Nikita says current feud with Communist China is temporary

By William D. Laffler

UPI Staff Writer

History as well as literature is dotted with instances of best friends becoming mortal enemies.

One of the classic examples in literature occurs in Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur." Judah Ben Hur and Messala were inseparable friends in boyhood. Friendship turned to hatred when Messala broke up Judah's family and put him in slavery.

Sir William Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan, the Rodgers and Hammerstein of another day, were close friends as well as musical collaborators. But they parted in disagreement and although they later worked together the edge was never taken off the bitterness between them.

It has been said that once best friends part company there can be no true reconciliation.

Khrushchev and Mao once were close friends, at least in an ideological sense.

This friendship was broken up when Nikita Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung began calling each other foul names during their running quarrel about peaceful coexistence with the West.

The rift between Khrushchev and Mao became so wide that only a few days ago diplomats speculated that Nikita would summon his satellite leaders to a Red summit to kick Communist China out of the camp.

But this week Khrushchev said the current feud between Russia and China was temporary and a reconciliation was probable because both have the same goal—destruction of capitalism. He noted that Mao sent him a letter of congratulations on the anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Thus it is possible that a rapprochement may come to pass and on the surface everything may appear to be hunky-dory but two truths can not be ruled out. They are:

1. Xenophobia. The Chinese hate all foreigners, especially Caucasians. They particularly detest the British and the Russians are living high on the hog, with women buying nylon stockings, cosmetics etc., while the Chinese are struggling against unending hardships.

2. Ambition. The Red Chinese want to wrest leadership of world communism from the Kremlin. They have not been able to do so at present because they have no nuclear striking force and equipment to attack the Soviet Union. Thus they have had to fight an ideological war, using persuasion and invective as weapons.

Khrushchev prophesied better relations with China after a so-called anti-missile missile had been exhibited in the anniversary parade in Moscow. He had boasted that this missile could "hit a fly in the sky."

In Washington, U.S. defense leaders were somewhat skeptical about the Russian missile and clung to their position that an effective anti-missile system still has not been developed. They said a Nike-Zeus could match the Russian weapon.

Around the world around the clock: Washington—The U. S. Government recognized the military junta which overthrew the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam. The junta, in turn, promised to restore personal freedom, lift martial law and push the fight against the Communist Viet Cong.

London—Prime Minister Douglas-Home won a seat in Commons on what he called a "decisive vote of confidence" in his Conservative Party.

Vatican City—An official Ecumenical Council document said there is no justification in the Bible for hatred or persecution of Jews because of the Crucifixion. The pronouncement stirred hopes in Jewish quarters that it would do much to end anti-Semitism.

Albany, N.Y.—New York Gov. Rockefeller officially announced he would seek the Republican presidential nomination and hid himself off to New Hampshire to begin his campaign.

The March primary in New Hampshire will be the first of the upcoming election year. Polls indicated Barry Goldwater has not officially announced his intentions but is expected to do so forthwith.

Washington—The United States and Russia reached an agreement on sale of wheat to the Soviet Union. The first sale involves 100,000 tons which will go to the Russians for about $7.6 million, including all shipping costs.

New York—In what may have been the biggest gem robbery on record, hijackers took an estimated million dollars of jewels from a messenger service car and escaped.

Veterans' Day parade planned at Prineville

Special to The Bulletin

PRINEVILLE — The traditional parade of Veterans' organizations, auxiliaries and other groups will march through Prineville Monday, November 11, in commemoration of Veterans' Day.

Arthur Welch, commander, Prineville VFW post, has invited all local organizations to participate.

Units of the parade will assemble at 10:45 a.m. Monday. The traditional route of march takes the parade into the center of Prineville and north from there to the Ochoco creek bridge for brief naval ceremonies. A concluding ceremony is held in Juniper Haven cemetery.

On Sunday evening, November 10, the annual Veterans Day potluck dinner will be held at the Veterans Club from 6 to 9 p.m. The meat course will be furnished by the American Legion. Those attending are asked to bring a potluck dish and their own table service.

Schools in Crook County will be closed Monday, as will all government offices and a number of local business houses, and offices.

Dirksen sees defeat for JFK's two 'big' bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen predicted today that the Senate would not pass either of President Kennedy's "big" bills this year — civil rights or the tax cut.

Dirksen said it would take until about the middle of December to finish public hearings on the $11 billion tax cut measure, then "at least three weeks" to draft language in closed session.

"I think it is a fair bet that there cannot, just mechanically cannot, be a tax bill this year," the Illinois legislator said in a radio interview with Sen. Jack R. Miller, R-Iowa.

The Senate Finance Committee, where the bill has languished since the House passed it Sept. 25, published a list of witnesses Friday that will carry its public hearings on the measure through Dec. 13, one week before Congress' Christmas vacation begins. Thus far, the committee has completed four weeks of hearings on the high priority administration bill.

But, Dirksen said, Congress will pass a tax bill next year "and doubtless it will be dated back to the first of January and thus made retroactive and effective for a full calendar year of 1964."

As for civil rights, Dirksen said, "I doubt really that there is going to be a civil rights bill in this session." According to the timetable, he said, a House rights bill could not reach the Senate floor until mid-December, too late for Senate passage this year.

Albany, N.Y.—New York Gov. Rockefeller officially announced he would seek the Republican presidential nomination and hid himself off to New Hampshire to begin his campaign.

The March primary in New Hampshire will be the first of the upcoming election year. Polls indicated Barry Goldwater has not officially announced his intentions but is expected to do so forthwith.

Ways and Means votes to give Hatfield control over basic school allotments

By Zan Stark

UPI Staff Writer

SALEM (UPI) — The Ways and Means Committee voted Friday to give the governor allotment control over basic school support, but was unable to decide whether a one-shot revenue speedup should be adopted.

Sen. L. W. Newberry, R-Ashland, and Rep. Stafford Hansell, R-Hermiston, opposed giving

The vote was taken after two days of testimony on proposed reductions for welfare, state institutions, and education. It is not binding because the committee will not begin formal deliberations until the special session begins Monday.

Ways and Means members had hoped to be able to agree on basic policy questions so recommendations could be presented to the House and Senate caucuses Sunday night. However, members felt there were still too many unanswered questions.

One - Shot Plan Debated

The deadlock over the one-shot plan centered around a disagreement over whether the governor's $12 million plan or the $20 million plan suggested by Sen. Alfred Corbett, D - Portland, should be considered—or whether the one-shot idea should be abandoned because it might add to problems next biennium.

The question of whether budget reductions should be considered temporary or permanent dominated Friday's deliberations.

Several legislators said they might not go along with higher education's plan to increase entrance requirements and tuition
