Conservation workshops held at the Hoodoo Ski Lodge for the past three weeks ended Friday night, clearing the way for a camping and outdoor recreation school that will start on Monday.

The "how-to" course in camp ing is planned particularly for camp councilors and directors, and will be led by Dr. Phyllis Ford of the physical education de-partment of the University of Oregon. There will be actual camp-out and trips from the bowl will demonstrate how to organize various types of camping situations.

Dr. Ruth E. Hopson, of Oregon State College, again directed the conservation classes conducted at the bowl in the past three weeks under the Division of Continuing Education, Oregon State Board of Education. This was the ninth year the conservation classes were Ideal weather prevailed for the 1963 session, divided into three one-week periods with around 35 enrolled for each session. Represented were persons, mostly teachers, from all parts of the state. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thurston, operators of the Hoodoo Ski Bowl Lodge.

Studies in each of the three periods started with a trip via ski lift to the top of Hoodoo Butte for studies of the geology, life zones, forest types, climate and, among other things, deer ranges. Much of the Mid-Oregon Cascades and Central Oregon area was in-cluded in the outdoor class room.

The recreation workshops end ed Friday night with a short pro-gram at the lodge. Featured were colored nature pictures presented by Ed Park, Bend, nationallyknown nature writer and photo-grapher.

Police said Smith did not plain why he was backing his ve-hicle on Albany.

lax reduction appears likely

SALEM (UPI) -A $6 million tax reduction for Oregon employ-ers appeared likely, State Employ-ment Commissioner David H. Cameron said Friday.

Cameron said it appeared state unemployment trust fund is big enough to permit the department to allow experience rates to go into effect next Jan. 1.

Employers have been paying a 2.7 per cent tax on their payrolls since 1958. Under the new schedule next year's rates will range from 1.8 to 2.7 per cent.

Employers have been paying $38 million a year in unemployment taxes, Cameron said. The proposed new rates would bring in $32 million a year.

The unemployment fund now how $67.2 million. The law says if the fund balance is more than $61 million on Aug. 31, the de-partment shall reduce the tax rates for the following year. The 1.8 per cent rate would be paid by employers with a small unemployment claim experience, and those with a large volume of unemployment claims would pay the higher rate.
