

Thornton has taken top role at legislature

SALEM (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton has emerged as a vastly powerful influence at the special session of the legislature.

The Democratic political foe of Gov. Mark Hatfield has probably had more influence than any other single individual over the deliberations under way here.

Legislators and the governor's staff were forced to look to Thornton to settle policy questions.

It's a new role for Thornton, who has been deliberately circumvented for most of Hatfield's administration.

The legislature ground to a halt Thursday to give Thornton time to decide if the proposed solution to the Boardman problem was constitutional.

The solution to the fiscal crisis was drafted to suit legal guides set down by Thornton.

Plan Not Accepted

Hatfield had pointed to a method of allotment controls to meet demands of the voters Oct. 15 rejection of the legislature's tax increase.

But Thornton said Hatfield's plan was an unconstitutional transfer of legislative authority to the governor, and that the governor could not exercise selective cuts over agency budgets.

Faced with these opinions, legislators had to draft bills to meet guides set out by Thornton.

The role of attorney general is unique.

His opinion, although they do not carry the weight of a court decision, have tremendous impact.

If an attorney general does not choose to rule on a question, lawmakers can proceed and let the courts decide constitutional issues if they are raised.

But if an attorney general does issue a ruling, the state is forced to accept his advice — or to move in opposition to such a finding would invite a court test.

And an attorney general would not be called upon to defend an arm of state government which had flouted his advice.

Thornton's opinions are scored by Hatfield and Republicans — and many Democrats.

Thornton has emerged, through a peculiar chain of circumstances, as the major policy maker at the special session of the legislature.

Local control of aid urged

PORTLAND (UPI) — Local control of federal aid to education money was advocated by the nation's school superintendents who wound up a three-day meeting Thursday.

The superintendents, who attended the Council of Chief State School Officers convention here, took the stand that "federal funds for education should not be used in any way to control education at the state or local levels."

They adopted policies calling for up to $6 billion annually in federal aid, but asked that it be distributed on a similar equalization basis.

They also called for safeguards to make certain federal funds would complement state and local funds, and not be a substitute for them. The superintendents would have states match federal grants with new state funds. States with less money would be able to match proportionally less.

Dr. A. W. Ford, superintendent of schools in Arkansas, said he did not believe the program would be adopted in the immediate future "but that's what we want."

Byron F. Stetler, state superintendent of Nevada schools, was named as new president of the organization. Other new officers include E. E. Holt, Ohio, second vice president, and Directors Angus B. Rothwell of Wisconsin and Owen B. Kiernan of Massachusetts.

Scout leaders hold roundtable

Scout leaders from Central Oregon attended a roundtable meeting in Bend earlier this week.

Hiking methods, foods and equipment were demonstrated and displayed. This monthly session helps leaders to use the latest program materials for Boy Scouts in their troops.

Those participating were Bill Schuckel of Bend Troop 24, Harry Mastrud and Bob Moody of Bend Troop 81, Ernest McKenzie and Dick Rose of Prineville Troop 28, Sam Webb of Prineville Troop 64 and C. E. Hein of Bend Troop 21.

The roundtable was presented by commissioner Dick Wick and District Executive Boyd Karrer.

First shipment of gun locks made by firm

By Helen Parks
Bulletin Staff Writer

CHRISTMAS VALLEY — The initial shipment of gun locks manufactured by the Powder Horn Company left here Friday, November 15. Robert L. Hall, president of the company, was here for the mailing.

The small lock, weighing less than an ounce, fits in the trigger guard of pistols, shotguns, rifles or other weapons not fired accidentally or by an unauthorized person.

A number of guns can be fitted with locks that use the same key. Hall pointed out. The lock has high security lock action and comes with two keys. The new company advertised nationally beginning in October. Several eastern gun manufacturers are considering using the lock as standard equipment, according to Hall.

Plans include manufacturing the lock in California temporarily and assembling and mailing from Christmas Valley. The company has property next to the Christmas Valley office. The Halls also purchased five acres south of the lodge and expect to build their home on the lake shore, moving here within a year.

The Halls, all outdoor lovers, also expect to start a pheasant farm, with a gun club for shooting and comes with pheasants. At present Hall is in the aircraft ignition business, with 35 years' experience in aircraft work. They live in Woodland Hills, out of Burbank.

Four children — two girls and two boys — are members of the Hall family. One daughter, studying public accounting, and a son in the U.S. Army will continue their separate activities when the family moves to Christmas Valley.

Future of UO program is in doubt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The future of the University of Oregon's educational contract with Cambodia was in doubt today over that country's decision to end American economic and military aid.

Oregon and several other U.S. colleges are training about 200 Cambodian teachers with funds supplied by the federal government. Nine of the teachers are now enrolled at Oregon and more were scheduled to arrive in William Becker, education officer for the Agency for International Development in the Far East, said he presumes the students will be called home at the end of the three months the U.S. has in which to wind up its affairs in the Asian country.

He said he has notified the University of Oregon to hold up any further action on the six-year contract, which went into effect this fall. The school has received about $70,000 so far.

Oregon professor J. Francis Rummel is in Cambodia directing the building and training program there, but university officials have been unable to reach him for a report on the situation.

Unique courtroom drama planned by drama students

A change from the usual theatricals is offered by the Bend High School play, "Night of Jan. 16th," to be presented tonight and Saturday evening in the high school auditorium. Curtain time is 8:15.

The play is a courtroom drama, with the audience taking an integral part in its development and conclusion. As they arrive at the auditorium for the performance, patrons may place their names as candidates for the jury in a box provided. Twelve jurors will be drawn by lot, and will take their places in a regular jury box on the stage.

Between the acts the jurors are led off the stage to a small deliberation room. Each act represents one day of the trial. Just before the ending of the third act, the jury retires to render a verdict. There are two different endings to the play, and the decision of the jury will determine which one is used.

Adella Lance is in the role of the defendant, with Eugene Daly as district attorney and Edith O'Day as defense attorney. Dale Christian plays the judge.

Morgan says he may run for governor

CORVALLIS (UPI) — Howard Morgan, former federal power commissioner and Oregon Democratic chairman, said Thursday night he may run for governor in 1966 — if his brother-in-law, Sen. Alfred Corbett, D-Portland, is not elected secretary of state in 1964.

Morgan spoke at a Benton County Democratic fund raising dinner.

Before his speech he told a reporter that if Corbett was elected secretary of state in 1964 it would virtually kill the possibility of him — Morgan — running for governor two years later.

Morgan added that Corbett had not yet decided whether to run for the position, now held by Republican Howell Appling Jr.

Morgan, former state public utility commissioner, also attacked the Boardman-Boeing lease as "the biggest land steal" since Gov. Oswald West cleaned up the "land and forest swindles" of 50 years ago.

He accused Gov. Mark Hatfield of pushing through the Boardman lease "to get a feather in his cap."

RECORDER STOLEN

Archie R. Crozier, Jr., 424 Kearney, told police his tape recorder was stolen Wednesday night while a brother used his car to attend college evening classes. The recorder was taken from the vehicle while it was parked outside the senior high school.

Hoffa had no part in bribery, court is told

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa played no part in an alleged jury bribing attempt which led to the disbarment of a prominent local attorney, a U.S. District Court was told in a secret hearing Thursday.

Judge William E. Miller disclosed that attorney Z. T. Osborn Jr., told him Hoffa was unaware of an attempt to bribe a prospective juror for Hoffa's Jan. 6 jury tampering trial.

Osborn testified at a closed-door hearing held Tuesday in Miller's office. The attorney was disbarred from federal court the following day but has announced plans to appeal.

Things To Say

"There are things that must be said on my side of the matter, and I will have an opportunity to say these things in due course," Osborn said in a statement released through Teamsters Union headquarters in Washington Thursday.

Osborn refused to talk with reporters in Washington. "This is not a matter that can be fought in the press," his statement said. "It is a matter for litigation."

The disbarment was on the ground that Osborn attempted to offer a $10,000 bribe to Ralph Elliott of Springfield, Tenn., one of 36 prospective jurors. Elliott, who the court said was "blameless," never was approached.

It was learned that the Justice Department is investigating the possibility of attempts to influence others selected for jury duty in the upcoming Hoffa trial.

Four initiated in women's speech group

Berns, Betty Adams, Mrs. Carl Bernsten, Mrs. Keith Carpenter and Mrs. Phil Shoemaker were initiated into the Tahawus Toastmistress Club at the organization's most recent meeting.

A unique presentation of lexicology was achieved by Mrs. Lloyd Gabriel.

Humor was injected into the meeting when Ellen Forswall, Topicmistress, had each member tell a joke which would be suitable to tell at the conclusion of an after-dinner speech.

A new member, Mrs. Carpenter, gave her audience a brief autobiography in her "Life-breaker." This first speech is designed to acquaint the new member to the others and allows her to use her background as a subject.

Others taking part were Mrs. L. C. Kirk, invocation; Mrs. Ralph Young, toastmistress; Mrs. Arthur Burman, timekeeper; Mrs. W. M. Loy Jr., hostess, and Mrs. Kay Blake, emcee.

A report was given on the recent trip to Prineville where a special meeting, conducted by Council officers, was held. Members from the Painted Hills Club of Mitchell and the Prineville Toastmistress Club were present. Tahawus representatives attending the session were Mrs. Kay Blake, Mrs. L. C. Kirk, Mrs. Orde Pinckney, Mrs. Ralph Young and Mrs. R. B. Zimmerman.

It was announced that there would not be the next meeting in November. The next meeting will be December 12 in the Superior Cafe banquet room.

Officers named by 4-H Club

Leathernecks 4-H Club, formerly the Tuesday Toolers, elected Tom Bird to serve as club president during the coming year, during an election held this week.

Other new officers are Jean Herland, vice-president; Neil Coulter, secretary-treasurer; and Douglas Herland, scribe. Assisting adults are Mrs. Ted Coulter, leader, Mrs. Ted Todoroff, instructor, and Don Devlin, instructor.

Members present at the meeting were Terry Todoroff, Trudy Karrer, Jan Hanks, Terry Looney, Keith Young.

Next meeting is scheduled on Wednesday, December 11.

PROMPT CONSIDERATION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will give "prompt consideration" to any proposals for the sale of dairy products to Russia or other European Communist countries, but thus far there has been no inquiries.

Raymond A. Jones, chief of the Foreign Agricultural Service, told Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., in a letter Thursday that "it would seem desirable to sell dairy products to these countries."

NAACP given seal sale okay

PORTLAND (UPI) — The City Council voted unanimously Thursday to grant the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People a permit to solicit funds through the sale of special Christmas seals.

The NAACP's application came up at the council a week ago and was referred to the city's Solicitations Commission after Acting Mayor Ormond R. Bean said he had received a number of telephone calls urging further investigation.

The Solicitations Commission held a 1 1/2-hour hearing Wednesday and then recommended unanimously that the permit be granted.

Sharp objections to the permit were voiced Wednesday and Thursday by Walter Hiss of the Portland Freedom Center. He accused Mayor Terry Schuck, who returned from Japan last weekend, of being afraid of the NAACP.

Yeager says Boeing planning 6 rocket planes

SEATTLE (UPI) — Col. Charles E. Yeager, noted test pilot, said here Thursday the Boeing Co. has proposed to build six rocket planes, each capable of flying two men to an altitude 50 miles above the earth.

The planes would be used to train scientist-astronauts, said Yeager, commander of the Air Force Aerospace Research School at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Yeager estimated the six planes would cost the Air Force about $50 million. He said study funds for the project will be provided soon and he hopes to have the rocket ships within the next three years.

Yeager spoke at a meeting of the American Astronautical Society.

Dr. Ebbighausen featured in Sisters fireside chat

By Phil F. Brogan
UPI Staff Writer

SISTERS — Oregon's only professional astronomer, Dr. E. G. Ebbighausen of the University of Oregon, sees no reason for a crash program to land men on the moon — especially if the project, including the return of the lunar explorers to earth, is to cost $30 billion.

He indicated this here Wednesday night in a fireside chat with Sisters High School students, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barclay.

Listening intently to the astronomer, who this past summer set up a 15-inch telescope near Cache Mountain in the Santiam Cascades to study eclipsing binary stars trillions of miles distant, were more than 20 youngsters. Wallace Johnston, Sisters superintendent of schools, arranged the fireside discussion of astronomy.

Dr. Ebbighausen sees no great hurry for a landing on the moon, unless such a project is of military importance. The only immediate value of a lunar landing would be the satisfaction of man's curiosity, he indicated.

The U. of O. astronomer and physicist touched on the old story of rocketry, traced Germany's use of rockets when England was bombed in World War II, and reviewed developments in recent years and the preparations to land a man or men on the moon.

The moon and its little-known surface also came in for mention. Before man can land on the satellite, he must first know the nature of its surface, Dr. Ebbighausen stressed. Much of this information can be obtained through the "soft landing" of instruments which will radio information back to the earth.

Eventually, man will walk over the rugged face of the moon, Dr. Ebbighausen agreed — and the astronomer said, will reach Mars. The University professor scoffed at the science fiction belief that man will eventually reach the distant stars. He noted that stars are generations distant.

A question and answer period, which, because of the interest of the youngsters, lasted well beyond the scheduled time, followed Dr. Ebbighausen's informal talk. Today, Dr. Ebbighausen met with earth and space science classes at Sisters High School, illustrating his talks with slides.

Dr. Ebbighausen came to Sisters partly for the purpose of looking over a location in the Sisters area for his telescope this coming summer.
