'Needled' player makes his point(s)

by Web Ruble
Bulletin Sports Editor

Happenings here and there — A "needled" back can be sharp as a point getter. . . or at least that's what they're saying in New Jersey these days.

The story appeared Wednesday in the Eugene Register-Guard's "sports wire" shorts. It follows.

Fullback Dave Nigra of Little Falls, New Jersey's Passaic Valley high school, may never again be as sharp as he was Saturday now that he's had a sewing needle removed from his thigh.

A doctor removed the inch-long needle Monday after a magnetic device was used to pinpoint it an inch under the skin. All the 6-2, 205-pound Nigra did Saturday, with the needle in his leg, was to gain 174 yards and score four touchdowns against Cedar Grove High.

The needle became imbedded after Nigra practiced in a pair of repaired football pants with the needle still in them, unnoticed.

"After practice last Friday, Dave came to my office with 10 inches of thread sticking out of his leg," said coach Steve Gerdy. "He said he'd felt only a slight pinch and thought nothing of it."

"We tried to ease it out by pulling the thread but it would not move. A doctor probed for the needle but couldn't find it. So we had the X-rayed. It showed the needle was about an inch below the surface. A surgeon saw it and said he could play."

LIP'S RECORD SALES

Cassius Clay, self-proclaimed heir apparent to the world heavyweight boxing title, has laid claim to another championship.

"My record will outsell 'My Fair Lady' and 'The First Family' combined," the Louisville Lip said. He and his entourage made a one-day stop in Toronto Monday to tape two television interviews.

Clay's record, a potpourri of songs and quips modestly entitled, "I Am The Greatest," has been appraised by critics as not good but loud.

Accompanied by a valet, two sparring partners, a chauffeur and his 20-year-old brother Rudolph Valentino Clay, Cassius continued his verbal assault on heavyweight champion Sonny Liston for the benefit of assembled newspaper men:

"I'll hit Liston so fast and often he'll think he's surrounded. . . Liston doesn't want to fight me but he can't back out." And as he was about to leave Toronto, the Lip offered a dazzling revelation about himself: "I'm not just a clown. . . I'm doing it for money."

SOUND FAMILIAR?

Here's one that has plenty of meaning for us here in Bend. It wasn't so long ago that they were right here, training on the high snow field of Bachelor Butte:

"You push yourself, after you're exhausted if you want to become an Olympic skier," Bob Beattie said Tuesday in Boulder, Colo.

"This is what it takes to be great," added the coach of the United States Alpine team of downhill and slalom racers that will compete in the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, January 29-February 9. The Olympians, who spent six weeks dry land training at the University of Colorado where Beattie is ski coach, skied nearby on St. Mary's Glacier and are now sailing down the snowy slopes of Mammoth Mountain in the California Sierras.

Training Olympic skiers "is one of the most intense athletic endeavors I have ever seen," added Beattie.

Beattie said any analysis of European superiority show their skiers well ahead in three basic areas — physical, mental and technical.

"If we are to whip the world's best," Beattie said, "we must start at the beginning — the physical phase — and become as tough as they are."

. . . And those were just about his comments when he, Jean Saubert and the Olympians were beginning training last August at Elk Lake and on Bachelor Butte.

Settlement set with Indians

PORTLAND (UPI) — Fifty-one years ago a government survey or accidentally short-changed the Klamath Indians 621,824 acres while mapping boundaries for the tribal reservation.

Thursday the white man paid for his mistake — to the tune of $2.5 million.

El Nath Davis, secretary of the tribal executive committee, announced the compromise settlement with the Justice Department which is still subject to the approval of the Klamath tribe, the secretary of the interior and the Indian Claims Commission.

David P. Weston, U.S. tribal operations officer, said the government paid the Indians about 3 cents an acre for the land after the error was discovered. But in 1951 the Indians pressed a claim against the government on the grounds they'd been short changed.

If the tribe's 2,133 members vote to accept the settlement at a Dec. 7 meeting in Chiloquin, it will mean about $1,066 for each member.

Blaze destroys old lumber mill

PORTLAND (UPI) — A four-alarm fire, touched off by an explosion, destroyed an old landmark lumber mill on Southwest Macadam Avenue here early today.

Two passersby turned in a box alarm after seeing flames on the roof of the 800-foot-long building, which was in the process of being dismantled. The fire was preceded by a explosion, which brought calls to police and newspaper switchboards.

Twenty-seven pieces of fire equipment went to the scene. A big storage shed which contained an estimated 1,500,000 board feet of lumber was saved.

Kenneth Condon, secretary-treasurer of the firm, said the boiler was being removed Thursday and the cause could be oxygen used for welding.

An adjacent Willamette River dock was destroyed by the fire.
