Bandits flee with $5,300

LAKE OSWEGO (UPI)—Three men intimidated employees of the Benjamin Franklin Savings and Loan office here this morning and escaped with $5,300.

The men walked into the office shortly after it opened. One simulated a gun in his pocket and forced manager Charles Olson and cashier Carol Tuttle into a back room, where their hands were tied with wire.

Renno-Giller vows exchanged

Police later chased a car 30 miles down Interstate Freeway 5 at 90 miles an hour in the belief they were after the bandits. When they stopped the vehicle the occupants did not match descriptions of the fugitives and they denied all knowledge of the crime.

Probe is made in drowning

PORTLAND (UPI)—The Coast Guard Monday began an investigation into the drowning of a 2-year-old boy at Kalama, Wash., a day earlier.

Steven Anthony Aldrich, Kalama, perished Sunday when he was swept into the Columbia River by a large wave from the wake of the freighter Philippine Mail, bound upriver for Portland.

The child's body was recovered Monday by a skindiver.

Capt. Emery H. Joyce, officer in charge of the Coast Guard investigation, said an opinion would be appearing shortly.

Released at a hearing here Monday were David Lani, the Helmsman; Wayne E. Lien, third mate and watchman on the bridge; Roy Morgan, second mate, who also was on the bridge; Capt. Jack E. Smith, the pilot, and Capt. Eddo H. Feyen, the ship's master.
Capt. Feyen estimated the ship's speed was about nine miles an hour. He said the mariner hull on the Philippine Mail produces a greater suction than other types of hulls and they have "greater trouble with their wash" than other hulls.
Morgan testified that the pilot had noticed the wash was "a little high" and told him to slow down.

Probe is made in drowning

MADRAS
Geraldine Althea Robinson, Portland, was cited Monday by city police on charges of failing to obey a traffic sign. She posted $10 bail.

Masons to meet at Crater Lake

Master Masons will hold their 15th annual outdoor meeting at Crater Lake National Park on Saturday, August 3. It is sponsored by Crater Lake Lodge No. 211, AF&AM of Klamath Falls.

The first section will take place at 10 a.m. and McKenzie River Lodge of Eugene will put on the second section at 1:30 p.m. A dinner at 5 p.m. will bring the meeting to a close.

The Jackson County Shrine Club Chanters will entertain the Masons during the meeting.

Last year's meeting attracted over 300 Masons from all sections of the country and a larger number is expected this year.

Signs will be placed, marking the route to the meeting site. Visitors may get directions from national park officers.

WALTON
Geraldine Althea Robinson, Portland, was cited Monday by city police on charges of failing to obey a traffic sign. She posted $10 bail.
