

CONVENTION OPENS
EUGENE (UPI)—The Oregon State Employees Association opened its convention today with talks by Gonzaga University President Rev. John P. Leary and Warne Nunn, administrative assistant to Gov. Mark Hatfield.

About 200 delegates were registered for the three-day meeting.

"ACAPULCO" Part 1 & 2

What an impressive view of the harbor as we drove by car from Taxco to Acapulco! It is the second largest harbor in depth in the world—guess what—Rio is first! George, our driver, was the best driver we have had yet. Fast, but did a beautiful job on the high mountain roads and watching for cattle and burros and people. He averaged between 50 & 60 miles an hour. There were 5 of us in the car plus the driver—a congenial elderly couple from Italy, Mr. Walmsley or John to everyone and he is English. He was a Royal Air Force Pilot and treats Will like a son, since he and his wife do not have children. John toured with all of us travel agents from all over the Northwest and Orient trip last fall. That's why we received a letter from John asking if we'd like to tour Mexico after the ASTA convention in Mexico City since it is the first trip for all of us. We admire John because he is president of Long Travel Service, Inc. in New York City and is as common as an "old shoe" to be around and since he is National Chairman of the Ethics (Grievance) Committee of ASTA (especially so since he resides in New York State and ASTA headquarters are in New York City) we have learned much about all kinds and sizes of travel agencies, the employees and what agencies make the best travel advisors, etc.

At our very impressive banquet, Saturday evening, we thought one of the greatest and most sincere compliments we could have received was during the dinner when many agents and their operations and officers of airlines and railroads and steamships and car rentals summed it up and said good-byes—in an area your size, you can still give that personalized touch to your travel service and be what we feel would be "travel advisor service" included with making reservations and issuing tickets.

One wholesale tour operator and his wife (we met his wife at the Orient tour last fall) said that in cities, there are so many people to handle that they become a "file and a number". They seem to marvel at the zest and enthusiasm we still have at these conventions after having begun our travel agency 10 years ago last August. We told them we take our annual vacation and tie it in with the ASTA World Convention and Congress and year by year we hope to do a different part of the world, and mingle with the people because it is going to take that to promote "good-will" among all these countries.

One of the many questions asked of us by men and women from all parts of the world—1. "Bend, Oregon—where is it?" 2. What has made you stay there so long? 3. What city is it near? 4. How far are you from ski areas? 5. How far from the ocean? 6. How do you people make their living? 7. What areas seem to interest your people the most when you send them on trips? 8. What are your main industries? 9. You mean to say you have over 100 lakes within a radius of 100 miles? They must not need a local Chamber of Commerce with two people like us who travel so many miles. 10. So you are the travel agents from Bend and there are only 6 people here from Oregon?

Austerity plan would result in layoffs for 522

SALEM (UPI)—Approval of the governor's austerity program would result in 522 state workers being laid off and 749 now vacant positions being eliminated, the Joint Ways and Means Committee was advised today.

All 14 members of the Budget drafting committee were on hand, backed by more than a dozen other legislators, to get a running start on the special session which convenes Monday. It did not appear lawmakers were headed for any quick solution to the state's fiscal problem.

There were suggestions for alternate revenue programs, rigid economy, reductions in dedicated fund agencies—but agreement on which course might be followed.

The Ways and Means members today launched two days of hearings into the governor's recommended austerity program, state revenues, and proposed cuts in basic school support.

The Ways and Means members, many wearing their great cleaver tie clasps, came to Salem ahead of time at their own expense, at the request of Senate President Ben Musa and House Speaker Clarence Barton.

Sen. Ward Cook, D-Portland, said the committee was meeting early to "become oriented." Rep. Ross Morgan, D-Gresham, said the group "may lend a hand in determining where cuts should not be made."

Rep. Stafford Hansell, R-Hermiston, got to the core of the issue shortly after the meeting opened when he asked "how are we going to go. Shall we go along with the governor, or adopt our own plan?"

Other committee members were hesitant to make any policy decision until after the conclusion of the hearings. Question Posed A major question was posed by legislative fiscal officer Kenneth Bragg who asked "are we making temporary cuts, or are we making permanent reductions in the level of state service?"

Finance and Administration director Freeman Holmer said the budget cuts proposed by the governor are temporary. He said it would have to be decided before the 1965 legislature whether permanent long range reductions should be made.

"I expect the governor will ask the 1965 legislature for further reforms," Holmer commented.

Rep. John Mosser, R-Portland, said the voters didn't understand the difference between dedicated fund and general fund agencies, but wanted economies in all parts of state government.

Sen. Len Newby, R-Ashtland, fired back "I oppose messing with dedicated funds."

As the meeting began Sen. Edward Fendley, D-Eugene, handed out copies of his alternative to the governor's austerity program.

Fadeley called for a $10 million tobacco tax, and use of $10 million from auto license fees, and $12 million from a one-shot speedup of withholding tax collections to offset most of the revenue lost by defeat of the tax measure Oct. 15.

He also would transfer $5 million from the veterans fund, cut capital construction $9 million, basic school $7 million, and other agencies $5 million.

Education Week observance set

School visits and other activities are planned for local observance of American Education Week, November 10-16. Nation-wide, some 30 million parents will be visiting their schools next week.

Representatives of local PTA groups and the public relations committee of the Bend Education Association met Tuesday to plan the observance in Bend. Present for the meeting were: Mrs. Richard J. Turner, president of the inter-school PTA council; Herbert Ekstrom, principal of Reid-Thompson School, and Judy Wade, Kay Auld, Dick Dedlow and Arlen Hollingshead, all of the BEA public relations committee.

Mrs. Shumate's hand amputated

Mrs. Ralph Shumate, formerly of Bend and now of Oswego, suffered an injury Saturday that resulted in amputation of her left hand. She is a patient at St. Vincent's Hospital, Portland.

The accident happened at the Shumates' sawmill in the Wilson River area between Portland and Salem. Mrs. Shumate did not ordinarily work at the plant, but was there Saturday on an errand, and apparently stopped to push a board through a saw in passing.

An effort was made to save the hand, but it was amputated Tuesday morning at the hospital.

Mrs. Shumate, the former Bernice Fissel of Bend is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Fissel, 574 E. Revere Avenue, and the sister of Harry L. Fissel and Mrs. Charles Raycraft, both of this city, and Charles Fissel, San Jose, Calif.

The Shumates were in business in Bend for 25 years, and moved to Oswego two years ago. Shumate operated cabinet shops in Bend, and more recently, Shumate Lumber Products.

Mrs. Fissel went to Portland Saturday to be with her daughter. Mrs. Shumate would appreciate hearing from her friends in Bend, members of the family said.
