

Buildings at Redmond Air Center to begin going up

Construction of the first phase buildings at the Redmond Air Center under a $331,944 contract will start Monday.

This was decided here Wednesday at a pre-work conference attended by architects, contractors, U.S. Forest Service officials and sub-contractors. DeGree Construction Co., of Bend has the general contract for the work and Phil DeGree will serve as superintendent of construction for his firm. Workers will be hired from the area.

Architects, Franks and Norman, Portland, were represented by Barney Franks, Dick Norman and Simon Stanich. Representing the architects on the job will be Stanich.

Also represented were members of heating and plumbing firms. Frank Wallisch, from the division of operations, regional office, represented the Forest Service. Also present were H. E. Olsen, Wallisch's assistant, and J. J. Mastrandrea, who will be on the ground as Forest Service representative. A. A. Poust, Deschutes supervisor, and Joe Campbell of the Deschutes staff, joined in the conference.

Portland Forest Service officials came here by plane, with Air Officer Wally Tower as pilot.

One phase of the Redmond Air Center project, excavation, has already been completed under a $23,900 contract awarded Babler Bros., with Jack Robinson doing the work.

The first phase of Redmond Air Center construction calls for a paraloft, a 100 man mess hall and a 25 man barracks. The center will be developed over a period of several years, with the first phase to be finished around March, 1964.

The development will be on a 75 acre tract leased from the Redmond Airport Commission.

Sage is wilted by aerial spray

Special to The Bulletin
FORT ROCK — Wilted sagebrush and rabbit brush at several Fort Rock and Silver Lake ranches makes promising a good kill from aerial spraying. The spray program, with ranchers pooling acreages to secure a better price offer, was arranged through the Lake County Extension Service, with Bill Moser in charge.

Done in early June when brush is growing rapidly, this type of range improvement is on the increase. It does away with the wind erosion problem which accompanies plowing of brush.

Sites are selected which have heavy growth of brush, indicating better soil. Native grasses can then use the moisture which had gone to the brush. Some ranchers will do some fall seeding of crested wheat or tall wheat grasses.

Ranchers who took part in this year's spray program were Richard Morehouse, Maurice Ward and Bud Parks, Fort Rock, and Dudley Long and Jess Penington at Silver Lake. Each rancher provided flagmen to insure spraying of the right location.

Paul Ortwein of Lakeview provided the equipment, with Merle Williams of Bellingham, Wash., piloting the Callair spray craft.

TEENAGE DANCES PLANNED—Mike Brandis and Anita Leagjeld, local Bend High Schoolers, help make plans for teenage summer dance program. Teenagers met Wednesday with recreation director Vince Genna to do the planning. The first dance will be held Tuesday, July 23, at Juniper Park, from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

City fathers reject 'spot' zone change

By Gerald Drapeau
Bulletin Staff Writer
Bend city commissioners at Wednesday's regular session turned down a requested "spot" zone change but followed that motion with another which could make the change possible at a later date.

Denied authority to build a fourplex apartment in a single-family dwelling zone was Section Smith, 20 Drake Road. To build the structure Smith needs the property amended from an R-2 (single-family dwelling) to an R-4 (multiple-family dwelling) zone. His proposed site is at the Drake Road - Newport intersection.

The board's decision was partly in compliance with a negative recommendation submitted by the planning commission, and partly out of fear of possible litigation. Some neighboring residents are opposed to the zone change.

Attorney Alvin J. Gray, representing Smith, addressed the board at considerable length. He remarked that Bend is not enjoying the development of apartment homes as are other Oregon cities of comparable size because of the rigid zoning ordinance. Spot-zoning, he said, is largely a misnomer, and should be handled in accordance with a flexible zoning policy.

Gray also cited the most recent Oregon Supreme Court decision on spot zoning (Shaffner vs. City of Salem, 1954) as evidence that the state looks with favor on such amendments when they benefit a city's general welfare. Following the denial, commissioners adopted a resolution recommending that multiple dwellings be added to a list of "additional uses" in the zoning law. By public hearing, any of these uses could be added to those now permitted.

In other business the commission appointed a two-man committee composed of Dr. C. J. Rice and Leon Devereaux to meet next week for discussion with a group of horse owners protesting an existing ruling on the keeping of livestock. A model ordinance, submitted by the group as a replacement measure, was discussed by the board but not accepted. An attempt will be made to combine some features of the model ordinance with those of the current ruling.

Commissioners also:
1. Adopted resolutions to proceed with paving operations on E. Fifth Street from Burnside to Clay, and on E. Burdette from E. Fifth to Sixth Streets.
2. Gave second reading to an ordinance changing a strip of blocks on E. Third between Revere and Xerxes from an R-2 (residential) to C-3 (commercial) zone.

Bend teenagers working on plan for weekend dances

By Jane Brown,

Industrious teenagers of Bend High School, with the help of the recreation department, are working on a plan for weekly teenage dances.

The first dance, which will be a trial balloon for interest in the idea, will be held Tuesday, July 23 at Juniper Park recreation area. Live music for dancing, from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., will be supplied by The Statesmen, a local group.

Moist weather has reduced fire danger

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE — The recent unusually cool and moist weather has slowed the drying of vegetation in the Ochoco National Forest with a resulting lower number of forest fires, according to C. L. Clark, forest supervisor.

Critical weather could come at any time, and could change the picture in a day or two however, it was emphasized. The apparent lessening of fire danger should not diminish caution in the forest, he pointed out.

Current conditions could favor a holding-over of a fire, to break out later during a hot sunny day. Southern slopes are also dry, and fire would start easily in these locations.

Praise was given to the thousands of rockhounds who swarmed through the forest during the recent rockhound Pow Wow, and the continuing caution of campers. Only two or three man-caused fires are listed thus far this season, a figure lower than in former years.

BOATS WERE WARNED
EASTBOURNE, England (UPI)—All shipping in the English Channel was warned Wednesday night to watch out for a floating depth charge.

zation will be done by the teenagers. Interested teenagers convened Wednesday with Vince Genna, recreation director. Committee assignments were made.

Dorothy Crouch, a sophomore, is in charge of concessions. Soft drinks will be available for the dancers. A wiener and marshmallow roast is also being planned.

Tina Larson is in charge of publicity. Other girls at the meeting were Glenda Alford, Earlene Cornett and Anita Leagjeld.

Local boys will be in charge of moving necessary equipment, setting it up and cleaning up the area. Mike Brandis, Bob Warrington, and Larry Gelbrich have shown interest in the idea.

Any high schoolers who would like to help may contact the recreation department for information.

If interest is shown in the first dance, which will be "stag or drag," additional plans will be made. The Statesmen are playing for free the first night and contributions will be accepted.

Activities such as car washes or cake sales were ideas brought up as means of raising money for paying for the band and concessions at future dances.

Identification badges will be issued each week to keep the participants within the high school age limit. Guest privileges can be arranged.

Local teenagers will either make or break the dance idea. If interest is shown and privileges aren't abused, a summer activity will have been organized.

Exposure report

A nine-year-old Bend girl told city police Friday that a man in a "dirty white car" exposed himself to her while she was walking over to a friend's house.

She said he parked in front of the Reid-Thompson school and called her over to the car window.

He was described in his twenties, wearing a white T-shirt and grey pants. Police are investigating.

Oregon has biennium surplus of $2 million

SALEM (UPI)—The State of Oregon ended the 1961-63 biennium with a surplus of nearly $2 million, State Finance Director Freeman Holmer announced today.

The figure is well over $1 million more than expected when the 1963 legislature closed up shop early last month.

Holmer also estimated that under the new tax program passed by the 1963 legislature the state would end the 1963-65 biennium with a $4.9 million surplus.

Holmer said today that unexpected increases in corporation excise tax collections and state liquor revenues last month were responsible for the additional $1 million in the 1961-63 surplus.

The state ended the biennium with $1,943,779.

Holmer said corporation tax collections in June were $608,000 more than was anticipated and that the liquor commission raised $437,000 more than was expected.

Personal and corporation tax collections for the biennium amounted to $233,775,532, which was $22 million less than the 1961 legislature had estimated in preparing the 1961-63 budget.

However, state spending was cut from $365 million to $358 million.

In order to balance the last biennium's budget the state also transferred $3.5 million from the veterans loan sinking fund to the general fund.

Liquor sales during the biennium brought in $3 million more than was anticipated in 1961 while gift and inheritance taxes produced an added $4.8 million and interest earnings were $1.4 million over estimates.

Dairy plant to remain in Redmond

Special to The Bulletin
REDMOND — Two hundred Central Oregon dairymen, faced with loss of their market with the announced closure August 1 of Borden Milk Company, Redmond and Albany operations, learned today that a market will exist after all.

Jack Everhard, who sold Everhard's creamery to Borden five years ago, announced today he will re-open the plant under its former name. Butter-making will continue, and he plans to set up facilities for manufacturing powdered milk.

Closure of the Redmond and Albany Borden plants, says Everhard, was brought about by the ever-lessening demand for evaporated milk as more modern products appear on the market, and should cast no reflection on the management. He said no price drop is anticipated.

Everhard has been in ill health for the past year and will undergo surgery soon in Portland. He will be assisted at the plant by his wife Nelda and son Dick, who was graduated from Redmond Union High School last spring.

The Everhards came to Redmond 12 years ago from The Dalles. A past president of the Redmond Chamber of Commerce, he says his main reason for opening the plant is to provide a steady market for the many dairymen who are just now becoming established in the area.

Caucus confab for auxiliary

A district No. 5 caucus for the American Legion and auxiliary will be held Sunday, July 21, at the Legion Hall in Madras. Potluck dinner will be served at 1:30 p.m. preceding the meetings, according to Mrs. Paul Patrick of Wasco, district auxiliary president.

Delegates will elect a district commander and auxiliary president for the coming year. Several department officers are expected to attend.

All members of the two organizations are invited to attend. All those participating are asked to bring potluck dishes for the dinner.

All-church picnic to be Sunday

Special to The Bulletin
