Buffs to be 'stronger'; to shake 'cellar' label

MADRAS — "I understand that they (the sports writers) have us picked for the cellar again. . . well I just don't think so."

These are the words of Coach Frank Good at Madras. "As a matter of fact, we're hoping to be right in there." Good is confident this year that his White Buffalo charges, only their second year in A-1 competition, are going to be much better than in 1962.

"I like our speed. . . I like our spirit," he said. Good pointed out this year nobody is that much better than anyone else (in the Intermountain Conference) that they can't be knocked over by somebody.

Coach Good's Madras footballers open their season tonight at home, as do all the other Central Oregon schools in the IC, save Bend. Madras faces the dangerous wide-open La Grande Tigers who will bring to town a variable offense under new coach George Tallchief.

La Grande may have the passing Madras has the backs.

As a matter of fact, Coach Good is blessed with two quarterbacks who could just about be the best in the Central Oregon section of the conference. At fullback he has "em five deep. "This is really something," Good said today.

"I've got this tremendous competition for fullback going, and I can utilize the surplus just about anywhere."

Good's biggest problem seems to be his line. And it isn't really hurting. He and his assistants want to get a little more speed out of the tackles. Though they react quickly, they are a little slower than Good would like to see them. "We'll be better on defense than offense in the line," Good pointed out. Steve Summers, Fred Graves and Harold Smith will help the White Buffaloes considerably on defense. On offense against the Tigers, Good plans to go with Graves and Summers.

Four lettermen are fighting for the two guard spots. Bill DuRette and Neil Potter, (just elected team captain) appear as the primary goers on offense. Other stalwarts include Dave Ferguson and Daniel Katchia. Ferguson was ill the first week or so of practice, and probably won't see too much action against La Grande.

Katchia is a demon on defense. "He's very tough. . . very quick."

Good said of Katchia. He will probably play linebacker, as he has no particular speed.

At halfbacks, Madras shapes up good. Wayne Maw, though not a quick starter, has tremendous speed. "Maw has looked exceptional," Coach Good said. "He's already as good as he was last year at his peak in the Redmond game." At the other half Madras has Alvis Smith, who takes off like a shot.

Smith is a two-year letterman and was the leading rusher last year. At fullback, Good probably will start Sam Strong, 170 pounds of sophomore, who is a good blocker and runs hard. Veteran fullback George Wright was running well in drills this week, but started practice late. Strong will start against La Grande, but Wright will probably be the choice in later games.

Good announced today he is going to start Larry Barnes at quarterback. Ralph Minnick is ready to step in at any minute, however. Minnick has tremendous speed and can rifle a pass. Barnes, however, appears to be cooler under fire. Bud Miller is a third field general. He is slow but can throw well. He will do the punting.

Madras isn't overly strong at the ends. Good said last night he will start Doug Stewart on the right wing, and Bob Kramer on the left. Stewart is a junior and a letterman. He is a good receiver and has good speed. Kramer is also a junior but a non-letterman. Good disclosed that he is not a top maneuverer yet, but is improving rapidly.

Frank Orrell is a dynamo at end, too. But he is another who was not out at first. He probably will not see action against the Tigers. A good blocker and tackler, Orrell reportedly has speed to go with it.

An amazing thing has happened at the center position. Veteran John Givens was pushed aside for starting berth this week by upstart Ed Fuller. Fuller is a junior and a non-letterman, but has a great deal of JV experience.

Coach Good gave an overall opinion of his club. He said, "We'll be forced to go with basically a running game. . . probably all season. This year we'll run from the tight T formation more than the split T we used some last year. We'll be a little more solid."

As to the La Grande test tonight, Good said, "I have no idea what they'll throw at us. . . but one thing is for sure, we're ready for the first game of the season than any year I've been here so far."

Every year Madras opens against a powerhouse. According to Good, his White Buffaloes have lost three of their initial encounters by a single touchdown, and one by two. This year the tables could turn.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Redmond pair showing well at Pendleton

PENDLETON (UPI) — A crowd of 8,000 watched the first and some second go-rounds in the cowboy events at the Pendleton Round-Up Wednesday.

A group of 231 cowboys is competing for the $26,425 in prize money.

Two men were tied for the lead in the Brahma bull riding event. Kenny Stanton, Redmond, Ore., and Lawrence Hutchinson, Calgary, Alberta, each scored 172 points. Larry Davis, Caldwell, Idaho, was third with 170 points.

Jim Bothum, Redmond, Ore., led the saddle bronc riding event after the first go-around with 190 points. Larry Davis, Caldwell, Idaho, was second with 183 points. Tied for third with 180 points were Mac Griffith, Pendleton, Ore., and Gene Tyler, Yakima, Wash.

After the second go-around in steer roping, Clark McEntire, Kiowa, Okla., led with a time of 19.5 seconds. Les Kamm, Pendleton, Ore., was second with 19.6 seconds and Charters third with a time of 20 seconds flat.

Homer Sims, Lebanon, Ore., won the wild-horse race Wednesday and the Walla Walla, Wash., Wagon Wheelers were first in the baton relay race.

Boothe faces Schinkel in Juniper Club crown go

Special to The Bulletin
REDMOND — It's Earl Boothe vs. Bob Schinkel for the Juniper Golf Club championship. It was announced today.

Championship play will commence Sunday, September 22. Golf Pro Frank Aquino said today. Schinkel defeated Chuck Hogan 3-2 and Boothe whipped Everett Reynolds 3-1 in the semis. In women's action Wednesday, (Chapman style and 1/2 of combined handicap) there appeared a three-pair deadlock for first. Reba Massey and Martha Wood carded a 74, as did Lonnie Boothe and Martha Stranahan, and Leilah Sparks with Leone Shopshire.

Men's Thursday play (match play vs. par with full handicap) saw Earl Boothe win the event, scoring 6 up. Marion Coyner was second, 4 up. Others finished as: Bib Ludwig, 3 up, John Hoodecker, 2 up, and Earl Arenameier, 2 up.
