

Officials again huddle in NW lumber strike

PORTLAND (UPI) — Another contract negotiating meeting was held today between representatives of two striking lumber unions and the Big Six employers' bargaining association.

The session began at 9:30 a.m. at the Masonic Temple and was attended by Leroy Smith and George Walker, federal mediators.

Representatives of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) and the Lumber and Sawmill Workers (LSW) and the association met for 30 minutes Monday afternoon.

The Big Six negotiators asked that the meeting, which could pave the way to an end of the 7-day lumber strike in the Pacific Northwest, be recessed until today.

The unions announced Monday that its members at struck Georgia-Pacific Corp. plants had ratified a contract negotiated last week. It calls for a 30 1/2 cent hourly wage hike over three years.

About 5,000 men idled by the strike were expected to begin returning to work today.

The unions announced Monday that its members at struck Georgia-Pacific Corp. plants had ratified a contract negotiated last week. It calls for a 30 1/2 cent hourly wage hike over three years.

Acceptance would leave only an estimated 4,000 men idle in Oregon, Washington, Montana and Northern California — a majority of them at two struck Big Six companies, St. Regis Paper Co. and U.S. Plywood Co.

The LSW called a strike at Main Lumber Co. plants in Redding and Central Valley in California Monday but ended it Monday night.

The walkout began in the morning after negotiators for both sides deadlocked on a clause in the proposed agreement calling for the reopening of wage talks in the event of a workload increase. The union later agreed to eliminate it.

Some 150 men were idled at the two plants.

The proposed contract, which must be ratified by union workers, calls for a 30 1/2 cent hourly increase in wages and benefits during the next three years.

Couple on extended trip after wedding in Portland

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kinsman Davis, married recently in Portland, are on an extensive honeymoon trip in Canada, including stops at Banff and Lake Louise. They will be at home in Salem, where the bride will continue her studies.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Lewis and Clark College and Willamette Law School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Davis of Bend.

The bride, the former Donna Florine Dahlke, is the daughter of Mrs. Herbert John Dahlke of Portland and the late Mr. Dahlke.

An honor graduate of Whitman College, she is editor-in-chief of the Law Journal at Willamette Law School for the spring, and occupies first place on the school's National Moot Court team.

The wedding was an event at Trinity Episcopal Church in Portland. The bride, who spent 17 months traveling in Europe, borrowed old-country customs for the ceremony. She wore fresh flowers in her hair, in the German manner, choosing sterling silver roses for the crown of her headdress. Also adapted was the Greek tradition of carrying Jordan almonds tied with red ribbons and flowers, the seven almonds representing the bitterness and sweetness of life.

Miss Theodora Cokinaki was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jean Wallace, Mercer Island, Wash.; Miss Tracy Jane Austin, Boise, Idaho; Miss Judith Grace Hecker, Oysterville, Wash., and Mrs. H. Kent Dahlke, Portland.

Phillip Dean Hector, Portland, was best man. Ushers were John Hartley Newsom, Seattle, and Portland residents Nicholas Dean Lewis, Milton C. Sexton, Jackson Shrum and Theodore C. Kinney. H. Kent Dahlke escorted his sister to the altar.

Davis is affiliated with Phi Mu Alpha fraternity. The former Miss Dahlke is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and Phi Delta Phi honorary law fraternity, and was elected to Mortar Board.

Bend residents attending the wedding, in addition to the bridegroom's parents, were his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Sexton; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Arney and daughters, Gayle, Susan and Jackie, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Hill. Mrs. Sexton was one of the pourers at the reception at the Waverley Country Club.

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE — The Ochoco National Forest office reported late yesterday that about 26 fires were started on Ochoco National Forest land by Sunday's major lightning storm, with scant rain falling at scattered points. Another lightning storm was reported crackling over the summit of the Ochoco mountains late Monday.

Smoke jumpers were called in from Cave Junction and aerial tankers were on standby at the Redmond airbase in the event of a major trouble it was reported. An aerial patrol was maintained yesterday, picking up several new blazes and it is planned to keep aerial patrol on duty over the forest for several days, a spokesman stated. Supplies for fire fighters were dropped from planes Sunday afternoon.

Other fires were being fought on BLM and state forestry land Monday.

CHARGES FACED
Jack N. Vogt, Route 2, Box 170, Bend, was arrested yesterday for indecent exposure. He posted $200 bail and is awaiting trial in Deschutes County District Court.

Message sent to Sternberg
ASHLAND (UPI) — Some 550 delegates attending the Fellowship of Christian Athletes Conference said "hello" to injured University of Washington pole vaulter Brian Sternberg Monday night.

They delivered their message over a special telephone hookup to Sternberg's hospital room in Seattle. He then spoke to them over the hookup.

Sternberg had planned to attend the conference before being injured. His parents were here in his place.

The conference began Sunday and ends Friday. Many famous sports personalities are attending including the Rev. Bob Richards, former Olympic pole vaulter; Bob Pettit, star forward for the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association, and Jim Owens, head Washington football coach.

Officials view scene of Byers' 'belly landing'

Officials Monday looked over wreckage of the B-26 plane that was "belly landed" in a rye field when its left engine caught fire Sunday, and several agreed that the escape of Bill Byers, pilot, from at least serious injury was "near miraculous."

Byers, flying a bomber converted into a tanker and laden with bentonite, was on his way to a Warm Springs Reservation fire Sunday when the engine caught fire. As the flames spread, Byers dumped his load of bentonite. He had spotted a large rye field in the area, and decided to make a landing there. However, his cockpit filled with smoke.

Two Low to Jump
Deciding that he was too low to make a "chute jump," Byers decided to ride out the impending crash, and swerved into the rye field, owned by Don Williams, Lower Bridge rancher. Blinded by smoke, he brought the plane down, scarcely able to see the field or adjacent hazards — pine trees on one side, a fence on the other.

The plane came into the field at an estimated air speed of 120 miles an hour. Both engines were ripped off, and the fuselage, with Byers in the gliding cockpit, cut a swath through the rye. Behind him rolled the two engines, their propellers broken and twisted.

Byers, veteran of aerial combat in Italy in World War II, got out of the burning plane with only a few bruises and cuts, and, partly dazed, made his way to a nearby road, where he was picked up by Marshall Cleverger and taken to the Redmond hospital for checkup.

North of School
The plane crashed a short distance north of the Lower Bridge school, some 13 miles northwest of Redmond. The wreckage was kept intact until a CAA official made an investigation Monday.

The plane, owned by A. C. Stipe, Bend, was not covered by load insurance, the rate for slurry-carrying planes making such coverage prohibitive. However, public liability and property damage insurance was carried.

Deschutes National Forest officials stressed today that the loss of the Stipe plane, although regrettable, will in no way handicap fire control operations now handled out of the Redmond Air Base. Cal Butler, it was pointed out, has the primary contract for aerial fire control work out of Redmond.

Stipe will still have a plane and pilot available there, Butler has B-17 and F 7 F planes in Redmond and other F 7 F planes in Burns and Lakeview. The Burns and Lakeview planes, loaded with slurry, can quickly be brought into the area in an emergency.

Age law noted on cycle riding
Chief of Police Emil K. Moen warned parents in Bend today it is illegal for anyone under 16 or an unlicensed driver to operate lightweight motorcycles.

Moen said that since these two-wheelers are classified as motor vehicles, the same laws apply to their operation as those covering automobiles.

This means they must be operated by a licensed driver at least 16 years old. A 15-year-old who holds an instruction permit still is not allowed to drive a two-wheeler because the law excludes use of an instruction permit to operate a motorcycle.

Moen also warned parents that such vehicles offer little protection to the rider in a fall or collision, and that riders should be thoroughly familiar with the vehicles before attempting to operate them in traffic.

Missing boy found in garage
An eleven-year-old boy, who had been reported missing from his home since Sunday night, was discovered hiding in the family garage about 11 a.m. Monday.

Both state and city police conducted a search for the youth, Dennis Stilwell, after his mother, Mrs. Dale Stilwell, reported he had vanished through his bedroom window. He had lowered himself to the ground by means of a rope.

The Stilwells reside at 1455 Davenport.

Operation of film library explained to school board

By Bill Yates
Bulletin Staff Writer
Operation of a film library by the county school superintendent's office — a controversial issue at budget time last spring — was explained to members of the District No. 1 School Board at their monthly meeting last night.

On hand for the session were County School Superintendent David Potter and John Prentice, instructional materials director for District No. 1.

Potter presented cost figures for the film library in its first six months of operation, together with a projection of costs for continuation of the present film-purchase program over a seven-year period.

The bulk of the films are obtained through a lease — arrangement with film companies under which payments are spread over a seven-year period, after which the films become the property of the purchaser.

Figures Given
Potter reported that remaining lease costs for 429 films now in the library is $46,455. He set the purchase cost of films in the past year at $8,667.50, of which District No. 1 has contributed $5,256.84.

Under the purchase program, individual districts are reimbursed 50 per cent of the film cost by the federal government through the National Defense Education Act.

Other costs listed by Potter included: Materials such as film racks and cases, $667.85; travel and postage, $274, and employee salary (one-third of yearly wage), $1,200.

Potter questioned regarding the fate of the film center under school reorganization, or in the event that the office of county school superintendent is eliminated.

Noting that regardless of what eventually happens under reorganization "you can't eliminate the children" or the need for instructional films, Potter indicated several things which might happen:

1. A director could be hired to administer the library.

2. Films could be divided among the various districts in proportion to the amount of money paid into the program.

3. The films might be deposited with Central Oregon College.

In regard to the latter possibility, Potter said that a film library is now maintained by Eastern Oregon College.

Potter denied that he was using the film library as a means of perpetuating himself in office. He also told the board that a $7,500 a year assistant hired recently will work primarily in the field of curriculum coordination, and will function only as an overseer of the film program.

Prentice Satisfied
Prentice told the board he was satisfied with the value of the service to District No. 1 and indicated that he anticipated an increasing use of the library by teachers in District No. 1 if it is continued.

Last night's session was informational in nature. Any decision regarding continued participation in the program on the part of District No. 1 will be made at the time applications for film lease renewals are due early in 1964, it was indicated.

In other business, directors decided to continue the present policy of dividing the Bend school milk business among Bend Dairy, Medo-Land and AWE - Helphrey Dairy. The matter was brought before the board in response to a letter received by operators of Mountain View Dairy requesting that they be allowed to submit a bid to provide the Bend schools with milk in the coming school year.

The board also heard a progress report on a school construction from Superintendent R. E. Jewell in which he expressed optimism that the new Bear Creek School will be ready for occupancy by the start of the school year next month.

Chairman Richard Wayment presided at the meeting.

Hoffman rites due Thursday

Special to The Bulletin
REDMOND — Funeral services for Mrs. Rita Joan Hoffman, 49, of Redmond, will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. in Zacher's Chapel, with burial in Redmond Memorial Cemetery.

Mrs. Hoffman died instantly Sunday morning in a head-on collision on Highway 97 near Culver. Her daughters, Joan, 14, and Martha, 12, are under treatment at Central Oregon District Hospital. Joan is said to have improved considerably after being listed as critical for two days. Martha is in good condition.

Other survivors are Mrs. Hoffman's father, Charles Pirko, Redmond, and a sister, Mrs. Carole Peruben, Cresskill, N. J. Mrs. Peruben arrived today by plane to make funeral arrangements and be with the children.

The girls were orphaned by the accident, their father, Edward C. Hoffman, having died of a heart attack last November 6.

The family moved to Redmond nine years ago after Hoffman had retired from the New York City Police Department. They operated the Gold Shield Motel here and, after his death, Mrs. Hoffman taught piano students in the area.
