Big judgments are affirmed by high court

SALEM (UPI) — Two judgments totaling more than $234,000 were affirmed today by the Oregon Supreme Court.

The high court upheld a $138,265 award to Margaret Gail Johnson in the Marion County Circuit Court to Judge Val D. Sloper. The case involved an auto accident in which Margaret Johnson was permanently disabled.

The accident resulted when a pickup driven by Robert Hansen went out of control when the school bus he was following stopped, and Hansen's vehicle crashed into the car in which Margaret Johnson was riding.

Also affirmed was a $96,580 judgment recovered by Everett Skeeters in the Jackson County Circuit Court of Judge James M. Main. The action was brought under the employers liability act for personal injuries suffered by Skeeters against his employers, Charles Skeeters and Richard O. Skeeters.

Everett Skeeters was operating a rock crusher for the firm when he was struck on the head by an unknown object and received serious injuries.

The Supreme Court reversed a ruling of nonsuit by Benton County Circuit Judge Fred McHenry in a personal injury action brought by Brian Stenson, a passenger in a car driven by Merle W. Prindell, a minor.

Medford Case Affirmed

The Supreme Court affirmed a $41,149 judgment awarded Jack Mathis in the Jackson County Circuit Court of Judge Edward C. Kelly.

Mathis, as general contractor, agreed to construct a supermarket building and parking lot in Medford on a cost-plus basis. The contract contained a maximum limitation and the cost ran above that amount. When the owner, Thunderbird Village, Inc., and National Reserve Life Insurance, refused further payments, Mathis foreclosed his lien for the balance of his labor and material expenditures.

The Supreme Court reversed a Lane County Circuit Court judgment by Judge Roland C. Rodman which held that Otis J. White had sustained an injury arising out of the course of his employment. Previously the State Accident Commission had rejected his claim.

White was a high school teacher who had gone home for lunch. While walking back to the school he was struck by an auto while crossing the highway.

The Supreme Court said that generally injuries sustained by employees when going to or coming from their regular work place are not deemed to arise out of the course of their employment, and that White's injury therefore was not compensable.

The Supreme Court affirmed the conviction of Catherine Day on a charge of sodomy for which she was sentenced by Multnomah County Circuit Judge Alan F. Davis to a term of three years. She was one of a group of entertainers at a stag party. In her appeal she contended that her right of cross examination of a police officer was restricted.

Frustrating Device

NEW YORK (UPI) — A theft-prevention device may drive automobile thieves crazy due to frustration, according to a report today in a McGraw-Hill publication.

When the unit is installed, any tampering with the ignition wires locks the brakes. If the brakes are released the fuel supply is cut off. If the fuel supply is adjusted the brakes will lock again and the ignition system becomes grounded.

The President will fly to St. Louis Friday afternoon to speak at a dinner on the 200th anniversary of the founding of the city. There had been speculation he might continue on to Texas for the weekend.

Full utilization of logs urged

EUGENE (UPI) — A lumber official said today investment money was needed to better utilize the log supply through diversification and secondary processing.

Nils Hult, president of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, told a banker's audience he did not believe the banking industry should be looking for added investments in primary manufacturing facilities.

"We have plenty now to handle the available log supply," he said.

The big need in the forest products industry in Oregon is to find new ways to use every bit of fiber brought out of the forests, the Junction City lumber executive said.

Hearing held on zone change

PRINEVILLE (UPI) — A public hearing over the possible zone change of a large vacant lot at Seventh and Deer streets brought a number of residents of that area to the February meeting of the city council Tuesday evening.

The zone change had been requested by Arthur Hardesty, owner of the lot, who had earlier told the council that he wished to construct a building on that corner for Kresse Motors. The original Kresse Motor showroom, offices and garage were destroyed by fire on August 15.

Since that time, Walter Kresse, owner of the car dealership, has been operating from a temporary small office structure at Second and Beaver Streets. Both Hardesty and Kresse attended the meeting.

Newberg group favors paddle against recalcitrant students

NEWBERG, Ore. (UPI) — The personnel committee of the Newberg School Board has recommended that grade school principals be allowed to paddle their pupils if necessary.

The committee made the proposal after checking reports that Principal John Chipley of the Edwards school disciplined several students with a wooden paddle for violating regulations "and endangering the safety of other students."

Supt. Loran Douglas said the recommendation that principals be given authority to administer corporal punishment was "Subject to the basic rule that such punishment must be used only for discipline, and to the limitation that it not be unreasonable or administered in a spirit of anger or with undue severity."

A statement by the personnel committee said: "Although there might be some difference of opinion among parents and others as to the judgment exercised in inflicting the amount of punishment on the particular group of students, the committee does not find such evidence of abuse of discretion or of excessive striking of any student which would justify board action at this time.

"Use of suspensions and expulsions should be given further emphasis in extreme cases of breach of discipline and disruption of school authority.

"There is a need for greater cooperation by parents with teachers, and school administrators, in preventing and handling disciplinary problems at all grade levels.

"The need for firm and fair discipline in the entire school system should be reaffirmed, in the interests of individual students, the staffs, the school system as a whole and the community."

Fort Rock plaque has been found

A bronze plaque designating the Fort Rock Cave as a site of national interest, erected last June 22 and reported missing a week later, has been found.

W. Ward Yeager, Crater Lake National Park superintendent, said a Salem man had written to the Park Service office in Portland, reporting that the plaque was found in a cave near the Fort Rock cavern, nationally renowned because it was the habitation of man more than 9,000 years ago.

Aside from some bullet holes, the plaque is in good shape, and will be replaced on a rocky wall near the opening of the Fort Rock cave.

The plaque originally was erected at the historic cave in connection with a dedication ceremony that received wide notice. Principal speaker was Dr. L. S. Cressman, then head of the University of Oregon Department of anthropology and now retired. It was Dr. Cressman who discovered 9,000 year old artifacts and other artifacts in the cave some 25 years ago.

The cave was turned over to the administration of the U.S. Park Service by Reuben E. Long and his wife, Eleanor.

Oregon State Police had been working on the case since the plaque was reported missing.

Telephone book distribution starts Feb. 19

The 1964 Bend telephone directory will start arriving at homes and businesses here Wednesday, February 19, according to G. E. Wiley, manager for Pacific Northwest Bell.

The cover theme, "Oregon — Vacation Wonderland," is emphasized by watercolor scenes of the John Day Canyon, Odell Lake, a fisherman's camp near Broken Top and the Umpqua Lighthouse below Winchester Bay.

Wiley urges everyone to jot down emergency numbers in the space provided inside the front cover of the new directory. He said this is a good time to review emergency calls with the children in each household. Children too young to read should be taught to dial the operator for help in emergencies.

Wiley emphasized that anyone calling for help directly or via the operator should make sure that the location and type of emergency is clearly understood.

Nearly 20,000 directories were printed this year for the six exchanges served by PNB in Central Oregon. The postman will deliver about 13,500 to those exchanges next week with an additional 1600 going to other communities around the state and nation.

The remainder will be used during the year to replace worn-out copies and for new customers.

100 attend Valentine party

One hundred women attended the annual Valentine luncheon and card party, Tuesday at the Bend Golf Club.

The theme, "Under the Yum-Yum Tree," was carried out with table and mantel decorations. A branch artistically painted by Mrs. Kay Thompson, and hung with decorative St. Valentine's Day symbols, adorned the mantel. Mrs. Thompson was assisted with the decorations by Mrs. Vern Harley, Mrs. Arnie Swares and Mrs. Dick Gesler.

Mrs. A. Nielsen was high scorer at bridge, with Mrs. Art Hill and Mrs. Dick Kerr receiving prizes for second and low, respectively. Mrs. Ray LeBlanc won the traveling slam prize.

Thanks received for garments sent to Algeria

Volunteers in Bend who made "djellabas" for Algeria were thanked in a letter from the president of the Algerian equivalent of the Red Cross. A letter of thanks has been received by the Red Cross in Portland, according to Mrs. Clair T. Taylor, executive secretary of the Deschutes County chapter.

The garments from Bend were among 800 made in Oregon for the Red Cross, and part of a shipment of 80,000, made by volunteers in Red Cross chapters throughout the United States.

The letter was signed by Mustapha Kermia, president of the Algerian Red Crescent, which is the name used for the Red Cross in Moslem countries.

Volunteers from several Bend churches made the garments for the local chapter. They were cut from U.S. Air Force surplus blue serge.

"The Deschutes County Chapter is very glad to have had even a small part in this project," Mrs. Taylor said, "and is very grateful to the women who made it possible for us to participate."
