Heart attack takes state military head

SALEM (UPI)—Maj. Gen. Paul Kliever, Oregon adjutant general and chief of staff for Gov. Mark Hatfield, died today.

Gen. Kliever, 54, head of the state's military department, was hospitalized early last week after suffering a heart attack.

Funeral arrangements were pending.

He was the third Oregon adjutant general to die in the last 4 1/2 years. Gen. Thomas Rilea died in February of 1959 and Gen. Alfred Hintz died in May of 1962.

Hatfield issued a statement praising Kliever as "a natural leader in a quiet, unassuming, effective way. His devotion to his state and nation was an inspiration."

Hatfield was notified of Kliever's death shortly before boarding a plane for Washington, D.C., where he speaks Thursday night.

Native of Idaho

Kliever was a native of Aberdeen, Idaho. He moved to Oregon as a youth, and received his education at Dallas public schools and Oregon College of Education at Monmouth.

He joined the National Guard as a private in company L, 162nd infantry, at Dallas on Oct. 27, 1930. He was discharged as a first sergeant on Sept. 11, 1940, to accept an appointment as a second lieutenant in the same organization the following day. His induction into the federal service was the 41st division came on Sept. 16, 1940.

Kliever participated in early New Guinea and Dutch East Indies battles and returned to this country Dec. 25, 1944, where he was an instructor in the officers school at Fort Ord, Calif., until released from active duty Dec. 11, 1945.

He entered the postwar National Guard service on March 5, 1947, with the rank of major. He was promoted to Lt. Col. in 1948. He commanded the 1st battalion, 162nd infantry of the 41st division until his transfer to a senior staff position May 4, 1954.

Colonel in 1957

He assumed command of the 162nd infantry regiment on Feb. 24, 1956, and was promoted to full colonel on Jan. 15, 1957. When the 41st was reorganized in 1959, he commanded the newly constituted 1st battle group until reassignment as commander, headquarters and headquarters detachment on Nov. 1, 1960.

He was promoted to Brigadier General on Nov. 14, 1961 and to Major General July 23, 1962, after he had been named adjutant general of Oregon.

Gen. Kliever married the former Dolly M. Richardson, Dallas, Ore., on Nov. 8, 1935. They have no children.

Oregon Juvenile Council session under way here

Early arrivals for the fall conference of the Oregon Juvenile Council registered this morning at the Pilot Butte Inn, with over 100 expected to be on hand by mid-afternoon. It is expected that the attendance will increase as the sessions progress. The conference opened this afternoon, to continue through Friday morning.

A luncheon and a banquet are planned for Thursday. Tomorrow's program will start at 9 a.m. and continue through the day, with dinner to be served at 7 o'clock.

Juvenile judges, court directors, counselors and representatives from numerous public agencies dealing with children and youth are attending.

Julian Helleck, Roseburg, Douglas county juvenile court director, is the council president.

SIGNS MEDICAL BILL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy signed into law Tuesday a $230 million medical education bill, the first phase of a long-range program to produce more doctors and dentists.

Soviet body gives okay to test pact

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Presidium of the Supreme Soviet—this nation's highest legislative body—unanimously ratified the partial nuclear test ban treaty today.

The ratification, a formality under the Soviet system, came less than 24 hours after the U.S. Senate also voted overwhelmingly to ratify the treaty, which prohibits nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, outer space and underwater.

The Supreme Soviet's Foreign Affairs committee earlier recommended ratification and the Soviet press has praised the treaty constantly since the day it was signed.

The Supreme Soviet acts as the Soviet legislature. The Presidium handles the Supreme Soviet's business while the main body is in recess, as it is now.

JFK asks parity of opportunity for rural people

GRAND FORKS, N. D. (UPI)—President Kennedy sped into the Northern Plains states today with a call for "parity of opportunity" to help rural people come closer to the standards of urban living.

His "nonpolitical" tour "picked out definite partisan tinges as it moved along."

On the second day of his fast-moving tour devoted to the subject of conservation and development of natural resources, Kennedy flew from Duluth, Minn., to Grand Forks to accept an honorary degree from the University of North Dakota and address himself to rural electrification problems of the vast farmlands of this area.

From Grand Forks, the President's itinerary took him to Cheyenne, Wyo.; an afternoon speech at the University of Wyoming in Laramie; another speech date at Billings, Mont., and an overnight stop at the famed Wyoming resort and hunting area, Jackson Hole.

In his prepared speech at the University of North Dakota, Kennedy said there was a great and continuing need for narrowing the differences in living standards of American city and rural populations, particularly in the cost of electric power which becomes increasingly needed in mechanized farming.

"We are seeking, in short, true parity of opportunity, but it will not come overnight," he said. "To achieve it will require a new impetus in electric development, new starts in our multipurpose dam programs, and new and greater use of our land, water, timber and wildlife resources."

The "non-political" label applied by the White House to Kennedy's 10,000-mile swing to the West was becoming somewhat academic. The President in a speaking appearance at Duluth Tuesday night threw away much of his prepared text which dealt with conservation programs.

He hammered instead at the need for public support of his $11 billion tax cut bill which is expected to come up for a vote in the House of Representatives today.

Since the Catholic Church strongly opposes divorce, Vatican sources described the audience as "unusual" and said there was some consternation among prelates because the pontiff agreed to receive Rockefeller.

Rockefeller's second wife, who also has been divorced, did not attend the audience.

When Rockefeller left the Vatican he told newsmen, "I was pleased to have the opportunity to pay my respects to the Pope." He declined to further comment.

Sordid crime story unfolds at hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A sordid story of gangland bloodbaths and how organized crime has set up its own private government—"resting on a base of human suffering and moral corrosion"—was unfolded today by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Kennedy gave the account to the Senate investigations subcommittee in calling for approval of two new weapons against crime: immunity for witnesses in racketeering investigations and a broader federal wire-tap law.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said in an opening statement that he has in mind a law that would prohibit membership in such a criminal and secret organization as "Cosa Nostra."

Both Kennedy and McClellan said the gangland organization attempts to be a form of government unto itself and outside the law.

The star witness at the hearings, expected to last about three weeks, will be Joseph Valachi, currently the underworld's most celebrated stool pigeon. He has been "singing" to federal authorities about Cosa Nostra and has been marked for death.

Kennedy told the senators there existed in this country "a private government of organized crime, a government with an annual income of billions, resting on a base of human suffering and moral corrosion."

McClellan said "this tightly knit association of professional criminals demands and gets complete dedication and unquestioned obedience by its members to orders, instructions and commands from the ruling authority or boss thereof."

"Family, religion and country are all secondary and required to be subservient to the interest of this vicious criminal syndicate," McClellan added.

Arrangements completed for Fall Opening

All arrangements had been completed today for Bend's 1963 Fall opening program, a weekend event which will be highlighted on Friday night, September 28, by a chicken barbecue.

Chicken and all the trimmings, including beans, potato chips, hot rolls, ice cream and coffee or milk, will be served on a roped off portion of Oregon Avenue, between Wall and Bond Streets.

Service will be between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. Boy Scouts of Troop No. 81, with Bob Moody as leader, will serve as a cleanup detail, from the start of the barbecue dinner until serving is completed.

Entertainment will feature music by the Bend Senior High School dance band, which will present a street concert.

Here to assist with the barbecue will be representatives of the Oregon Fryer Association, which will furnish the barbecue equipment and fuel. Mrs. Bernice Coombs will be in charge of the barbecuing. Fryers will be fresh Central Oregon raised birds from Bend Egg and Poultry, the Bend Chamber of Commerce retail merchants committee, headed by Ken Brown, has announced.

Stores will remain open until 9 p.m. Friday night.

Secrecy shrouds meeting

Rocky has 'unusual' audience with Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, whose divorce and remarriage caused a political stir in the United States, had a secrecy-shrouded meeting with Pope Paul VI today.

Since the Catholic Church strongly opposes divorce, Vatican sources described the audience as "unusual" and said there was some consternation among prelates because the pontiff agreed to receive Rockefeller.

Rockefeller's second wife, who also has been divorced, did not attend the audience.

When Rockefeller left the Vatican he told newsmen, "I was pleased to have the opportunity to pay my respects to the Pope." He declined to further comment.

Not since Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's so-called w. Alexei I. Adzubei, saw the late Pope John XXIII has such secrecy surrounded an audience.

THREE OUT OF NINE—Out of nine high school students in Oregon east of the Cascades named as semifinalists in National Merit Scholarship competition, three are from Bend. From the left they are Bill Parks, Mike McGeary and John Cleveland. The picture was taken at the Bend Senior High School this morning, as the students received congratulations from teachers and students.

BSHS has three semifinalists in merit scholarship testing

Three Bend Senior High School students are included in a group of more than 13,000 named semifinalists in a nationwide competition for merit scholarships.

Principal Ray Talbert said the three Bend Senior High students are Mike McGeary, son of Dr. and Mrs. George McGeary, Bend; Bill Parks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Y. Parks, Fort Rock, and John Cleveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cleveland, Bend. All three are seniors in the local high school.

They became semi-finalists in the 1963-64 program through their outstanding performance in the national merit scholarship qualifying test.

The test is the first step toward winning a four-year merit scholarship to a college of the student's choice. Semi-finalists must substantiate their qualifying test performance on a second examination. All merit scholars are selected from the finalist group.

In the past years, about 97 percent of the semi-finalists have become finalists. All finalists will be eligible for scholarship awards sponsored by National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Awards may reach a maximum of $6,000 for the four years of college.

NMSC and sponsors have thus far contributed about $17 million in direct financial assistance to merit scholars and their colleges. In Oregon, 144 high school students' names appear in the national list of those who have qualified for scholarships.

Only nine students from all of eastern Oregon were named semi-finalists, and no high school east of the Cascades in Oregon qualified as many as the Bend school. Two were named from Pendleton.

Ole Miss's only Negro student expelled for carrying firearm

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—The University of Mississippi today returned to "all white" status.

The university's only Negro student, Cleve McDowell, 21, was expelled Tuesday for carrying a pistol. The action, taken on the recommendation of the student Judicial Council, returned to the Deep South state its unique system of totally segregated public schools.

McDowell had been admitted to "Ole Miss" without incident last June.

The university was desegregated under federal court order the previous year and paved the way for the entrance of the school's first Negro student, James H. Meredith on Aug. 31, 1962.

Meredith's admission touched off rioting that killed two persons and brought out federal troops to enforce the integration of the school. Meredith graduated last June.

Hunters will find most areas open

Oregon hunters joining in the big rush to the woods this weekend for the opening of the general deer season on Saturday will find virtually all national and state timber lands open.

Last of the local closures, in the Wood Road No. 1 area adjacent to the Cascades Lakes Highway west of Bend, was opened this morning. Earlier, the state lifted the closure on lands along the eastern Cascades, from Tumalo creek north toward Sisters.

Hunters are being urged, however, to observe every precaution in the use of fire. "A few days of sunshine could easily raise fire danger to hazardous levels," local foresters pointed out.

On Tuesday in Bend, the temperature jumped to an unseasonable 84 degrees. Today's weather forecast calls for a continuance of fair and mild weather, with highs in the Bend area expected to be in the 81-86 degrees range this afternoon.

No moisture has been forecast for any part of eastern Oregon, but there is a chance of light to moderate rain after Friday in western Oregon.

Suspect admits burglary here

Bend police have been notified by Medford police that a burglary suspect in their custody has admitted burglarizing a Bend tire shop about August 16 this year.

Local police records show that the Shoop & Schulze building was burglarized of some $170 in cash and checks on that date. The prowler broke into the building during the night.

New leaders claim blow at Communism

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI)—The armed forces deposed and arrested President Juan Bosch today in a military coup proclaimed as a blow against the rise of Communism in the Dominican Republic.

The revolt leaders dissolved parliament, set up a provisional government, outlawed the new constitution which Bosch rammed through the congress last July and outlawed the Communist party.

Bosch and his entire cabinet were held prisoners in the presidential palace. A manifesto signed by 26 ranking officers of the army, navy, air force and police pledged continued Dominican adherence to international commitments.

The coup leaders included Generals Antonio Imbert and Luis Amiana, only survivors of the group of rebels who assassinated ex-dictator Rafael L. Trujillo to start the Dominican Republic on its march to democracy after more than three decades of dictatorship.

Following up the manifesto's outlawing of the Communist party, police immediately threw a cordon around the headquarters of the pro-Castro 14th of June party.

No Bloodshed Reported

The coup was pulled off at 3 a.m. First reports indicated it was carried out without gunfire or bloodshed.

Radio Santo Domingo, the government transmitter, told people of the coup in a pre-dawn announcement, saying "the corrupt and pro-Communist government of Juan Bosch has been deposed by a coup d'etat."

The announcement called for public calm and order and warned citizens against being tricked into violence by Communist agitators. All schools were closed by government order.

A bulletin broadcast by Radio Santo Domingo invited the opposition National Civic Union, Social Democrat Alliance, Dominican Revolutionary Vanguard, Christian Democrat Progressive parties to choose a provisional government.

It said the leaders of the parties named had accepted the invitation and met immediately to draft a government.

The coup came just 24 hours after apparent collapse of an anti-Communist general strike called by opponents of Bosch.

New tensions between Haiti and the Dominican Republic over border incidents. The Bosch regime earlier this week had protested to the Organization of American States against alleged Haitian "aggression," only to admit later the Haitian fire directed against Dominican soil was being directed against guerrilla forces.

Gunfire Near Frontier

As late as this morning, heavy fire was still being heard around

Dajabon, on the Haitian-Dominican frontier, where Haitian troops apparently had a rebel group pinned down and seeking to prevent its escape across the frontier into the Dominican Republic.

In outlawing the present constitution, the junta returned to the constitution of 1962 as the basic law of the land. This is the constitution which was in effect before Bosch was chosen in early 1962 as the Dominican Republic's first freely-elected president in more than 30 years. He took office Feb. 27, 1962.

(A dispatch from San Juan, Puerto Rico, said authorities there had been advised that the Santo Domingo airport had been closed down by military order. Normal telephone service between San Juan and Santo Domingo also was reported suspended.)

Island's Troubles Increase
Bosch's downfall had been indicated by a sharply deteriorating political and economic situation in this island republic in recent months.

When Bosch took over just two days short of seven months ago, the economic outlook had looked good.

But, in the intervening time, it had gone down rapidly. The sugar crop was off sharply, reducing the supply of dollar earnings, and new foreign investments had been non-existent.

Furthermore, observers said Bosch had shown a marked lack of administrative ability, and was stubborn and vain in his dealings with other leaders.

Followers in his own Dominican Revolutionary Party (PRD) had become disillusioned and were drifting away in droves.

In addition, the Dominican Republic had been on the verge of war with neighboring Haiti over border clashes several times in recent months.

Haiti and the Dominican Republic share the island of Hispaniola in the Caribbean, but they have been far from friendly neighbors over the years.

U.S. studies reports of latest coup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U. S. officials in Washington said today they have received reports that Dominican President Juan Bosch and members of his cabinet were being deported from Santo Domingo.

The State Department said it was in touch with the U. S. embassy in Santo Domingo on the military coup and that it had confirmed the arrest of Bosch. The embassy also reported that conditions in the city were outwardly calm.

U. S. foreign policy officials were closeted in meetings to decide how to deal with the situation.

The coup was regarded as a blow to U. S. policy interests in Latin America, which has been aimed at encouraging and fostering democratic governments.

Until 1961 the Dominican Republic was ruled for 30 years by a repressive dictatorship. In May, 1961 dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo was assassinated. Since then, the country's policy linked to the United States progress toward democracy, the United States has been attempting to aid the Dominican Republic toward democratic constitutional rule.

U. S. officials said that though they so far had only sketchy information, the coup did not appear at first glance to involve a return of Trujillo interests to power.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that Bosch made urgent appeals this morning to several Latin American presidents in an effort to head off the military coup.

Brooks-Scanlon pledges hoist UF drive figure

Pledges from Brooks-Scanlon, Inc. employees, received this morning at the Deschutes United Fund office, have hoisted the campaign figure to $16,494.50.

Their contributions, together with those of two other firms, have lifted total UF collections nearly to the halfway point in the $35,200 designated goal. Other new firms with pledges collected from all employees are the R. A. Carlson Sign Company and the Oregon Equipment Company.

In other business, all United Fund board members are asked to attend a Thursday panel discussion being put on by the Oregon Council on Crime and Delinquency, a United Fund Agency. It will be held at 7 p.m. in the Pilot Butte Inn.
