

Vast tide of humanity gathers for fervent Washington march

By Bowen Northrup UPI Staff Writer

On Jan. 1, 1863, Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation pledged freedom to the Negroes of America's south.

One hundred years and 240 days later — on this past Wednesday — more than 200,000 persons, many of them white, swarmed into the Nation's Capital to petition for full payment of the pledge, to Negroes all over America.

In a fervent and moving demonstration, they traveled by auto, bus, plane, train and foot to spend part of one day parading in Washington and to demand for the Negro — now — equality of rights and equality of jobs.

This vast tide of humanity swelled to full strength at the Washington Monument just before noon, then flowed down Constitution Avenue to the Lincoln Memorial. They heard their leaders, made their petitions, and quietly left the city by dusk.

The discipline, high spirit and dignity of the march carried an implicit rebuke to those who had predicted disorder and violence. This was a demonstration in the highest tradition of American Democracy — a mass petition for redress of grievances.

President Kennedy met with the ten march leaders and said "the cause of 20 million Negroes has been advanced" by the event. But leaders in Congress, where the Administration's Civil Rights Program is now steering a perilous course, were not likely to change any votes because of it, and they said so.

Immediately afterwards the House Judiciary Subcommittee, which is considering the bill, called a nine-day recess over the Labor Day Holiday. But, though Congress might remain unmoved, it appeared the march had impressed itself on the conscience of the vast majority of Americans.

The tenor of the day probably was best captured by the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., who moved the crowd before the Lincoln Memorial to tears and a vast roar of approval with a peroration of biblical simplicity and force.

"I have a dream," he said. "It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream. I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal.'"

He delineated more of that dream, and ended: "This is our hope. This is the faith that I go back to the south with and with this faith we will be able to hew out of the mountain of despair a stone of hope."

Around the world around the clock: Rails: Congress headed off a nation-wide railroad union strike the day before it was to start, passing legislation which requires arbitration of the two main issues between the unions and the carriers — firemen's jobs and the makeup of train crews. Selection began of a seven-man arbitration board.

South Vietnam: Martial law continued in this turbulent Southeast Asia nation as the dispute of the ruling Ngo family with the Buddhist majority took on increasingly political overtones. American policy makers, fearing the dispute will imperil the Vietnamese war against the Communist Viet Cong, appeared to be moving toward direct confrontation with the Vietnamese government. Under threat of reduced American aid, it was reported, the U. S. will ask removal of the controversial Ngo Dinh Diem and his wife from the ruling group.

Communist Bloc: Nikita Khrushchev wound up a long and amicable visit to Tito's Yugoslavia with a proclamation that Tito's brand of Communism was acceptable. The Soviet Premier told a crowd of 50,000 that both nations were joining in "the fight against Capitalism."

Students: Fifty American students who defied a State Department ban to visit Cuba as guests of Fidel Castro returned to New York. Refusing to turn over their passports, they were given letters which said the documents were invalid. Some of them have been summoned to appear before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Lands: In New York, James M. Landis, former New Deal Braintrustee and former Dean of the Harvard Law School, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for failing to file federal income tax returns. His lawyer said that Landis had been under psychiatric care and had come to court from a neurological institution.

Special on Willie Mays comes same time as Liz's London tour

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by: Coming Attractions dept.: Jack Paar's season premiere Sept. 20 on NBC-TV includes Arthur Godfrey, Lena Horne, Jonathan Winters and British essayist-commentator Malcolm Muggeridge.

There's a report that Winters may do four network specials of his own, the first on NBC-TV in February. Same networks recently-announced one-hour special on Willie Mays Oct. 6 is scheduled opposite CBS-TV's heralded tour of London with Elizabeth Taylor a narrator-guide. NBC-TV kicks off its new Monday night movies Sept. 16 with Bill Holden and Jennifer Jones in "Love is a Many-splendored Thing."

They also serve: Secretary of State Dean Rusk visits ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" Sept. 8. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy appears on NBC-TV's "Today" on Wednesday. On Monday, "Today" offers Duke Snider and Roger Craig of baseball's hapless New York Mets, and next Thursday, same show entertains New York Yankee manager Ralph Houk and his wife.

Entertainment Dept.: ABC-TV has released some of the themes of its new hour-long series about psychiatry, "Breaking Point."

which debuts Sept. 16. They include: "The fear-psychosis generated in our children by the threat of nuclear war. The compulsive use of sex to shortcircuit meaningful relationships between men and women; the psychiatric sanctions of abortions for mentally unfit mothers; the psychopathology of bigotry and race-hate; the pathological emptiness and rebellion of modern youth; and the psychology behind the creation of robots and conformists in certain areas of corporate life" — Shall we dance?

Home furnishings dept.: The theatre near Hollywood Boulevard and Vine Street, from which the Jerry Lewis Show emanates starting Sept. 21, is being remodeled with luxurious red carpets and blue divans. In addition, says ABC-TV, there will be "A gold stage curtain, a new stage, gold seats and 350 individual speakers, one for every two people in the audience" — Furthermore, there will be a paging system for 20 dressing rooms, an old-fashioned marquee with 3,000 light bulbs, and an outdoor rehearsal room in a patio.

Literary Dept.: A Rod Serling drama about an American Indian who wants to avenge the lynching of his father initiates NBC-TV's new "Bob Hope Theatre" Anthology Oct. 4; the stars are Stuart Whitman, Melynn Douglas, Angie Dickinson and Joseph Calleia.

Ancient History Dept.: NBC-TV has made much of the fact that there will be two-part dramas interlocking its alleged medical series, "Dr. Kildare," and its alleged psychiatric series, "The Eleventh Hour." ABC-TV is reportedly thinking of a twice-weekly series based on the book "Peyton Place." And now it seems that the final "Ben Casey" show of the summer season, Sept. 2, will lead into the debut of ABC-TV's "Breaking Point" psychiatric show Sept. 16. The big question is: so what? — Especially if you remember the old movie serials — "continued next week" — or soap operas — "Tune in tomorrow — same league — bush league."

CAR RACES PELLETS WINCHOMBE, England (UPI) —Barrie Baxter likes peace and quiet in the neighborhood around his country home. A midnight auto rally interrupted his slumber. A magistrate fined Baxter $16.80 Friday for firing his shotgun at a car in the rally. He explained he only wanted to stop the car and find out who the driver was.

China seen laying claim to big areas

By K.C. Thaler UPI Staff Writer

LONDON (UPI) — Red China, which recently fired a warning it might seek revision of its border with Russia, appeared today to be laying claim to vast areas of Southeast Asia and India.

This emerged from an Indian disclosure of a Chinese map in an official Peking publication showing the bulk of Southeast Asia and large areas of Indian territory inside the Chinese republic.

The map was reported published in a recent "History of Modern China." It has aroused considerable attention in Asia, and the issue was raised in New Delhi's Parliament earlier this week.

Nothing so far has been said on this question officially from Peking. But the map was seen by diplomats here as an ominous indication of Peking's expansionist designs, notably in Asia.

Copies of the Chinese map have not yet reached London. The map was reported to have put these areas inside Chinese boundaries: Burma, Malaya, Korea, Laos, Viet Nam and Cambodia, as well as Nepal and Bhutan.

Claim Indian Territory Moreover, India's North East Frontier Agency, Assam, parts of Ladakh and other Indian areas also have been marked as part of China.

Whether Peking will formally denounce the map remains to be seen. It recently denied issuing a map laying claim to Soviet territory.

But last March Peking caused a sensation by mentioning Carist Russia in the official People's Daily as being among the imperialist powers that carried out "unbridled aggression" against China in the past.

The Peking organ spoke ominously of "unequal treaties" imposed on China and charged they annexed Chinese territory. Some 300,000 square miles of former Chinese territory is held by Russia, including vast acquisitions in Siberia. Peking mentioned among treaties "forced" on China by czarist Russia those of Aigun of 1858, of Peking in 1860 and of Ili in 1881. All resulted in China ceding territory to Russia. Peking recently also recalled significantly a statement at the time the People's Republic of China was inaugurated which said that "our government declared it would examine treaties concluded by previous Chinese governments with foreign governments ... and would recognize, abrogate, revise or renegotiate them according to their respective contents."

FENCE SNIPPER

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Employees of the state Highway Commission complained Friday that three-fourths of a mile of fencing along a stretch of Interstate 80 had been cut.

They reported that one woman found snipping the fence told them: "If I can't walk to the grocery, I might as well go to jail."
