

Ring magazine puts label on 3 world champs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three world champions are bracketed as "fighters of the month" by the Ring Magazine today because of their victories in recent non-title bouts that stimulated boxing interest.

They are Emile Griffith, welterweight, who outpointed Jose Gonzalez in Puerto Rico; Carlos Ortiz, lightweight, who beat Maurice Cullen in London; and Sugar Ramos (featherweight) who stopped Sammy McSpadden in London.

Middleweight Joey Archer of New York was boosted from fourth among middleweight contenders to second because of his upset victory over Rubin (Hurricane) Carter of Paterson, N.J. who remained No. 8.

Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson was dropped from fourth among heavyweight contenders to sixth because of his inactivity.

Terry Downes of England, former middleweight champion, was moved into the light heavyweight ratings at No. 9 because of his comeback activities in the 175-pound class.

Eddie Cotton of Seattle, Wash. who defeated Henry Hank at Flint, Mich., replaced the inactive ex-champ Harold Johnson as top light heavyweight contender.

In the flyweight division, Bernardo Caraballo of Colombia replaced ex-champion Pone Kingpetch of Thailand at second place because of his victory over bantamweight contender Piero Rolo of Italy.

Jimmy Brown setting NFL rush records

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Brown is on his way to establishing a mark which in National Football League circles may be regarded with as much awe in future years as Babe Ruth's home run career record.

Brown, by gaining 233 yards against the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday, raised his league-leading rushing total to 1,194 in eight games, according to the latest NFL statistics released today.

Not only is the great Cleveland Browns fullback rated a cinch to break his own record of 1,527 yards set in 1958 over a 12-game season but he also stands a better-than-even chance to gain an astonishing 2,000 yards if he travels at his present pace.

Thus far, the five-time rushing champion has averaged 149 yards per game. If he averages only 135 yards in his remaining six contests, he will reach the 2,000-yard figure.

Jim Taylor, second in rushing with 639 yards, could also top 1,000 yards again this season but is hardly in a position to challenge Brown.

Brown also moved into second place past Hugh McElhenry in another category—total yardage gained lifetime by all methods. The 27-year-old Browns' bulldozer raised his output—which includes rushing, pass receiving, interceptions, punt returns, kick-off returns and recovered fumbles—to 11,066 yards.

Should Brown repeat his performance of last week in the game against the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday, he will pass Ollie Matson, who leads the pack with 11,317 yards.

Okla's Grisham 'pro bait' says Sammy Baugh

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Sammy Baugh calls him "pro bait." Bear Bryant says he's "as hard a runner as we've ever seen."

Rare praise even comes from cautious Bud Wilkinson, who has coached several All-American players and says he could be the best back he has ever had.

They are talking about Jim Grisham, Oklahoma's line-shredding 211-pound fullback from Olney, Tex., the ringleader in the Sooners' powerful ground attack that has carried Oklahoma back up the ladder to No. 6 in United Press International's latest major college football poll.

Oklahoma has not been blessed with consistency this season, but nobody has succeeded in stopping Grisham. He started quick on the Sooners' bread-and-butter interior line smashes and has that great second effort that all fullbacks strive for, but few master.

"The mark of a great runner is the ability to start in one direction, taking the defense with him, then cutting into an open spot," says Wilkinson. "This is what Jim Grisham does so well. This is what Jim Grisham does real well, too."

Grisham, a junior majoring in a tough mechanical engineering course, is averaging 5.7 yards every time he carries the ball. In six games, five of which Oklahoma won, he rushed 89 times for 509 yards.

Against Texas, the nation's No. 1 team, Grisham carried nine times for an 8.2 average, including a 31-yard run that was the game's longest rushing gain.

Surf board bops Bo Belinsky...

HONOLULU (UPI) — Pitcher Bo Belinsky of the Los Angeles Angels was rapped on the nose by a surf board early this week — and he's concerned that it might affect his "singing voice."

The handsome southpaw, who bragged recently that he had become "an average surfer" in only two months, was tossed off his board at Waikiki late Monday. He surfaced in front of it and broke his nose in two places.

Doctors suggested that minor surgery might be necessary, but they didn't get much cooperation from Belinsky, who has been preparing a supper club act for a guest appearance in Las Vegas later this month.

"I'm concerned about what this will do to my singing voice," he said. "It was bad enough before."

San Jose fullback injures shoulder

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Sophomore fullback Charley Harraway, who was averaging 4.5 yards a carry until he sustained a dislocated shoulder three weeks ago, will be available Saturday night when the San Jose State Spartans host rugged Arizona State.

The Spartans Tuesday worked out for 90 minutes.

'New' Machen looks as good as the old one

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Here's bad news for heavyweight boxers: The "new" Eddie Machen looks as good as the old one.

Machen, who looked fit and trim at 197 pounds, Tuesday night knocked out Bill McMurray in the seventh round of their scheduled 10-rounder before 3,000 fans at the local auditorium.

Eddie was No. 1 ranked challenger before money and career worries caused a breakdown last December.

But since returning to the pro wars in good shape physically and mentally, he has won three straight and went into Tuesday night's battle as the sixth ranked heavyweight.

Machen almost put away the 208-pound McMurray in the fourth stanza and from then on it was just the latter's grit that kept him in there.

Dick Tiger says few realize he's a student of boxing...

By Jack Cuddy
UPI Staff Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Middleweight champion Dick Tiger appreciates the international respect given him as a fighter; but he said today he doubts that anyone realizes he is one of the all-time great students of the sport.

Muscular, broad-shouldered Tiger—who arrived this week from his home in Nigeria, Africa for his next title defense—explained:

"My watching, watching, watching of other boxers ever since I am a little boy did as

W's Owens gets coaches' nod

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The state of affairs was unusual, to say the least, when Jim Owens of the University of Washington football team was informed that he had been named United Press International Coach of the Week.

The Huskies, by Owens' own admission, had played their toughest football game of the season when they clobbered defending Big Six Conference champion Southern California 22-7 Saturday, but there was only one man on the trainer's treatment table seeking physical repair.

That man was Owens himself.

Owens, who demands — and gets — physical conditioning from his players on a scale that probably would satisfy even President Kennedy looked up and grinned sheepishly. "It is just a twinge in my back. Got it last Friday night."

Owens admitted the twinge might have been aggravated when his happy warriors carried him off the field after they had upset the Trojans. And dinked him, suit and shoes, into the showers "but it was worth it."

He said the victory gave the Huskies a giant step in the direction of the Pasadena Rose Bowl.

"I have never been prouder of any team than I am of this bunch," Owens said of his current squad.

much maybe to make me champion as my good punch and good chin. I see particularly the bad moves and the dangerous openings they leave — as well as the good moves. And I continue to improve a little all the time."

Tiger, 34, is scheduled to defend his 160-pound crown against 33-year-old Joey Giardello of Cherry Hill, N.J., at the Atlantic City Convention Hall, Dec. 7.

Has Dick improved enough to predict a victory over Giardello, with whom he broke even in two fights in 1959—before he became champion?

Destiny Parable
Tiger, wearing a brown jacket and brown slacks and chatting in the lobby of his hotel, shook his head and said he never made predictions because of the Nigerian "old folks parable of destiny."

Just as Dick Ihetu—as he was named back in Amaigbo, Eastern Nigeria—is a combination boxer-puncher, he also is a combination tribesman with circles of tribal dots about his torso—and a modern African, educated from the age of five to 15 in an "English-spoken" Nigerian school.

"The old folks parable," Tiger explained, "is that life is just like dreaming in your sleep about something you want but don't get or do get—depending upon destiny. And I always dreamed, asleep and awake, that I would be a boxing champion—and I was lucky it was my destiny. And I hope it's my destiny to beat Giardello again."

Top Contender
Giardello, now top contender, lost a 10-round decision to Tiger at Chicago on Sept. 30, 1959; but Joey avenged that defeat by outpointing Tiger in their return fight at Cleveland little more than a month later, Nov. 4.

Since then Tiger became champion by outpointing Gene Fullmer at San Francisco, Oct. 23, 1962. In Tiger's first defense last Feb. 23, he was held to a draw by Fullmer at Las Vegas, Nev. But in his second defense, Aug. 10, Dick stopped Fullmer at the end of the seventh round in Ibadan, Nigeria.

Tiger's wife, Abigail, was able to see his impressive Ibadan victory over Fullmer, but he said Wednesday she will not be able to come to America for the Giardello fight because she is busy taking care of their four children—three girls and one boy.

"Yes," Tiger concluded, "we own our home in Nigeria and I hope I can make enough money before I retire, when I'm as old as Archie Moore, to buy some good business—if that is my destiny."
