By United Press International
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sandy Koufax makes his bid tonight to become the first major leaguer to win 20 games this season, 24 hours after a Met fugitive named Bob Miller reached a hitherto undreamed-of plateau of eight victories.

Regardless of how the brilliant Koufax is, it's improbable he'll do much better than Miller did Tuesday night with five scoreless innings of relief pitching that enabled the first-place Dodgers to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals.

7-5. Koufax had veteran Curt Simmons, 11-6, as his Cardinal mound rival tonight.

"I think I pitched as well as I have all year," Miller said after his five-inning stint in which he yielded only one hit, struck out six and walked a single batter.

Manager Walt Alton, extremely pleased, didn't dispute the young right hander who once formed for the Cardinals—until the Mets shelled out $125,000 in the 1961 player draft at the time the Houston and New York franchises were stocked with journey-men performers.

Miller was 1-12 last year, but the Dodgers bartered for him to fill in for Stan Williams, who was traded for Bill Skowron of the Yanks.

In return for Miller, the Mets got Tim Larkness and Larry Burright, neither of whom figured prominently in a brief bid to reach ninth place, Burright since has been farmed out.

Miller has had so-so luck as a starter, but recently has excelled in relief. He followed Johnny Podres to the mound for the second time in a week to turn in an excellent effort for his eighth win against eight defeats.

A crowd of 50,122 watched Miller and the Dodgers outlast the cards in a victory that meant a full-game increase in their national league lead—now 6½ games.

Although Miller said he was perfectly willing to stay in the bullpen, Alton said he would probably use him on occasion as a spot starter—"wherever he fits in best."

In his last four relief appearances, Miller has given up only one run and five hits.

Alton, soothed by victory despite a tooth lost to the dentist before the night contest, wasn't ready to despair over Podres' third straight failure. He said Johnny had difficulty with his curve, and his control, so he yanked him with no one out and a man on second in the fifth.

The Dodgers, it turned out, already had the game won on a bid of daring by Willie Davis and a "skull" by dependable Cardinal first baseman Bill White in the fourth inning.

The Dodgers scored five times in that fourth, after Frank Howard and Willie Davis opened with singles. The key play came when John Roseboro grounded to White who tried to force Willie at second to start a double play.

Instead, White's hurried low throw and Willie reached the base about the same time. The ball went into the outfield and Willie chased Howard across the plate.

Before Lew Burdette, the loser of his 10th game, and Ray Sadecki could get the side out, Jim Gilliam batted in Podres for one run and Ron Fairly hit a bases-loaded single for two more.

The Dodgers, by winning, also extended their margin to 7½ games over the third-place San Francisco Giants.

Tommy Davis ripped two singles in three trips to extend his hitting streak to 13 games, and Gilliam drove in his 13th run in nine games with the St. Louis flock.

Rotary Olympics will commence Friday at 9:30, finals at 3

Entries are still being accepted for the Bend Rotary Olympics, it was announced today.

Everything is ready. The all-corners track and field meet will run all day Friday at new Bruin Field. This afternoon at 4, all of the Olympics aspirants who were signed up convened at new Bruin Field to get team assignments and to learn procedures.

Actually, entries will be accepted right up until meet time. Participants must fill out entry blanks. Blanks may be picked up at either the city recreation office or at the city pool.

Boys and girls in school grades one through nine are eligible. Actually, the limits are stretched to allow the maximum. Those entering the first grade this fall up through those entering the 10th grade are eligible.

Friday will see the preliminaries starting at 9:30 a.m., and the finals at about 3 p.m. There will be a modified coaching clinic along with the meet. During the intermission that follows competition of the preliminaries, Eligo Galicia, a temporary resident of Bend who is to be Mexico's hopeful in the 1964 Olympics, will run a demonstration two-mile. He is a distance runner of the 3,000 and 10,000 meter variety.

Twenty nine events are on the docket. The groups will be broken down into age brackets. There will be 50, 75 and 100 yard dashes. Field events include, shot put (15, 8 and 12 pounds), high jump, running broad jump, and the pole vault. There will be no hurdle races, no javelin, and no discus throw. Shuttle relays for the younger competitors will replace a 440 yard relay for the older participants. Events will be run separately according to age groups.

Books have been kept on the annual affair. Following is a list of record holders for events in the oldest age bracket:

Ron Carter in 1958 and Frank Nicholson 1959 both pole vaulted 9' to hold a tie for the event. The shot put is held by J. Lentz, 1958, who tossed the 12 pounder 36' 1/2". Rex Chambers in 1959 high jumped 5' 8 1/2". The mark still stands as still does the one set by Keith Norton in 1959 who broad jumped 18'6". Dave Fletcher holds the 100-yard dash record. In 1959 he ran it in 10.5. Rex Chambers is the only athlete that currently holds two records. His 440-yard dash effort in 1959 was 58.0, and the mark still holds.

Some non-Rotarians are donating their time to the coaching clinic and to officiating the meet. They include: Tom Winbigger, clerk of the course; Hoot Moore, starter; Bob Johnson, head finish judge; Jack Lutz and Dick Gesser. Every competitor will get a ribbon. Those taking places one through six in every event will get additional ribbons.

Too many roach, whitefish

Game Commissioners to 'kill out' Big Lava Lake this fall

Special to The Bulletin
PORTLAND — Big Lava Lake, a popular brook trout fishing spot in the Central Oregon lake basin, will be chemically treated this fall by the game commission to eliminate a large population of roach and whitefish.

Phil Schneider, state game director, announced today that to allow anglers to take as many trout as possible before the treatment takes place, the bag limit in Big Lava Lake will be increased to 30 fish per day, 60 in possession, regardless of size. The emergency order is effective immediately and remains in force through the remainder of the year.

Long Plan
Chemical treatment of Big Lava Lake has been considered by the commission for several years. Fishery population samples taken regularly here show around 85 per cent undesirable species. This year trout angling fell off considerably even from the poor season last year. Good catches of trout were made during the first two weeks of the season and then dropped rapidly.

Schneider said that treatment could be postponed, but the commission felt it best to do it now before a population explosion among the rough fish occurs, which would completely eliminate the sport fishery.

Treatment is tentatively set for late September. Rotenone will be used, a chemical which acts on the nervous system of fish and prevents the exchange of oxygen. It does not affect the flesh of the fish killed.

This will be the second time the commission has treated Big Lava Lake, the first treatment was in 1949. The lake will be restocked with brook trout and should be ready for anglers by next fall. However, large fish will not be available until the following year.

PLAYS WITH TROTTERS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Wilt Chamberlain, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer, will play for the Harlem Globetrotters Thursday night in an outdoor game against an All-Star team at the Polo grounds.

Chamberlain, of the San Francisco Warriors, agreed to join the Trotters for the one night because the proceeds from the program will go to the Harlem YMCA and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Over at Davis Lake something else is going on.

Three to five pound rainbow trout at Davis, a lake chemically treated by the game commission two years ago and then restocked, have been giving anglers a bad time this summer by refusing to hit tried and true lures which have been sure fish-getters in other waters.

It has been frustrating. The most frustrating part of it has been that the fishermen can see big fish cruising around within easy rod length, but ignoring the best angling methods and the most productive lures. If any trout in Oregon is being cussed and discussed this summer by anglers it is the fish at Davis

Locke says dry fly-fishermen should test several patterns and attempt to imitate as closely as possible the natural fly hatch. At the present time a blue upright may be just the fly to use.

Wet fly-fishermen are advised by Game officials if the fisherman knows how to use them effectively. If not, a slow-trolled wet fly with long line and no weight should entice a few big ones to hit.
