Area orchestra meeting weekly

Still in need of musicians is the Central Oregon Symphony Orchestra, currently holding practice sessions every other Sunday at the Bend Senior High School.

Under tutelage of Don Goodwin, the orchestra has thus far enlisted between 45 and 50 players. About half of these are adults; the rest college and high school students.

"But we need string players," says Goodwin. "And we have special need for a bassoonist." Goodwin says the majority of orchestra members live in Bend. Others come from Prineville, Redmond, Madras and Tumalo. Practice sessions are two hours in length, usually, from 4 to 6 p.m., in the school bandroom. First concert is scheduled late in March at a date not yet selected.

One of the symphony highlights this year is the billing of a guest conductor from the University of Oregon in Eugene, George Boughton, director of Orchestras at the U of O, will conduct and play violin solo during a concert scheduled about the end of this school year.

Goodwin reminds college students interested in joining the group that they can receive credits for their participation.

Sewing brings cruise tickets

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Magic in the finger tips of two young seamstresses has transformed lengths of fabric into tickets for a Caribbean cruise.

Miss Diane Buffington of Des Moines, Iowa, and Sonya Lozier of Enterprise, Ore., will make that cruise next summer. Their garments were judged the best in the 17th annual make-it-yourself-with-wool contests Monday night in Albuquerque.

Miss Lozier, winner in the junior division, showed a black and red suit. A stole collar and inserted pockets in the front of the skirt gave individuality to the suit.

Miss Lozier, 16, makes all her own clothes. She has been sewing for eight years. Her parents appropriately raise and exhibit sheep.

Bend Players name Tadevic

The proposal for a local recreation center, to be available for plays and other activities, was discussed by Bend Community Players, at their first 1964 meeting. Officers were elected, with George Tadevic named president, succeeding Ken Westcott.

There was some opposition to little theater group use of a proposed facility at Juniper Park, on the grounds that participation in such a project would deprive the group of priority and make it subject to pressures.

Possibility of a building for the players, to be built with private backing, was also explored.

Elected to serve in the coming year with Tadevic were Bill Bowers, vice-president, and Kay Blake, secretary - treasurer. The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Churchill.

Joint U.S., Soviet space study is set

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI) — The United States and Russia will join together in a satellite program for the first time with the launching by this nation of the largest space craft ever to be orbited by man, it was announced today.

United States officials said the Soviet Union planned to track and to conduct experiments with the giant Echo 2 balloon satellite which will be sent up from this Pacific missile range base early Thursday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said it will be "the first important step toward peaceful cooperation in space...and a means of furthering people-to-people communications throughout the world."

In addition, NASA said the huge 13-story-high inflatable satellite "is expected to be seen by more persons than any man-made object in the history of the world."

It will appear in the sky as a bright star and will orbit the earth for at least three years.

NASA said Russia accepted an invitation to take part in radar-tracking the 135-foot diameter "Satellon" and to bounce radio signals off its reflective surface, which acts as a giant "mirror in the sky."

In addition, two beacon transmitters (on a frequency of 162 megacycles) in the space craft will send telemeter data on the balloon's skin temperature and internal pressure to ground stations.

"The space craft is designed to permit satellite communications experiments through radio, teletype and voice as well as other data on its orbital environment," said Herbert Eaker, NASA's Echo 2 project manager.

Change in zone turned down

Fearful that a requested zone change would be construed as "spot zoning," Bend City Commissioners last night voted against a proposal to convert 3½ acres of eastside area from a residential to an apartment-dwelling zone.

The motion was defeated by a 6-1 vote, with only Commissioner E. L. Nielsen, favoring the request. If approved the proposal would have enabled Land Mart Realty to build a 48-unit apartment structure near the east bank of the Deschutes River, roughly between Thurston Avenue and Linster Place. That area is presently zoned as residential property.

The prospect of seeing the zone change later construed as invalid spot-zoning (meaning the zoning of a small tract inside a larger zone) deterred most commissioners from giving approval. Courts often declare spot zoning invalid when the incident proves not to be of benefit to the city as a whole. Fear of insufficient access to the area also influenced the vote.

In earlier action the board rejected a Planning Commission recommendation that an area neighboring the 3½-acre tract, but excluding it, be changed to a multiple-family zone.

No further base closings seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The $97.9 billion budget sent to Congress by President Johnson today does not anticipate further closings of U.S. bases abroad, a source said today.

The Defense Department recently announced plans to close seven bases abroad, as well as some in the United States.
