest will be based on 60 per cent for horsemanship; and 40 per cent personality.

Events scheduled for the jackpot rodeo include: bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, team roping, calf roping, bull dogging, reined cow cutting and cow riding. A saddle will go to the all around cowboy.

Junior competition will include barrel racing, a carrier race and a cowhide race. Trophies will be awarded to the junior winners. Another event will be ladies' barrel racing.

Kenyon Morehouse is president of the recently organized horse club.
