NAACP official says McDowell treated fairly

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) said Wednesday the University of Mississippi was fair and courteous in expelling its only Negro student for carrying a pistol.

"Cleve McDowell wasn't expelled because he is a Negro," Charles Evers told United Press International Wednesday. "He was expelled because he broke the law."

Evers, who took over the top NAACP post in Mississippi when his brother, Medgar, was slain by a sniper's bullet last June, appeared with McDowell before the Student Judiciary Council at "Ole Miss" Tuesday to hear the university's case against the 21-year-old Negro student. McDowell, a law student, was expelled for carrying a .22-caliber pistol on the campus.

Praises Council

Evers praised the council for recommending to university authorities that McDowell be expelled. He said "Ole Miss" officials "merely upheld the law."

"If every Negro was given as equal a chance as Cleve was given," said Evers, "then they wouldn't be afraid to go to court in Mississippi."

He singled out Champ Terney, president of the council and a son-in-law of Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., for special praise.

"He showed the respect that should be shown to all Americans," said Evers. "He is a real gentleman."

Confirms Pistol Carrying

McDowell's attorney, Jack Young of Jackson, confirmed for the first time Wednesday that his client did carry a pistol to class but indicated he did so with good reason.

"There is no denying that McDowell had the pistol," said Young. "There were certain circumstances which prompted him to carry it."

However, neither Young nor McDowell would reveal the circumstances.

Young said it had not been decided whether McDowell would show up for a justice of the peace hearing in Oxford Saturday to face charges of carrying a concealed weapon. McDowell could forfeit $250 bond instead.

EYE ON THE SPARROWS—Head covered with a babushka, an old woman feeds bread-crumbs to two young sparrows who lighted on her fingers in London. The birds seem to be having a private conversation, oblivious of the human eavesdropper. It was an unusual sight, for sparrows ordinarily shy away from humans, even if they bear food.

Mac is cleared of any breach of security

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's official investigator of the Profumo scandal today cleared Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government of any breach of security in the affair.

The long-awaited report by Lord Denning, Britain's second ranking jurist, also cleared other cabinet ministers of any involvement in the scandal that linked War Minister John Profumo with red-haired call girl Christine Keeler. But at the same time Lord Denning said Macmillan and his aides should have been aware of what was going on between the cabinet minister and the play girl.

The report, published a half hour after midnight, sketched the dilemma of a government headed by Macmillan, of Eton, Oxford, and the Grenadier Guards, in dealing with Profumo, of Harrow, Oxford, and the Northamptonshire Yeomanry.

Raising questions about Britain's hallowed tradition of doing things by "the old school tie," the report said:

"They (the government) could not conceive that any of their colleagues would have the effrontery to make a false statement to the House."

Profumo had denied in the House of Commons that there was anything wrong in his relationship with Christine, but later he admitted his denial was a lie.

Macmillan scheduled a radio broadcast tonight to defend his position in the case.

Farmers busy seeding 1964 winter wheat crop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Across the nation's wheat-growing sections this week, farmers are busy seeding the 1964 winter wheat crop.

Many farm experts had been predicting that the acreage would not rise far above last year's level. But these experts concede they don't yet have the answer to one important question—they don't know whether current reports about possible wheat sales to Russia will induce some farmers to expand acreage.

The Weather Bureau reports, meanwhile, that planting of the 1964 winter wheat crop is in full swing. In Texas, the bureau estimates more than a third of the state's probable winter wheat acreage was seeded by last Monday. In Kansas, the leading producing state, slightly under a third of the winter wheat was planted by Monday.

The Weather Bureau report added that seeding was gaining momentum in Oregon. It was making good progress in western portions of the Corn Belt and was under one-fifth completed in Oklahoma. Through the Gulf and South Atlantic states, the bureau reported that land preparation and seeding increased in spite of dry soils. In Eastern sections of the Corn Belt, progress was slowed by dry soils.

These Weather Bureau reports do not give any estimates of the number of acres being seeded to wheat. There will be no official government estimates of this acreage until an Agriculture Department report scheduled in December.

A pork industry leader says hog producers should be promoting the merits of their product, not complaining in public about recent declines in demand for pork.

The statement comes from LaVerne Johnson of DeKalb, Ill. Johnson, a hog producer, is chairman of the Pork Committee of the National Livestock and Meat Board. His comment was issued after a recent committee meeting in Chicago.

In recent years, the average consumer's use of pork has dropped and the percentage of the consumer food dollar going for pork has declined.

These Weather Bureau reports do not give any estimates of the number of acres being seeded to wheat. There will be no official government estimates of this acreage until an Agriculture Department report scheduled in December.

Plea of guilty offered by Hayes

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — A mental hospital escapee from Oregon Wednesday pleaded guilty to first degree robbery and will be sentenced Oct. 23.

Royal K. Hayes, Jr., 26, entered the plea before District Judge William C. Gunn.

Hayes was accused of robbing a Minneapolis drug store of seven bottles of assorted drugs valued at about $40.

His trial was postponed until a psychiatric examination found him mentally competent to stand trial. Oregon authorities are seeking the return of Hayes, saying he left the state hospital at Salem, early in August. He had been committed to the hospital in 1962 following the slaying of a security guard at the Oregon Journal building.

Kennedy hopes for final tax action by Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Propelled by a 271-155 House vote, the biggest tax cut in history reached the Senate today with President Kennedy pressing for final enactment before Christmas.

The Senators may balk at Kennedy's timetable. But most lawmakers figured it was a safe bet that some version of the $11 billion tax-cutting bill would become law by early spring, if not sooner.

The bill passed the House Wednesday night over strong Republican opposition. Asserting that the nation can not have both tax relief and higher federal spending, most Republicans voted against final passage after the House defeated a GOP attempt to attach budgetary strings to the tax cut.

House approval was a major victory for the President and Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon. Kennedy said in Billings, Mont., that the action was a step toward saving the nation from limping from recession to recession. Dillon said in a statement here that the measure would help encourage the growth of the free enterprise system.

Relief Spread Out

The House bill would parcel out tax relief to virtually every taxpayer — individual or corporation. The relief would start in January, with two-thirds effective on 1964 incomes. When fully effective in 1965, the tax cuts would average 18.8 per cent for the nation's 50 million individual taxpayers.

The next step in the legislative process is up to the Senate Finance Committee. Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., takes a dim view of cutting taxes at a time when the Treasury is running a

Apology sent Astoria band

ASTORIA (UPI) — Oregon Athletic Director Leo Harris has written a letter of apology to Astoria High School principal Robert Parnell because the school's band didn't get to perform last Saturday.

The band appeared at the Oregon-Penn State football game in Portland but did not perform at halftime because of an exhibition by golf professionals.

Harris said the university would pay the band's expenses for the trip and school Supt. Roy Seeborg said the offer would be accepted.

deficit estimated at $9 billion a year.

Starting late next week, Byrd's committee will hold closed sessions to get briefed by Treasury and congressional staff tax experts on the provisions of the 310-page House bill. Then the committee will start public hearings which are certain to extend well into November.

Seeks Spending Brake

The Republican amendment rejected by the House would have prevented any of the tax cuts from taking effect unless Kennedy in his budget message next January estimated future federal spending at levels below those now anticipated.

Defeated on a 226-199 roll call, the amendment was supported by 173 Republicans and 23 Democrats. One Republican — Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski of Wisconsin — joined 225 Democrats voting against it.

On the 271-155 final vote, 223 Democrats and 48 Republicans voted for passage. Opposing it were 29 Democrats and 126 Republicans.
