

Rock-throwing mob gathers before residence of Negro family in Pennsylvania

FOLCROFT, Pa. (UPI) — Reinforced state troopers early today halted disorders by a jeering, rock-throwing crowd of 500 whites outside the home of the first Negro family to move into the neighborhood.

The angry crowd gathered in front of the home of Horace Baker, a chemist, and his wife, Sara, a nurse, who moved into the previously all-white neighborhood under a state police escort Friday.

The Bakers tried to enter the home twice Thursday but were repulsed by the crowd, which pelted their car with eggs and stones, shattered windows, and dabbled it with paint.

About 60 troopers and local patrolmen stood guard outside the home after the Bakers moved in but were unable to cope with a barrage of rocks and stones laid down by roving bands of youngsters.

The crowd, numbering 300 at first and then swelling to 500 during the evening, yelled obscenities and catcalls at the Baker home. The house remained dark throughout the night-long demonstrations.

Several groups in the gathering made news photographers at the scene the principal targets of their missiles. Three photographers were punched by men in the crowd. Joel Schrank of United Press International was struck in the mouth by an assailant who disappeared among the spectators. The front seat of the automobile of Joe O'Dowd of the Philadelphia Daily News was set afire.

Mrs. Betty Tinney, 32, was struck on the head with a flying rock and was treated at Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospital.

At least four men were reported arrested on disorderly conduct charges. Anthony Savarese, 35, charged that police beat him as he stood on his own property near the scene.

Trucks collide in fog of dust

Special to The Bulletin

FORT ROCK — A Lake County gravel hauling truck and a water truck owned by Duffy Knorr, Christmas Valley, collided in a fog of dust about a mile and a half from the gravel supply pit near here Thursday about 11:30 a.m. Neither driver was injured.

Dust has been a problem to crews for the five or six weeks since the surfacing of 18 miles began, from state highway 31 through Arrow Gate to the east end of the New Christmas Valley townsite.

The two vehicles were empty when they hit and both had slowed for the dust stirred up by a preceding gravel truck. As left front ends slammed together the water truck, being lighter, spun around with the rear axle knocked off by the impact.

Drivers of the vehicles were Verle Shields of Lakeview, working for the county and Phil Wicky of Powell Butte, driving for Duffy Knorr. Neither was considered as responsible for the accident.

Earlier in the month Reub Long, Fort Rock rancher, jumped his pickup truck into the rear of a road crew vehicle because of the poor visibility.

Byrd believes Kennedy could set example

BERRYVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., suggested today that President Kennedy might set a good example for government economy by curtailing the White House transportation fleet.

Byrd delivered a broad indictment of the Kennedy administration's programs in a speech prepared for delivery at his 41st annual picnic for Virginia neighbors and politicians in the nearby Byrd orchards.

"The President is a busy man and he must be able to move and act quickly, and I certainly do not begrudge him any recreation he is able to find," Byrd said. "But consider the land, sea and air transportation available to the White House."

He said this transport included 10 twin-jet helicopters costing $1.5 million apiece, an $8 million 707 fan-jet, three other 707's assigned to the White House by the Air Force, an Air Force DC-6B for airports unable to handle jets, a 21-foot Lincoln and three other family cars along with secret service cars and the regular White House auto fleet, a special railroad car, two yachts and another available from the Navy and a Coast Guard yawl.

"Maybe all of this is necessary but somehow or another it seems to me that the President could set an example by getting along with a little less," Byrd said.

In a sweeping indictment of Kennedy's tax program, Byrd termed it "irresponsible and dangerous."

He predicted that passage of the tax bill would boost the federal debt to $325 billion within three years.

Byrd said presidential proposals for increased government spending had ignored almost no areas of domestic activity.

"... federal expenditures could and should be reduced," Byrd said. "If they were reduced substantially, I would be among the first to give serious consideration to reducing taxes. Taxes are too high and they should be cut."

He said constructive tax reduction would be sure to come if unnecessary federal spending were stopped.

Work of Red Cross varied, vital to area well-being

By Jane Brown

Another United Fund agency which will be financed by this year's UF campaign is the American Red Cross. Its web of volunteer workers reaches out not only in the United States, but throughout the world.

Chartered by Congress in 1900, the organization's primary obligations are to work with American service men and their dependents and to carry out disaster work. Other programs are initiated if funds are available.

Few people realize that the Red Cross is the life line between the service men and their families. Contact between the local chapter of the Red Cross and a Red Cross field director can provide emergency communication or information for the service man or his family. There is a field director in every service post in the world.

Billy Graham sees world moving rapidly toward climax of history

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham says the world is moving "rather rapidly toward the climax of history," but believes nations won't solve "the great problems of human nature until Christ comes again."

"I do not know the time," Graham said Friday night. "I do not know the hour, the day, the month, nor the year; but the Bible says that Jesus Christ is coming back to this earth and that He alone is the hope of the world."

Graham addressed the 14th session of his crusade at the Los Angeles Coliseum. About 36,361 persons heard his sermon.

He referred to the Bible's teachings that "Jesus will come to the earth the second time. The next time He will not come as a man of sorrows or a babe in Bethlehem, but He will come the second time as the Prince of Peace, King of Kings and Lord of Lords."

"The Bible teaches that He is going to set up a glorious kingdom in which the world will know permanent peace. However, until that time, the Bible predicts that lawlessness, evil, revolt and war will be intensified."

Graham said Christ did not even tell His disciples when the second coming would be.

"However, Christ did leave certain signs, and said when all these converge at one point that we can know that we are close to the end. For the first time in history, all these signs are now in the process of fulfillment."

He said the signs included:

- A resurgent interest in religion.
- Wars and rumors of wars.
- Betrayal and hate on the part of one another.
- Abundance of iniquity.
- "Iniquity and lawlessness abound today more than ever," he said. "The combined sins of Sodom, Babylon and Rome glare at us from the headlines of our daily papers."

Record number of vacationers seen for area

Special to The Bulletin

PRINEVILLE — The Labor Day weekend, expected to bring a record-breaking number of late vacationers to the Prineville area, will also see the end of the 1963 season for the Prineville museum, according to Mrs. Dolly Fessler.

The museum, located in Pioneer park in downtown Prineville, has been visited by several thousand tourists this summer. There are some 4,000 signatures in the guest book. Many visitors also explored the museum without signing the book.

A considerable number of new exhibits were given or loaned to the museum during the past summer, Mrs. Fessler stated. She and her sister, Miss Stella Hodges, have maintained the museum and greeted visitors during the four years it has been in operation.

The log cabin building during the past summer received new exhibits ranging from a spinning wheel and a parlor organ to a wealth of oldtime photographs of the Prineville area. The museum will close September 2, at 5 p.m. for the season.
