New Fort Rock park drawing many visitors

Special to The Bulletin
FORT ROCK — Use of the new Fort Rock State Park is considerably greater than expected, according to Alva Zimmerman, State District Park Supervisor, Bend. This is the word brought to the Fort Rock Grange by Bud Parks, a member of the Outdoor Recreation Committee of the fraternal organization.

The increase is due to better signs at the Highway 31 junction and intersections along the way, Zimmerman noted. The park is still too new to be listed in the current state park descriptive brochure. The 190 acre park has as its attraction a semi-circular lava flow or crater remnant towering some 350 feet above the surrounding level plain.

Some Russian Olive trees have been set out recently and more will be put out when the season is more favorable for transplanting. This variety is hardy and drought resisting. Harvey Heare and George Hayes of the State Parks staff in Bend planted the trees and make regular trips to the site for clean-up. Recent maintenance included removing a group of large yellow targets which someone had painted on the rocks. The park crew painted over the yellow with a shade that blended with the rock.

Providing water for campers and picnicers as well as for a limited amount of landscaping at the site is the prime need now, Grange members feel. Water from wells is available at a low lift in this area and electric power lines are close by. Fort Rock village does not now have water available at a store or service station and campers are reluctant to go to private homes to ask for hauling water for the trees from the Fort Rock School.

Johnson-Giller vows exchanged

Kay L. Johnson, Bend, and Daniel E. Giller, U.S. Air Force, were married recently in Reno, and are at home at 1509 W. Fourth Street.

The couple will leave September 20 on a wedding trip, after which Giller will report to Ft. Meade, Md., to be processed for departure for Germany early in October. Mrs. Giller will return to Bend by plane, and will join her husband in Germany next summer.

Giller has enlisted for a second four-year tour of duty. He is now on leave, after three years of service in Japan.

En route to the East coast, the couple will attend the Monterey Jazz Festival in California and will visit relatives of the bridegroom in Michigan.

The bride is secretary at Laurende Finance Co. For the double-ring ceremony, she wore a navy blue knit suit, with white accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Ken Westcott, Bend, were attendants.

The newlyweds are planning to reaffirm their vows in a church ceremony in Germany, after the bride's arrival in Europe. They expect to live in Germany for the three-year period which will remain of Giller's military service.

MANILA (UPI)—A light plane lost with an American mining official and three Filipinos aboard was believed today to have crashed in Zambales province, about 100 miles northwest of here.

Thorough probe promised in abortive Brazil revolt

BRASILIA (UPI)—Military authorities today demanded "rigorous punishment" of the 600 enlisted Marines, soldiers and airmen who took part in Thursday's abortive revolt.

Air Minister Anisio Botelho promised a thorough investigation of the part his men played in the short-lived uprising. He said the air force was "completely calm" today.

There was no report of disorders in Brasilia or Rio de Janeiro, and a presidential spokesman said "absolute calm reigns throughout the nation."

War Minister Jair Dantas Ribeiro, whose troops crushed the revolt, ended the army-wide alert he ordered Thursday, but left five tanks in position outside the War Ministry in Rio as a "security measure."

Maj. Gen. Nicolau Fico, the military commander in Brasilia, issued a statement saying "many minors were caught carrying arms during the unsuccessful rebellion," and it appeared some of them might have taken part in the revolt.

President Joao Goulart conferred with top officials today about the reasons for and means of dealing with the abortive revolt.

Goulart flew in Thursday night from the southern provincial capital of Porto Alegre, tight-lipped and apparently intent on dealing firmly with the rebels.

"I will not tolerate indiscipline or insubordination from any quarter, by any person or under any pretext," he told newsmen at the airport.

"Only in a climate of security, normality and democracy can the Brazilian people carry out the reforms to which we aspire... the government will be inflexible in the maintenance of order."

The revolt, by enlisted marines, soldiers and airmen inflamed by the refusal of civilian authorities to recognize the election of any army sergeant to a state legislature, was quickly suppressed by loyal army units.

There was little fighting, and casualties were minor—one rebel marine killed and two wounded and a civilian killed when he ignored orders to halt at a rebel roadblock.

Couple honored on anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ray B. Cronin, 34 Franklin Avenue, were honored at a dinner party last Sunday in the B C Cafe dining room, in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary. Arrangements were made by their daughter, Jewel Ann, at home, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Edwards, Klamath Falls, who attended with their two sons, David Paul and Ricky Dern.

Mr. and Mrs. Cronin were married Sept. 11, 1938, in the Hubbard Cronin's father, the Rev. J. Stanley Van Winkle, now deceased, officiated. The couple lived in Portland and Klamath Falls, where Cronin was employed with the John Deere Plow Co., before moving to Bend in 1951.

For the occasion, the dining room was decorated with bouquets of gladiolus and bells of Ireland. A silver and green money tree in one corner held silver dollars from friends and relatives all over the United States. The table was centered with a decorated wedding cake, a gift from the children.

Attending the dinner, in addition to immediate family members, were the following Bend residents: Mr. and Mrs. Conley Cronen, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Cronen and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Wachter, cousins of Cronin; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Liska, Miss Lillian Liska and Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Liska, relatives of Mrs. Cronin; Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Rhodes and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rainey.
