Labor commissioner here for apprenticeship awards

Five Central Oregonians were presented certificates last night by Oregon State Labor Commissioner Norman Nilsen at an evening banquet in Bend. The five had completed apprenticeship programs through Central Oregon College. The presentations were in conjunction with the quarterly meeting of the Oregon State Apprenticeship Council which is meeting in Bend. Marion Cady from the Bend Chamber of Commerce welcomed the group to Bend.

Accidents take lives of three

By United Press International. Three persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in Oregon Monday. Richard Peel, 30, Durango, Colo., was killed when his fully loaded logging truck crashed on a logging road about 30 miles west of Lakeview. State police said Peel's truck went down a grade too fast, struck a bridge abutment and rolled over. He was working on a logging job in Southern Oregon and was living at Beatty, Kenneth Beasley, 26, Florence, died when his car plunged off a road and over a 40-foot embankment into the North Fork of the Siuslaw River near Florence. Beasley's 22-year-old wife, Adrella, and small son, Kenneth, escaped. They were hospitalized for treatment of shock. Lawrence Evans, 34, The Dalles, lost his life when his truck and trailer loaded with bakery goods went off Interstate 5 and plunged into Courtney Creek 17 miles south of Albany.

Report planned on sales tax

PORTLAND (UPI) — The Legislative Interim Committee on Taxation will hear a report on sales taxes from George Anala of Oregon Tax Research here Friday and Saturday. At the Friday morning session the committee also will hear Ralph E. Minear of the State Department of Finance and administration report on dedicated funds, and Ira Jones of the State Tax Commission report on insurance company taxation. Myron Katz of the Bonneville Power Administration will speak on the erosion of the tax base at the Friday afternoon session. Saturday's meetings will be concerned with how the recent defeat of the legislature's tax measure will affect the economy and the state's fiscal needs for the next four years. Also Saturday, George Pederson of the State Tax Commission will outline the state's revenue estimates.

Forest fire control review is presented

Developments in forest fire control techniques were reviewed at the fall meeting of the Society of American Foresters in Prineville this past weekend, with Gail Baker, from the regional office of the U.S. Forest Service, Portland, as the speaker. Baker noted that infra-red detection of fire is now possible from aircraft. He said a new system of automatic weather instruments makes instant weather available to fire control officers. Next year, Baker reported, the new fire danger rating system, spread index phase, will be used by the Forest Service nationwide. Closed circuit TV is being used to project the actual fire, from a helicopter over the fire, to the fire boss and his staff in a central office.

In addition, a new cross country vehicle has been developed and is expected to assist crews in fighting fires in difficult areas. Additional space-age developments include fiberglass tanks, pumper units which have no valves, fiberglass back packs, pumps and tool boxes, plastic disposable air mattresses and canteens, and free dry rations. Baker said a six ounce, 38 watt, portable radio is now available which can be used as a portable, mobile or lookout set. Flame resistant clothing and fire shelters are being used by suppression crews. Three new fire research laboratories have been established, Baker reported, adding that research is continuing on aerial application of retardants, new retardants and other aerial techniques.

Sheep, wool day plans reported

REDMOND—Deschutes County sheep raisers interested in attending the annual sheep and wool day activities November 1 at Oregon State University are asked to contact County Extension Agent R. H. Sterling for transportation arrangements. Included on the program will be a report by B. R. Eller on comparisons of production from Columbia and Targhee sheep, as well as a progress report on white muscle research, control of internal parasites and control of foot rot. An economics study made in Douglas County will be discussed by Extension Agent W. D. Mosher. W. D. Frischnecht, extension livestock specialist, and D. W. Chambers, sheepman from Marion County, will review the sheep production testing program. Afternoon sessions will include a discussion of cutting procedures for retail evaluation of lambs by Dr. W. H. Kenrick, a member of the animal science staff at OSU, and an evaluation of sires for production and carcass quality by Dr. C. W. Fox, OSU. A panel discussion on all related topics will close the activities.
