Emergency on teachers noted, action taken

SALEM (UPI) —The Board of Education today officially declared the existence of an emergency because of a short supply of teachers. It authorized issuance of emergency elementary teaching certificates for the 1964-65 school year.

The board also announced emergency certificates would be eliminated after the 1964-65 school year, although restricted certificates will be available to teachers whose training does not fully meet state requirements.

Dr. Joy Gubser, assistant superintendent, noted that the emergency certificates were first issued during World War II.

She said at one time 2,300 Oregon teachers held emergency certificates.

She said 1,530 such certificates had been issued for the current school year.

Should Move Fast

Cecil Posey, executive secretary of the Oregon Education Association, told the board "we should move fast to remove emergency certification. It's time we take a definite stand. Let's adopt a plan to cut these people off, and set a target date and move toward it."

In related action, the board modified regulations for issuance of emergency elementary certificates, and the regulations for one-year certificates.

Public Instruction Supt. Leon P. Minear said the action was "a step toward tightening up the requirements."

Dr. Gubser pointed out that many of the teachers with emergency certificates very nearly meet the requirements for full certification.

She said she was now analyzing the records of teachers with emergency certificates to see how much they lack for full certification.

Intertie bill awaits signature

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An appropriations bill carrying $8.5 million for construction of transmission lines to carry Columbia River power to the Pacific Southwest today awaited the signature of President Johnson.

Funds for the West Coast power interite were included in a public works appropriations bill which cleared Congress Thursday.

As approved by Congress, however, the bill declares that construction of the transmission lines will not begin until Congress acts on other legislation to give the Pacific Northwest first call on firm power produced in the area.

That legislation is still bogged down.

In and Out of hospitals In Central Oregon

BEND

Patients admitted Thursday to St. Charles Memorial Hospital were Gene Cecil, Prineville; Charles Ipock, 522 Colorado; Jewell Corum, Silver Lake; Mrs. Beddie Middleton, Terrebonne; Mrs. Robert Wood, 1137 Baltimore.

Patients discharged were Sue Ann Kofford, Mrs. Leo Kentner, Kimberly Keele, William V. Blake, Ernest Evins.

Two more quints to go home

ABERDEEN, S.D. (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer will have a special Christmas present. The doctor has told them two more of their quintuplets can go home from the hospital.

The lone boy, James Andrew, went home Nov. 30.

The hospital said it was not sending the remaining four home at the same time because the doctor wants to condition the Fischers to the new members of the family gradually.

The hospital also said it has not decided which two girls will be released. It probably won't make much difference, an aide said, because all four are in good condition.

Mary Margaret, Mary Magdalene, Mary Catherine and Mary Ann are still in the hospital.

The quints were born Sept. 14, the first U.S. quintuplets to survive.

Ladies of Elks hold annual Christmas party

The annual Christmas party sponsored by the Bend Ladies of Elks was held last night in the BPOE Temple, with some 130 persons attending. A cocktail hour in the lounge preceded the dinner in the basement dining room.

Toys completed so far by the Bend Fire Department, for Christmas distribution, were on display, and those attending brought other gifts to add to the collection. Volunteers from the lodge will box the gifts and food baskets for distribution Monday evening, December 23.

Mrs. Lowell McMeen, president of the Ladies of Elks, was in general charge of arrangements for the party, and assisted on the several committees. Helpers were Mrs. Walter Emard and Mrs. C. V. Shultz, decorations, and Mrs. Ron Salt, Mrs. Harold Barfknecht, Mrs. Morley Madden, Mrs. Dan Neal and Mrs. R. J. Hafstad, serving and kitchen.

The women's group provided roast turkey and ham for the main course, and those attending took appropriate dishes to round out the menu. After the dinner, Ron Salt and Carol Snider played for dancing.

New warning plan outlined at meeting

A Civil Defense coordinating meeting, to explain new procedures for communications in government, was held Thursday at the courthouse. The emergency broadcast warning system, which replaced Conelrad, out as of August 4, was explained.

In case of any disaster, from natural or other causes, information will be given on regular frequency broadcasting stations. Station KBND, Bend, which has auxiliary power and a 24-hour license, has been designated as the official emergency broadcast outlet for the local area, by the Federal Communications Commission.

William C. James, county Civil Defense director, said that releases will be prepared at the courthouse and relayed to the radio station by radio or telephone. A number of cooperating agencies were given instructions for getting information to the Civil Defense office.

In case of daytime disasters, children will be sent home from schools, as in the case of the assassination of President Kennedy, it was explained. At the time of that tragedy, time for evacuating the schools was checked, and the movement was fast and efficient, serving, in effect, as a Civil Defense drill, James said.

Presence of children at home will alert mothers to turn to KBND's frequency for explanatory information. If there are disasters at times other than regular broadcasting hours, the station will go on the air.

Present at the meeting were representatives of the City of Bend, including the fire department, the county court and road department, the Deschutes National Forest, Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Co., Brooks - Scanlon, Inc., U.S. National Bank and KBND.

Inquiries about disasters believed to be impending may be telephoned to the City Police Station anytime, or to the Civil Defense office during regular courthouse hours.

State's institutions hard hit by austerity program

By Zan Stark
UPI Staff Writer

SALEM (UPI) — "I shall not be a party to any action which would move aged and sick and infirm people into the streets of our state," Gov. Mark Hatfield said as he ordered austerity cuts after the Oct. 15 tax referendum.

"We have an obligation to the aged, infirm and to welfare recipients...we will make cuts where we can make them with the least harm resulting," the governor explained.

The $49.8 million Board of Control budget for the state's hospitals, detention homes and prisons was trimmed $2.9 million.

State funds totaling $1.6 million were stripped from the welfare budget. Because matching funds were involved, the total welfare cuts came to more than $4 million.

There are about 10,000 state wards in Board of Control institutions. They still eat, need medicine, hospital care, clothing—or in the case of confinement institutions, guarding and supervision.

The state can exercise some control over the populations of some of its institutions. Hospitals can refuse admittance, or can release patients early.

But the state has a constitutional duty to provide detention for prisoners, and cannot control the rapidly expanding population at Oregon State Penitentiary and Oregon Correctional Institute.

Staff cuts were made. Mental hospitals and institutions for the retarded institutions laid off 24 workers, and left 27 vacancies unfilled.

Patient care could suffer. Nobody can yet guess how much.

The Public Welfare Department is fearful that the mental institutions and hospitals will release patients that welfare will have to place in nursing homes.

The average welfare caseload in Oregon is about 65,700 persons. This includes everything from minor grants in aid, to support of dependent children, to aid to the elderly and to full time nursing home care.

The Welfare Department already was in budget trouble before the Oct. 15 referendum. Medical, drug costs and certain types of aid were running way over budget. The austerity cuts added to the problem.

Hospitals and doctors have been on a pro-rata payment system for years. Drug payments were added to the pro-rata system late month when the bills far exceeded the money available. Some druggists refuse to go along with the system.

As part of the austerity cuts, the $5 increase in nursing home rates, 10 per cent increase in physicians allotment, and 4 per cent increase in hospital allotment — approved earlier this year—were wiped out.

The clothing allowance for nursing home patients and aged persons was cut 25 per cent.

Membership in the state's medical aid to the aged program was frozen at 7,500. When the enrollment exceeds 7,500, benefits will be slashed.

The Welfare Department isn't filling 63 vacant positions. Some of these were caseworkers whose job was to have been to get people off the welfare rolls.

Choir to offer yule concert

The choir of First Presbyterian Church will present its annual Christmas concert Sunday, December 15, at both Sunday morning services, at 9 and 11 o'clock. A Christmas pastorale, "The Shepherd and His Lamb," by Gillette, has been selected for this year.

The story is of the birth of Jesus Christ as told by one of the shepherds. The narration of the shepherd's part will be done by Kessler Cannon. Special instrumental and choral numbers enhancing the narration will include "Silent Night! Holy Night!," "Angels from the Realms of Glory," "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," "How Far is it to Bethlehem," and "Walking Song of Adoration."

The choir is directed by Nick Norton. Mrs. C. E. Bush is the organist.

Plans for the Church School sessions will not be affected except that classes in the early session will be slightly shorter, beginning following the worship service in which the pastoral is presented.

The public is invited to attend either service.

Santa to roam Redmond streets

Special to The Bulletin

REDMOND — Santa Claus will roam Redmond streets Saturday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. under sponsorship of the newly-formed "Good Fellows' Club."
