

Tiff at Eugene may be air duel

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—The stage is set for one whale of an aerial battle here Saturday when Oregon and Oregon State meet for the 67th time in the Far West's oldest football rivalry.

Take the ingredients. Oregon State, in end Vern Burke, has perhaps the finest pass catcher in college football. In quarterback Gordon Queen it has a lad whose 16 touchdown tosses this fall surpass all but one collegiate effort in the last 10 years.

Oregon has a junior quarterback named Bob Berry who already has cracked some all-time school marks. His coach, Len Casanova, calls him an "All-America." And the Webfoots also have in halfback Mel Renfro probably the best all-around performer in the school's history.

Burke caught 10 touchdown passes last year and has 9 this year. No other college end has caught that many—19—in two seasons. He also has 1,722 yards in two seasons, including a record 1,007 last year.

Queen's 16 touchdown passes are more than any collegian has thrown in a season in the past 10 years except Charley Johnson of New Mexico State who had 18 in 1959.

Berry has overcome Oregon marks of 13 touchdown aerials in a season set by Norm Van Brocklin in 1947 and of 1,358 passing yards set by George Shaw in 1954. Berry has 14 TD passes and 1,426 yards through the air this year, although he missed one game with an injury.

Renfro was an All-America last season and recovered enough from a broken rib to play one of his finest games against Indiana last week. There isn't a phase of football in which the senior halfback doesn't excel.

Oregon is rated a five point favorite on the basis of a 6-3 season mark to 5-4 for Oregon State and the fact it is playing at home.

But the Webfoots haven't beaten the Beavers since 1958 when they won 20-0 at Corvallis. Since then Oregon State has won three and there was a 14-14 tie in 1960.

Over the years Oregon has won 30, Oregon State 27 and there have been nine ties.

Fraley recalls Chicago Black Sox episode...

By Oscar Fraley
UPI Staff Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Chicago Black Sox, banned from baseball in 1920 for throwing the 1919 World Series against the Cincinnati Reds, may have manipulated a few games even after that.

It is not widely remembered that the banned players banded together shortly thereafter and toured the country playing exhibitions. And they had a cute little format to make the contests come out esthetically.

Eddie Cicotte, one of the banned pitchers, would hurl for the other team to make it more even — and it was surprising how regularly his old teammates raked him up.

Seemed Strange
"We took our team down from Winnipeg to play them two games at the state fair in Minot, North Dakota," humorously recalls Harold (Sonny) Renfield, a New York importer whose life-long devotion to sports now is centered on golf.

"Cicotte pitched for us and, while I'm not accusing him of grooving the ball to make his teammates look good, it always has seemed strange to me that they beat us in both games by the same 6-0 score."

Renfield, a handsome, gray-haired man, probably ranks as the world's outstanding non-secular athlete. Now a fellow of Brandeis University, as a young man in Winnipeg he played baseball for the Baptist Church team, soccer for the Presbyterian and ran on the Church of England's track team.

"Then," he grins, "when the Jewish temple started a basketball team, I wasn't considered eligible."
A sprinter at the University of Manitoba, Renfield teamed with Percy Williams, who later won two Olympic gold medals, in track meets for the Vancouver Police Department. He was a captain in the 10th Canadian Machine Gun Corps which won the British Empire rifle title.

Golf His Downfall
But it was golf which became his downfall as, fighting down to a 10 handicap, he became an unreconstructed weekend golfer. And, like any other fairway fanatic, Renfield wanted to meet the big names of golf.

His solution was simple. All he did was start his own tournament, the Haig and Haig mixed Scotch foursome which will be played at Sebring, Fla., Dec. 5-8.

It's the only tournament of its kind, pairing the men and women professionals together in a scramble for the $40,000 jackpot. Both members of each team hit their drives, one is selected, and the men and women then play alternate strokes on the one ball.

Mason Rudolph and Kathy Whitworth teamed to win it last year but are in for a tough struggle this time against such stars as Sam Snead, Mickey Wright, Tommy Bolt, Marlene Hage, Julius Boros and Ruth Jessen in a field of 24 teams.

Renfield thinks any one of the teams can win. But he's not so sure about the teams that played the barnstorming Black Sox.

League meets

PORTLAND (UPI)—The Oregon Division of the Izaak Walton League meets here Saturday in its 41st annual convention. A highlight will be a discussion of fish and game problems with the legislature's interim committee on fish and game.

ACCEPTS APPOINTMENT

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who is showing an increasing interest in amateur sports, has accepted an appointment as honorary chairman of the Lambert Trophies board.
The Lambert board annually honors the leading major and small college football teams in the east.

Showdown looms in WHL between Blades, Denver

By United Press International
The Western Hockey League's two red-hot teams, Los Angeles and Denver, square off tonight at the Sports Arena in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles moved into first place Thursday night when Bruce Carmichael's four goals sparked a 7-6 overtime win over slumping San Francisco. Denver moved to within two points of the top with a 4-0 blanking of Seattle. The Invaders' 9-6-1 record is the best in the loop from a percentage point of view.

Thursday night at San Francisco came after 2:23 of the overtime. San Francisco had a 3-0 lead after 4:11 of play and still led 6-4 midway through the last stanza. But Carmichael hit two in regular play and another in the extra period.

Leo LaBine assisted on two goals, including the decider, and also scored twice and got in a couple of fights with Jean Marc Picard of San Francisco.

Seal coach Bud Poile summed up his team's efforts this way: "The guys were just terrible."

Denver goalie Al Millar turned in his first shutout of the season to pace the Invaders to their second straight over Seattle.

The Tolems got a preview of things to come when Lou Jankowski tallied with just 12 seconds of action gone. He added another later and rookie Bill Collins also blinked the red light twice for the Invaders.

Portland and Vancouver battle to stay out of last place in tonight's only other contest.

'Wait and see' attitude prevails pending outcome of UW-W SU tiff

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Travel agencies here have adopted a "wait and see" attitude toward the traditional Washington - Washington State football game here Saturday.

If Washington wins (and Husky alumni will be there in force to see that they do because the big traditional also is homecoming time for the U of W this year), the Huskies will be the probable Rose Bowl entry for the West Coast.

The travel industry agreed that thousands of bookings for gala New Year's holiday trips to Pasadena may depend on the result of Saturday's game. Husky fans were all set to make Rose Bowl plans a week ago. But then UCLA got in the road. That game with UCLA is a painful topic of conversation in these parts. The Bruins humiliated the proud Huskies to the tune of 14-0.

The big upset muddled the whole New Year's picture.

Washington is still the favorite to make the Pasadena trip, but USC and UCLA both have a chance if the Huskies stumble against the Cougars.

WSU coach Jim Sutherland put the "no admittance" sign around the practice lot at the start of this week's practice and the Cougar squad has been working like coal miners in preparation for Saturday.

The Cougars came to life against Stanford last week and thumped the Indians 32-15. They're just itching to get at Washington.

Washington State is expected to start Dale Ford, the hero of the Stanford game, at quarterback. The rest of the WSU backfield probably will be Larry Ellmes at fullback, Gerry Shaw at right half and Clarence Williams at left half.

Husky Coach Jim Owens acted like he was displeased about something following the Washington-UCLA game.

Fullback Junior Coffey, halfbacks Ron Medved and Dave Kopay and center John Stupey all were demoted to the second string. Guard Rick Redman, the anchor of what had been a rugged Washington line, was banished to Siberia. He was sent down to the third string, worked his way back to the second string, then was sent down to the fourth team.

Now - '64 Chevy II... with a V8 engine

Now you see it. Now you don't. When a Chevy II does that kind of disappearing act you know without looking twice: It's a '64 with a V8 engine.

That's right. A full-grown 195-hp Turbo-Fire V8.* It's available for the first time along with a choice of three other engines—the standard 4 (in 100 Series sedans), the standard 6 and a new 155-hp 6.* (And all of them maintain their high spirits on modest amounts of regular gasoline.)

But the changes aren't confined to what happens when you slip into the driver's seat. There are new styling features like the tasteful grille design and trim accents, for instance. And the larger self-adjusting brakes that further reduce upkeep on a car that already has a reputation of coming about as close to perpetual motion as anything on four wheels can get.

The place to get the full details on the '64 is your Chevrolet dealer's. And after you've got them, we hope you'll attend to one further detail yourself. Drive it.
