Powell facing contempt count

NEW YORK (UPI) — Controversial Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., was held in contempt of court Friday for failure to heed a legal summons in connection with a $211,500 libel judgment against him.

The Harlem Democrat was ordered to pay the full amount or to appear in court here on Jan. 6 for a determination of whether he could pay any amount of the settlement. The latter probably would entail a complete study of Powell's financial status.

However, his lawyers said the congressman would appeal the decision. Powell was at his residence in Puerto Rico.

Powell stepped into the libel suit during a television interview in 1960. He was in the midst of a campaign against gambling and alleged police corruption in Harlem. During the interview he labeled Mrs. Esther James, a 66-year-old Harlem widow, as a "bag woman (graft collector)" for the police department.

Mrs. James sued and won the judgment earlier this year. However, attempts to collect the money failed and Powell did not answer a court summons in September. He contended through his lawyers that it was illegally served.

One subpoena had been tacked to the door of his apartment in Manhattan and a second had been mailed to him.

State Supreme Court Justice Arthur Markewich ruled Friday that the subpoena had been served according to due process. However, he said Powell could purge himself of contempt by paying the total judgment or appearing in court for examination.

Photographer crash victim

SEATTLE (UPI) — Tom Carson, 48, a photographer for the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, died at University Hospital here early today of injuries suffered Friday in a two-car collision about four miles south of Snohomish.

Carson and reporter Jack Jarvis were returning from covering a story concerning the death of a Seattle man and his son on Mt. Index, 40 miles east of here.

Carson suffered a critical head injury and was taken first to Everett General Hospital in very critical condition. He was later transferred to the hospital here where he died at 2:55 a.m.

Jarvis suffered a fracture of the right shoulder and cuts and bruises. He was admitted to Providence Hospital here in good condition.

Jarvis was driving Carson's car when it collided head-on with a station wagon driven by Gilbert V. Arthur, 31, Springfield, Ore.

Youth session due to open

PORTLAND (UPI) — Leaders of Conservative Jewish youth in the Pacific Northwest will open a four-day meeting at the Synagogue Neveh Shalom here Sunday.

Representatives are expected from the Portland, Seattle, Spokane and Vancouver, B. C., areas.

Lawmakers due in Washington

PORTLAND (UPI) — Sen. Maurice Neuberger, D-Ore., will interrupt his Christmas vacation here Friday to return to Washington D. C. at the special request of Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

Mansfield called members of the Senate back to the capital in order to hold a vote on the foreign aid bill Monday.
