Scholtes named to PP & L post

Appointment of William L. Scholtes of Portland to be administrative assistant to Howard Arnett, recently named the Central Division manager for Pacific Power & Light Company's newly established division headquarters in Bend, was announced Wednesday.

Scholtes has been the district office manager for the large Portland district since October, 1959, and previously was the company's district office manager at The Dalles for more than three years.

Prior to that PP&L district office management post he had worked in several positions in The Dalles office, where he started working for PP&L in 1946.

Except for one year away on military duty with the U.S. Marine Corps in 1950, Scholtes worked at The Dalles until he was promoted to the Portland position.

Briefing given on Newport pilot program

Lions of Bend at their weekly luncheon Tuesday were briefed on the pilot operations of Newport Industries in the Deschutes woods, in connection with the firm's studies of the economics of harvesting some 2,000,000 tons of old pine stumps.

Don E. Brown, Newport Industries logging superintendent, touched on the background of the extraction of chemicals from pine stumps, and the role of these chemicals in so-called naval stores. Brown showed pictures of pine - stump harvesting in the southern states.

Pat Metke, representing the Bend Chamber of Commerce industrial committee, introduced A. A. Faust, Deschutes National Forest supervisor, who touched on the huge amount of old pine stumps available in the Deschutes, Fremont and Winema National Forests.

Should the harvest of old stumps for their resin residue prove economical, the Hayden - Newport firm plans to establish a multi-million dollar plant in the Bend-Klamath area.

"Bend is a fine city, and we like it," Brown said.

Glenn Ratcliff, who heads the Lions as president, was in general charge of the meeting.

Bike licensing starts Thursday

Bend city police will license bicycles Thursday starting at 9 a.m. in police headquarters, Chief Emil Moen announced today.

All bicycles must be licensed, a city ordinance directs, but no fee is charged. Owners must bring their bikes with them.

Moen also cautions bike-riders to be heedful of the following frequently violated bike regulations:

1. Equip bikes with headlight and tail reflector.
2. Always keep to the extreme right of roadways and alleyways.
3. Give hand signals for turns and stops.
4. Observe stop signs.
5. Don't ride your bike on footbridges or on sidewalks in the business district.
6. Carry no passenger unless your bike is equipped to convey two persons.
7. When emerging from an alleyway give the right-of-way to pedestrians and autos.
8. Don't race with other bikes.

CITATION ISSUED

Charles Jefferson Dudley, 235 Broadway, collected a traffic citation this morning from city police charging him with making an illegal U-turn between intersections. Bail is $7.50.
