

Lawmakers say Boardman issue not yet closed

SALEM (UPI)—The Oregon Legislature gave its blessing to Boeing's lease on the 100,000-acre Boardman industrial park Monday, but many lawmakers predicted they haven't heard the end of the issue.

The Senate passed the main Boardman bill 20 to 10 late in the day to clear the way for adjournment, after the House had given it a 33 to 26 approval.

The bill ratifies Boeing's lease on the northeastern Oregon land and turns the project over to the State Veterans' Affairs Agency, which will use profits from its loan fund to clear title to part of the area.

The first payments will be $522,000 to the federal government for former Navy land and $386,000 to the state's common school fund for school lands involved in the project.

While the Senate was considering the main bill, the House killed a companion measure to freeze the value of the bare land for tax purposes. The vote was 30 yes and 29 no, one short of the majority needed for passage.

"Vision" Prevails: Hatfield

"Men and women of vision prevailed in this hour of momentous decision. Those who would build Oregon and rise above pettiness have provided their children with a great legacy," Gov. Mark Hatfield said after the main bill was passed.

Boeing signed a 77-year lease on the land July 1, but had until Dec. 15 to decide whether to honor it. The company has not specified what it will do with the land, but there were indications it would be used for a missile test facility.

Senate President Ben Mussa, D-The Dalles, relinquished his post to lead the floor fight for the bill in the Senate. He was joined by 10 other Democrats and all 9 Republicans in voting for it. The remaining 10 Democrats opposed it.

"This is not a matter of partisanship," Mussa said of the bill, which was requested by Republican Gov. Hatfield.

"This is a matter of faith in the future."

Opponents of the measure in both the House and the Senate contended that the lease is weighted heavily in favor of Boeing and that some of the provisions are beyond the constitutional powers of the state. It was negotiated by the State Land Board.

Committee OK's Bill

Senate passage followed 1 1/2 hours of debate after the Senate Judiciary Committee approved it 6-2. Democratic Reps. Edward Fadelley, Eugene, and Alfred Corbett, Portland, dissented.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Rep. Thomas Mahoney, D-Portland, had been instructed to look at the bill only from a legal standpoint.

Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton said Nov. 22 that certain sections of it were of doubtful constitutionality and urged a quick court test if it was passed by the legislature.

Senate Minority Leader Anthony Yturri, R-Ontario, said the items mentioned by Thornton could be cut out of the bill and out of the contract by a court without invalidating the whole Boeing contract.

Once on the floor, the measure was attacked by Sen. Ted Hallock, D-Portland, as a license "to pirate our veterans, to pollute our rivers and to hogtie and eventually break the hearts of the people of Eastern Oregon."

4 JFK aides to stay on job

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Four of the late President Kennedy's closest White House aides have accepted President Johnson's request to stay on the job.

They are Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, special counsel Theodore Sorensen, appointments secretary Kenneth O'Donnell, and Lawrence O'Brien, special assistant for congressional affairs.

Salinger said Walter Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, also agreed to keep working.

Salinger's decision appeared to try to put an end to speculation that he would quit to seek the congressional seat being left vacant by Rep. John Shelley, D-Calif., San Francisco mayor-elect.

Gold Medallion plan explained

Details of Pacific Power & Light Company's Gold Medallion program for new homes and apartments were explained to Bend area builders, contractors and material dealers Monday night at a dinner meeting in Bend.

J. W. Mowrey of Portland, residential sales director for Pacific Power, outlined the specifications of the total electric Gold Medallion program which is available to builders.

In order to qualify for the Gold Medallion rating, new homes are required to have electric heating and adequate insulation, a certain number of major electric appliances, and must meet lighting and wiring requirements specified in the Gold Medallion program.

Frank Rush, heating specialist on PP&L's general sales staff in Portland, emphasized the importance of proper installation techniques for house insulation, and briefly discussed various types of electric furnaces.

R. G. McFarland, Central Oregon district manager for Pacific Power, handled arrangements for the program. Members of PP&L's local sales staff also attended the session.

Some 65 contractors, electricians and material dealers attended the dinner.

Condemnation issue blocking dunes decision

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Opposition to the condemnation of private property appeared today to be the chief hurdle facing a Senate bill to create the Oregon Dunes National Seashore.

A bill to establish the 30,000-acre national seashore was approved last week by the Senate Interior Committee and is expected to be taken up shortly by the Senate.

Four Republican members of the committee said they had "serious misgivings" about the need for the park and served notice they would fight the condemnation provision.

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, also objected to condemnation of private land for the park but said he heartily approved establishment of the seashore.

A majority committee report on the legislation said the right to condemn property was "essential" to assure full development of the proposed park.

"The committee feels, as courts have held, that the acquisition of some of our vanishing shorelines and other recreational areas is a public purpose justifying use of condemnation where necessary," the report said.

Contrary View
A contrary view was expressed by Sens. Gordon Allott, R-Colo.; Edwin L. Mechem, R-N.M.; Milward L. Simpson, R-Wyo.; and Len B. Jordan, R-Iowa.

The four Republicans said they would seek to amend the bill on the floor to eliminate any provision for condemnation of private property. They noted that the Interior Department had not asked for unlimited right of condemnation.

The bill, as introduced by Sen. Maurice B. Neuberger, D-Ore., originally called for a 44,000-acre park. However, the Senate committee amended the bill to cut the park back to about 30,000 acres as proposed by Rep. Robert Duncan, D-Ore.

The Senate committee estimated that it would cost $1,392,000 to acquire land for the smaller version of the park. Development costs were estimated at $6,274,000.

The national seashore would include the Honeyman and Umpqua Lighthouse state parks. While the boundary did not include the Tugman State Park, the committee suggested the state might agree to include it as well.

The report said a 9-mile stretch of national forest land south of Tenmile creek was eliminated from the original bill pending eventual determination of whether it will be needed for industrial expansion near Coos Bay.

CHECK ATTITUDES

BRISTOL, England (UPI)—Five Bristol clergymen — four Anglicans and a Baptist — went to work in factories to determine workers' attitudes on religion and discovered that only two per cent of the men they worked among attended church.

"The experiment showed that the working world is a territory about which the church knows nothing. We cannot even speak their language. We don't know the sort of pressures they are subject to," the Rev. J.B. Chuter said.

Teaching about Christ ruled out

BEAVERTON (UPI)—The board of directors of the Beaverton school district Monday night adopted a policy which says teaching about Christ should be confined to the home and church.

But the policy does not rule out singing of Christmas carols or Nativity scenes at the schools. An earlier proposal had led some persons to believe they would be ruled out, but officials said this was not the intention.

Survey shows new dress first on Mom's want list

By Gay Pauley
UPI Staff Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—December officially kicks off the season of hinting — what one wants for Christmas.

Children hint openly and repeatedly, rearing their "I want" lists each day, usually adding to each at the same time. The man of the house hints he'd like someone to remember that the Christmas bills come due in January and somebody has to pay them. Mom hints that she'd like two weeks to re-do and recuperate at one of those fancy beauty and diet spas.

Come Christmas morning, the children find some how they were remembered by parents or other relatives for most of their desires. Pop tries on the new necktie, takes a look at the mess under the tree to be translated into neat and tidy bills the first of the year, and sighs maybe he should use the tie to hang himself.

Dress or Fur Coat
Mom finds she didn't get that two weeks of living it up at a beauty center, but the family remembered her with what she really wanted anyway. A new dress or fur coat. At least, that's what one group of researchers has found to be the two most popular gifts for women this coming Christmas.

A new dress, number one. Fur coat, number two. Wrist watch, ring or lounge wear in third, fourth and fifth places.

These were the conclusions reached by questionnaire sent to some 100 housewives in the Chicago area to bring up to date a continuing study of U. S. buying habits done by the Chicago Printed String Co., makers of gift wrappings and ribbons.

For four years, the company has done a pre-Christmas survey, the others national in scope and with hundreds of persons questioned. This year, it decided to forego a repeat questionnaire to women across the country because it figures by now it has a pretty strong idea of how the answers will shake up, a spokesman said. The Chicago women were considered representative of women anywhere else.

Portland order placed by Boeing
PORTLAND (UPI)—The Boeing Co. of Seattle has placed an order here for airplane structural parts and components amounting to $4 million, it was reported today.

Kenneth Wright, manager of the aircraft division of Electronic Specialty Co., said the order was only the first of several multi-million dollar contracts the firm has under negotiation. Some of the others, he said, also are with Boeing.

The Oregon Legislature Monday completed action on a bill paying the way for Boeing to use the 100,000-acre Boardman area in Northeast Oregon for space age testing.
