Good heavens, The mailman delivered us a Christmas catalog yesterday.

Seems like the Yuletide season gets stretched a little every year.

At this rate, the time may come when guys in Santa Claus suits will have to be careful...

...they don't burn themselves with their 4th of July sparklers!

Here's how to judge the approach of the true Holiday Season — just watch for our famous Smorgasbord spreads. But it'll be a while, yet.

Support urged for tax program in Oct. 15 vote

By United Press International
Support for Oregon's tax program at the Oct. 15 election was urged today by the Oregon Independent Colleges Association and by Chairman Eugene H. Fisher of the Oregon State Board of Education.

The college association expressed concern about the future of tax-supported higher education if the $60 million tax measure should go down to defeat in the referendum.

The association consists of 11 accredited independent colleges in the state.

"The young people of Oregon must be served by both public and private colleges and universities, at the highest levels of quality that can be attained in both," its statement said.

Fisher said a "yes" vote Oct. 15 "will indicate that the citizens of Oregon are willing to pay for the services that they have requested and that are necessary in our growing state."

Fisher, of Elkton, also is a member of the Elkton School Board.

Study session set by League

The Provisional League of Women Voters of Bend will conduct a second study on aspects of foreign trade at meetings to be held October 7 and 8. Mrs. Harold Bock, world trade study chairman, announced.

A study of the Alliance for Progress in South America will be held later in October. Consensus will be taken to assist in developing a National League of Women Voters policy on foreign trade.

Meetings next week will be as follows: Unit 1, Monday, 8 p.m., with Mrs. Lyman Johnson, 340 Saginaw Avenue; Unit 2, Tuesday, 9:30 a.m., with Mrs. Vern Harley, 608 Innes Lane; Unit 3, Tuesday, 8 p.m., with Mrs. C. H. Cleveland, 1797 Quincy Avenue.

NOT SOON ENOUGH

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — A motorist stopped Thursday and told state trooper Carl Young that he had passed a car that was weaving along the road.

The warning did not come soon enough. The car approached, swerved off the road and slammed into the rear of Young's parked auto.

The driver, John N. Norwood, Urbana, Ill., was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Group urges single-rate homeowner policy

SALEM (UPI)—The Oregon Association of Insurance Agents today urged the Legislative Insurance Interim Committee to approve single-rate packaged homeowners' policies.

But J. W. Nielsen, Florence, chairman of the association's board of directors, admitted the request was a reversal of the group's earlier stand.

Rep. Phil Lang, D-Portland, pointed out the switch in the association's position and charged such policies "would benefit only a select group of Oregon residents."

Sen. Thomas R. Mahoney, D-Portland, said such policies could result in homeowners having to buy more coverage than they want.

The issue of single premium homeowners' policies has split the state's insurance industry.

Losses Noted
Edgar Zoren, chief deputy of the state's insurance department, told the committee that homeowners' policies operate at a loss in most states, but that Oregon law will not allow loss operations "as a protection for the public against insolvency."

Zoren said he believed companies provided the service at a loss simply to get premiums for investment in the stock market "where huge profits are being made."

Sen. Walter Pearson, D-Portland, showed examples of homeowners' policies sold in Washington and Oregon, and said while the coverage was almost identical, the policy in Oregon cost twice as much as in Washington.

Oregon Situation Given
In Oregon, it was explained, each phase of the policy, such as fire, casualty, theft, is rated independently, and each phase must show a profit.

Individual rating of separate policy features is not required in most other states, and there are no prohibitions against operating at a loss.

Nielsen termed a single premium homeowners' policy an example of modern merchandising "just like the cake mixes now for sale in grocery stores."

All of today's interim session was to be devoted to the discussion of pancake insurance policies.

Control law not popular in rural areas

Special To The Bulletin

MADRAS — Enforcement of Jefferson county's dog control law is not popular with many residents of the rural areas, a delegation of about 15 persons told members of the county court and the dog control committee this week.

The delegation appeared at the court house to meet the court and air protests about the enforcement of the dog control law that has been on the county's books since 1957 but not enforced until this year.

Objections ranged from an opinion that the dog tax infringed on individual's rights, to inadequate results in control of dogs, to convictions that those who keep dogs under control should not have to pay for those who don't, to complaints about the manner in which dog control officers are making calls and issuing citations.

After considerable discussion the court was asked to ease enforcement of the law in rural Jefferson county. The court took no action on the request at the meeting. Phil Farrell, chairman of the three-man dog control board, told those present that the board would continue to operate the dog control program to the best of its ability unless the non-enforcement is ordered by the county court.
