Rep. Cannon predicts tax law defeat

Problems that will face Oregon if the legislature's tax proposal is referred to the people and defeated were mentioned by Rep. Kessler Cannon in a talk to Bend Lions here Tuesday noon. If the tax plan is referred, Cannon believes, it will be defeated.

"What next?" Cannon asked in outlining possible avenue of approach to a solution. If the tax vote should be close, he anticipated that the legislature will be called back into session. Cannon said he believes there is "a crying need for tax reform" in Oregon, especially a change that would broaden the tax base. The sales tax proposal was discussed.

Rep. Cannon was introduced by Glenn O. Ratcliff, Lions' president.

Gary Davis, Lions' representative at the Oregon State University 4-H summer school, was a guest of the club and reported on the school. Gary is president of the Bend Empire Builders' 4-H group.
