Christmas Eve dangers noted

"The few hours of Christmas Eve are the most deadly hours of the year in terms of traffic accidents," Police Chief Emil Moen reminded today.

Nationally, the hours between six p.m. and midnight on this day claim an average of 12 deaths an hour compared to an average of less than five deaths an hour on Christmas day.

Moen gave speed and drinking drivers as the two main reasons for the high Christmas Eve death toll.

"A large number of drinking drivers are on the streets," he said. "Many of them are on their way home from office parties or other Christmas celebrations." There are also drivers, he added, who, in their haste to get home for Christmas, drive too fast for conditions.

"Christmas Eve should be looked forward to as an evening of family happiness and companionship," Moen said. "But too often this day marks the anniversary of the loss of a loved one."

Eagles to host Santa Claus

The Bend Eagles will be host to Santa Claus this Friday, at 7 p.m. at the aerie hall, 121 Greenwood Avenue. Eugene Tabor, chairman of this year's Christmas program, said all Eagles are urged to have their children present for the entertainment, which will be followed by the visit of Santa. He will have gifts for all children present.

Entertainment will be provided by the Bowlus School of Music and Dance, Carol Snider, and a group of carol singers from Bend High School.

Cloyd Burdett, president of the aerie, reported that there will not be a lodge business meeting this Friday evening because of the Christmas program.

Zone proposal draws protest

The first formal protest against plans to build an east-side apartment facility near Thurston Avenue was raised last night during the regular Bend City Commission session.

A neighboring resident of the selected apartment site, Bill Hatch, Sr., told the board he has 50 or 60 signatures on petitions from neighbors protesting the zone change which would allow the apartment in their district. Hatch complained about the unsightliness he believed the building would bring, and the congestion of traffic.

Land Mart Realty is negotiating with a client to build the 24-unit "luxury type" structure in an area between Thurston Avenue and the Bend Riverside Motel, just east of the river. But it cannot be built without a zone change — from R-2 (single - family dwelling) zone to R-4 (multiple - family dwelling) zone.

The board told Hatch his objection would be taken into account, but that it must also consider the city's general welfare. A public hearing on the proposed change will be held December 30.

In other business the board voted to purchase $400 worth of informational booklets being printed by Bend's Provisional League of Women Voters. League President Mrs. George W. Marshall requested the purchase to help cover printing costs of the booklets. The 50-page publication will contain comprehensive information about the city of Bend, describing population, economy, government structure, education, voter information, etc.

RISE UNEXPECTED

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Crown Zellerbach Corp., surprised by a five-point rise in its stock because of rumors it has a new miracle drug in the works, Wednesday tried to head off speculators.

A company spokesman said even if the experimental drug Dimethyl Sulfoxide, or DMSO should live up to the effects attributed to it, "commercialization of the chemical as a drug would have little effect on the company's overall sales volumes and earnings."

FUTURE IS BLEAK

LANCING, England (UPI)— Railwaymen at the Lancing roundhouse Wednesday angrily ripped up Christmas greetings from British Railway czar Dr. Richard Beeching wishing them a Happy New Year and a "Brighter Future."

The roundhouse is to be closed Jan. 1 and most of the 1,000 men expected to be fired.

Two offerings of 'Amahl' planned by C.O.C. choir

Central Oregon College's annual Christmas musical, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," under the direction of Mrs. Laurie Smith, will be presented in the Bend Senior High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. Saturday, December 21, and at the Crook County High School Auditorium in Prineville at 3 p.m. Sunday, December 22. There will be no admission charge.

The Christmas opera, which was first produced as a television show in 1951, is presented annually in the Central Oregon area by the COC choir. This season marks their fourth yearly production.

"Amahl and the Night Visitors" was written by Gain Carlo Menotti, who based the story on Italian Christmas folklore. The opera deals with a poor widow and her lame son who are visited by the Three Wise Men who are en route to Bethlehem at the time of the birth of Christ.

Dallas Quick, Central Oregon College choir director, who, in preceeding years has directed the opera, will this year serve as pianist for the production. The directing chores will be handled by Mrs. Laurie Smith, choir member who has had previous experience in directing "Amahl."

Quick said the program will be an annual event in Bend and that the one additional performance each year will be held in Prineville, Redmond, or Madras. This year Prineville was selected as the site of the additional presentation. Next year, Redmond, and the following year, Madras will host the COC Christmas musical.

The cast is made up of Brenda Butcher, as Amahl; Linda Strother, the mother; Dennis Marvin, Nick Norton, and Dave Frey, the Three Kings; and Gary Cecil as the page. The shepherds are portrayed by members of the choir. Dancers include Donald Brunton, Barbara Frazee, and Elizabeth Chenoweth. Choreography is directed by Mary Cowden.

Quick said the concert is a Christmas present to the public.

Course planned in psychiatry

A post - graduate course in psychiatry will be available to non - psychiatric physicians in the Central Oregon area. A series of meetings will be held on second and fourth Mondays each month beginning January 13.

The course will be under the auspices of the American Academy of General Practice, the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education, the Oregon Medical Association, the Central Oregon Medical Association and the Tri-County Community Mental Health Clinic.

Dr. John H. Waterman, director of the community services section of the Oregon State Board of Control's mental health division, and Dr. Robert I. Daughterty, Lebanon, met recently with a representative group of local physicians to plan the course. The format was worked out at that meeting.

Meetings will be held consecutively in Bend, Redmond and Prineville. Attendance will be limited to physicians.

Automotive classes planned

Applied Hydraulics and Automatic Transmissions will be the subject of two courses being offered by Central Oregon College Division IV, starting January 8, with registration to be held January 6, in the Bend Senior High School Cafeteria.

Labs for the two automotive courses will be held each Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. at the COC Metals Tech lab in Bend. Lecture sessions will be held from 9:10 to 10 p.m. for Applied Hydraulics, and from 10:10 to 11 p.m. for the Automatic Transmissions lab.
