

Game Commission slashes its operations budget by more than $800,000

PORTLAND (UPI)—The Oregon Game Commission today announced it has slashed its operations budget for the biennium more than $800,000 below the level authorized by the legislature.

State Game Director Phil Schneider said the cutback in fish and game programs for the next two years was necessary because a new forecast of revenue is well below that projected when the budget was prepared more than a year ago.

The new estimate is $7,755,000. He said it has been estimated that about $8,000,000 would be available for expenditures.

No Reserve Remaining

Schneider said there is no reserve remaining in the game fund to carry over into the present biennium. He said also that sales of hunting and fishing licenses have leveled off and revenues from this source will be about $460,000 less than expected. Revenue from federal sources will be $235,000 less than forecast, he said.

Every function of the commission's management program will be at a reduced level, he said. Only game law enforcement will be increased.

Game Farm Plan Dies

Among items cut were seasonal help, habitat improvement, and planned expansion of the E. E. Wilson Game Farm near Corvallis. Schneider said federal funds, which require matching state funds, would barely cover routine maintenance of game management areas and big game winter ranges.

There will be fewer hatchery trout available for the next two years because catchable - sized fish production was whittled by 20 per cent. The over-all salmon and steelhead programs also were reduced, Schneider said.

The cutbacks also mean the end of the commission's youth program in the summer and publication of the Game Commission Bulletin on a bi-monthly instead of monthly basis.

Lack of funds hampers plans for marchers

PORTLAND (UPI) — Freedom marchers from Portland may not join a national trek to Washington Aug. 28 because of a lack of funds, sponsors indicated today.

The Portland Friends of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee said a lack of funds may compel the group to give up plans to send a bus load of marchers to the capital.

The group was about $2,000 short of the amount needed to charter a bus for the trip.

The bus was scheduled to leave Portland Sunday morning and arrive in Washington, D.C. Aug. 28.

A spokesman said, however, as many delegates as possible would be sent by regular scheduled transportation if the bus trip is canceled. Delegates from Caldwell, Idaho, Coos Bay, and Seattle were to ride on the Portland bus. Some were paying their own way.

LOSES ALL AROUND

KOCHI, Japan (UPI) — Police- man Hidetake Matsushita explained to his fellow officers that he panned two stolen bicycles they had recovered to make up losses on race bets.

"What races?" they asked. "The bicycle races," Matsushita answered, as he was booked for selling stolen goods.

Shipping bill signed by JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Thursday signed a bill intended to encourage lower rates for shipping lumber from Pacific Coast ports.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., would allow shipping lines to lower and raise rates without waiting for approval by the Federal Maritime Commission.

The act exempts lumber from laws under which rates could be lowered immediately but could not be raised again without a waiting period.

Magnuson said the legislation was intended to help West Coast lumbermen compete with British Columbia producers who use lower-cost foreign vessels for shipments to the U.S. East Coast.

DANCE CRASHERS — The Juniper Park slab has been the scene during recent weeks of high school dances and dances for junior high students. Young dance crashers at a recent high school dance were five-year-old Linda White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Robinson, and four-year-old Bob McNair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McNair.

U. S. Plywood shuts plant

WILLAMINA (UPI) — U. S. Plywood Corp. will shut down its plant here indefinitely while it tries to determine if continued operation is economically feasible, plant manager Donald Stevens announced Thursday.

The firm normally employs 300 men.

Stevens said the plant's 12-foot lathes and other equipment will be installed at U.S. Plywood's Lebanon operations. He indicated the shutdown was necessary because of increased production costs brought about by the recent strike settlement, in which unions won a 30 1/2 cent an hour wage increase.

"The decision is between shutting down completely and remodeling for production on a substantially reduced basis," Stevens said.

"The logs which are available now are quite different from those we used 15 or 20 years ago, and the equipment is no longer suitable for handling small second-growth logs."

Law plays no favorites here

The law plays no favorites in Bend.

Mrs. Emil Moen, 2148 Aubrey Road, wife of Bend's police chief, was cited Thursday on charges of wasting irrigation water. Bail was set at $7.50.

In other police action, Patricia Mary Meeker, 612 Federal, was cited this morning on charges of driving on the wrong side of the street. Bail is $12.50.

School district fires Mrs. Joy

OREGON CITY (UPI) — Mrs. Jewell Joy, 64, was fired by the directors of School District #2 Thursday after 19 years of teaching at Eastham School.

The action came after a three-day hearing. Mrs. Joy had been charged with 27 instances of insubordination. She called most of the charges false, including those that she insulted and belittled Principal Charles McLain in front of students and criticized Supt. Edwin Ditto and other school officials.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., sponsored the measure, similar to one by Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif. It would bar the federal government from owning or leasing wire services in competition with private news services.

MAN STEALS POLE

DALLAS (UPI) — Police today sought a thief who went to a lot of trouble to steal one of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's 25-foot power poles. A 12-year-old boy told them he saw a man fell the pole, saw it into sections and haul it away.

Medical history made by dog

PORTLAND (UPI)—A mongrel dog named Chameli made medical history at the University of Oregon Medical School farm Wednesday when she gave birth to 4 puppies.

The number in the litter was not significant as the fact they were born at all.

Chameli's only kidney was once removed from her body and stored for nearly eight hours at very low temperatures before being returned.

Following that operation, her second kidney was removed permanently, so she would have to get along on the one organ. That was about a year ago.

The father of the pups, Butch, also has only one kidney, a transplanted and super-cooled one.

The operations were part of a research project aimed at finding a successful method of storing the organs in the body in some form of "bank" until needed. The work is being directed by Dr. Stanley W. Jacob and Dr. Prah-hakar Deshpande.

The two doctors also have been working on projects in which they have kept dog hearts for long periods in cold storage and restored them to action when transplanted in a living dog.

Miss Carson's efforts start to bear fruit

By Dick West
UPI Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the major tasks confronting mankind is finding a means of doing away with insects without upsetting Rachel Carson.

In her book "Silent Spring," Miss Carson put her foot down regarding the use of chemical pesticides. This brought forth suggestions that she should try putting her foot down on a few bugs.

It was generally agreed, however, that her point about pesticides upsetting the balance of nature was well taken.

As one who has been feeling a little unbalanced myself, I am pleased to observe that Miss Carson's message has begun to make itself felt.

New Laboratory

At Gainesville, Fla., this week, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is dedicating a new insect research laboratory to the pursuit of better methods of controlling pests.

Among other things, the lab will study various biological measures, such as insect birth control.

I don't have the program for the dedication ceremony, but I think it would be appropriate if they invited Miss Carson to throw out the first cockroach, or something like that.

In addition to this project, a team of department scientists at Beltsville, Md., has started a search for new physical methods of controlling four types of flies.

They are investigating the merits of light rays, sound waves, air currents and geometric patterns as weapons against these pests. Apparently they have concluded that the fly swatter is obsolete.

Other Good News

No results from Beltsville are expected for a long time yet, but there is good news from the Agriculture Research Service at Corvallis, Ore.

Scientists there have discovered that female houseflies apparently use some sort of perfume to attract male flies.

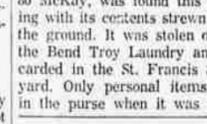

Proof of the role that scent plays in the romance of a housefly was obtained with a device called an olfactometer. The scientists put some male flies in one chamber and then put some females in another chamber where the fellows couldn't see them.

Despite the absence of sight or sound to lure them, a significant number of the males wound up in the chamber with the females. It is assumed, therefore, that the perfume got 'em.

According to the Agriculture Department, the Corvallis experiment holds promise of developing into something big in the way of fly control. I would not care to speculate just how.

Study of possible budget cuts launched by Freeman

SALEM (UPI) — A study of budget cuts that could be made by Gov. Mark Hatfield without a special session of the legislature is under way, Finance and Administration Director Freeman said today.

The study was launched in the wake of referral of the 1963 legislature's $60 million tax increase measure to a special election Oct. 15.

If the tax measure is turned down by the voters, Hatfield will have to choose between slashing the budget himself or calling a special legislative session.

Hatfield has indicated he would not call a special session unless he had to. He said if the legislature couldn't approve a good revenue measure in a 141-day regular session, there was no reason to expect better results at a special session.

Key to whether the cutbacks can be made without the legislature apparently is the $141 million basic school fund allotment.

Governor's Move Rare

Hatfield asked Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thursday for an opinion whether the executive branch had authority to cut the allotments. It was the first time in four years the Republican governor had asked a formal opinion of the Democratic attorney general.

Holmer said the governor could not cut spending by the secretary of state, state treasurer, the courts, or the legislature.

"We don't yet know about basic school support," he said. Of the state's $404 million general fund budget, 58 per cent — $234 million — goes to education.

Special Session Distasteful

There are two reasons Hatfield may want to avoid a special session of the legislature. Such a session would be costly and the governor would have no way to restrict the session to the fiscal crisis.

Lawmakers could be expected to attempt to seek political advantage from such a session, and might attempt to make Hatfield the scapegoat.

Thornton now is on vacation. His deputy, E. G. Foxley, said research on the governor's school fund request would begin immediately, but he doubted if an answer would be forthcoming for at least two weeks.

Fair weather on weekend is predicted

Welcomed by the management of Central Oregon's "twin fairs," one being held in Madras this weekend, the other in Prineville, forecasts call for fair weather Saturday. And, the forecast adds, a temporary warming trend appears to be in the offing.

This is the forecast received from the U.S. Weather Bureau this morning as clouds covered Central Oregon skies, and to the east lightning flashed in the timbered Seneca country, between Burns and John Day.

The five-day forecast calls for temperature close to normal — but cooler weather will return about Tuesday of the coming week. There will be scattered electric storms at the beginning of the period, in the country east of the Oregon Cascades.

The local forecast calls for partly cloudy weather this afternoon with a few showers tonight. "Mostly sunny on Saturday," the forecast adds.

Temperatures tonight will be in the 39-49 bracket. Bend's low last night was 39. High temperature Saturday in the Deschutes country will range from 78 to 84.

Scattered thunderstorms are expected in various parts of the Eastern Oregon country tonight. Foresters said the area was free of fires this morning.

8 fires blamed on children

SALEM (UPI) — Children playing with matches have caused eight fires during the past month, state forestry officials reported today.

The latest was a one-half acre blaze Wednesday in the southwest district.

A total of four fires on state-protected property were noted Wednesday, forestry officials said. All were small.

Picket lines set up at plant

COOS BAY (UPI)—Picket lines appeared Thursday night at the Coos Plywood Corp. plant here in a dispute reportedly centering on the company's employment and seniority policies.

The plywood lay-up plant began operations in June on the site of the former Evans Products Co. plant.

Its 140 employees are non-union, but the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union has been attempting to organize them. The union claims 80 to 90 workers have signed ILWU pledge cards and has petitioned the National Labor Relations Board for an election.

The entire graveyard shift was absent Thursday night, but the company estimated about 25 per cent of the day crew showed up for work today.
