

Collegians: Welcome to Central Oregon!

Forecast

Bend and Central Oregon: fair through Saturday, some high clouds. Temperatures: highs, 55 to 60; lows, 12-20.

THE BULLETIN

High yesterday, 55 degrees. Low last night, 22 degrees. Sunset today, 5:53. Sunrise tomorrow, 6:54, P.S.T.

Hi and Lo

SERVING BEND AND CENTRAL OREGON

61st Year Ten Cents Friday, February 21, 1964 Twelve Pages No. 65

PSC Winter Carnival opens under sunny skies

Greek king gravely ill, doctors perform stomach operation

Two cancer specialists in attendance

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — King Paul I, with two British cancer specialists in attendance underwent a 4½ hour operation for a stomach ulcer today.

An official medical communique said "the operation was carried out successfully" under a five-man team led by Dr. Alec Manos.

Informed sources said the 62-year-old monarch's condition was grave.

Dr. Nicholas Tzamboulas, one of the five-man medical team, described Paul's condition as "satisfactory." He said members of the royal family had been allowed into Paul's room at Tatoi Palace, where the operation was performed.

The medical bulletins made no mention of cancer, despite the presence of the two specialists.

The doctors were reported to have told the royal family that the operation was carried out solely to relieve the King's pain. They warned that his condition remained critical.

The Greek people showed their concern by standing in silent throngs around the royal palace.

No Mention of Cancer

The medical bulletin said the 62-year old King was being operated on because an old stomach ulcer had narrowed the opening of his stomach to his intestine.

But informed sources said the King's condition was more critical than the bulletin implied.

The King's 23-year old son, Crown Prince Constantine, was named regent to rule during his illness. Paul's wife, Queen Frederika, who recently returned from a visit to the United States, and other members of the family were in the palace during the operation in an improvised operating room.

Specialists Named

Court sources said the operation was performed by Greek surgeon A. Manos. The cancer specialists in attendance were Sir Stanford Cade and Edward Muir.

King Paul, known for his hearty laugh and bravery in mountain climbing or war, has been a popular monarch during difficult times for Greece. He ascended the throne in 1947, while Communist guerrillas were still fighting for power.

Big sum lost on missile

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government auditors say U.S. taxpayers lost $300 million in the purchase of a missile which the Army considered unreliable.

The General Accounting Office (GAO), the government's watchdog of spending on everything from rockets to paperclips, refused to give any details of the missile including its name.

But, in an "unclassified summary" to Congress, it said the missile was "an unsatisfactory weapon" because it could not do the job it was designed for nor was it suitable for use by the Army.

The Army, asked about the GAO report, said the criticism referred to the Lacrosse missile and said the last of the Lacrosse units was disbanded Nov. 1, 1963.

First shipment of U.S. wheat arrives in USSR

ODESSA, Russia (UPI) — The American freighter Exilona arrived here today with the first cargo of American wheat purchased by grain-short Russia.

The freighter, which left Norfolk, Va., Jan. 29, carried 6,642 tons of durum wheat from North Dakota.

It was the first shipment of the 1.7 million tons of wheat which the Soviet Union has purchased from the United States to make up for a disastrous harvest due to bad weather.

The United States has given permission for the sale to the Soviet Union of a total of 4 million tons of wheat.

The Soviet Union has purchased 8.8 million tons of Canadian wheat and an additional 1.8 million tons of Australian wheat.

Greek Cypriots surround school area in Polis

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Armed Greek Cypriots surrounded rival Turkish Cypriots in a school area of the under-box town of Polis today, creating the danger of a new clash between the warring factions.

There was no immediate indication of how many Turks were trapped in the school and surrounding vicinity.

Officials reporting the encirclement by the Greeks said "tension is high." They said violence was possible at any time.

It was the second time this week that the Polis school has been a focal point of communal friction. More than 700 Turkish Cypriots took refuge there earlier in the week after Greek-Turkish fighting swept the town in the tense northwest 50 miles west of Nicosia.

Fears of a major outbreak of violence in the northwest grew with reports that President Archbishop Makarios no longer can control the armed Greek Cypriot bands in the country-side.

The diplomatic reports said irregular Greek Cypriot troops in the rugged Polis region were operating against Turkish Cypriots independently of government restraints imposed from Nicosia.

British and American circles said it was possible the Greek Cypriots might go on a rampage if they are not satisfied with the results of diplomatic negotiation of their dispute at the United Nations in New York.

Premier of Turkey unharmed as three shots fired at him

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu today escaped an assassination attempt by a man who said he opposed the 1960 revolution that brought the present regime to power.

A man identified as Mesut Sunay, 32, fired three shots at the 79-year old premier as he entered his car to drive to the National Assembly.

The shots struck the car but missed Inonu. A soldier fired at Sunay and also missed. There were unconfirmed reports a

State refuses second juror in Ruby trial

DALLAS (UPI) — Jack Ruby's defense today accepted its second prospective juror in 31 tries, but the state dismissed him with a peremptory challenge.

The man who was accepted by defense attorney Melvin Belli was a tall, lean Texas-type, James C. Bland, 42, an appliance store manager with a wife and two children.

The World War II submarine service veteran told the state's attorneys that he had no scruples against the death penalty.

Apparently what impressed Belli most about him was his answer to Belli's question as to whether he could be a fair juror.

"With God's help," he replied, "I feel I could be fair."

Compliments Prospect

"That's one of the nicest expressions I have heard since I came to Dallas," Belli said.

Shortly after that, he accepted Bland.

Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade exercised the second of his 15 allowed peremptory challenges on Bland. No reasons are given with such challenges.

The defense earlier had exercised its sixth peremptory challenge to throw out a juror after Judge Joe B. Brown had sustained objections to all questions pertaining to bias in Dallas.

Venueman Bill Bohannon, a traveling salesman for the Lone Star Steel Co., was summarily dismissed by Belli after the prosecution objected to a stream of questions and the judge refused the objections.

Ask More Challenges

One juror was picked Thursday. Judge Brown had under advisement Belli's request for additional peremptory challenges.

Belli had set today as the deadline for proving his contention that Dallas feels so guilty it cannot give the slayer of Lee Harvey Oswald a fair trial.

Brown sustained objections to questions such as whether Bohannon found in his travels bias against Ruby.

Questions as to whether Dallas is the proper place to try the 52-year-old striptease club operator drew another round of objections. They were sustained.

Admits Some Opinions

Asst. defense attorney Joe H. Tonahill noted that Bohannon, sitting tensely in the box with his hands folded, had testified he had opinions on some things pertaining to the case.

like he was opposed to the May, 1960, revolution that deposed former Premier Adnan Menderes and put Gen. Cemal Gursel into power. Inonu, Menderes' long-time political opponent, was elected premier when Gursel ended military rule and became president.

Menderes was hanged in September, 1961, and several hundred other leaders of his Democratic party were given prison sentences. But supporters of Menderes have made gains in recent elections.

The accused gunman told police he was opposed to the May, 1960, revolution that deposed former Premier Adnan Menderes and put Gen. Cemal Gursel into power. Inonu, Menderes' long-time political opponent, was elected premier when Gursel ended military rule and became president.

Menderes was hanged in September, 1961, and several hundred other leaders of his Democratic party were given prison sentences. But supporters of Menderes have made gains in recent elections.

The accused gunman told police he was opposed to the May, 1960, revolution that deposed former Premier Adnan Menderes and put Gen. Cemal Gursel into power. Inonu, Menderes' long-time political opponent, was elected premier when Gursel ended military rule and became president.

REIGN NEARING END—Central Oregon College's Micki Siskles, the 1963 Winter Carnival Queen, will crown the '64 winner tonight at the Bend High School auditorium. Here she holds last year's program. Sixteen are vying for the crown.

President sees Sino-Russian rift as 'spreading civil war'

By Merriman Smith
UPI Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Johnson, shortly before starting his formal diplomatic talks with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico, today pictured the Sino-Soviet rift as "spreading civil war."

In a speech to an outdoor audience of more than 35,000 persons at the University of California at Los Angeles, Johnson with Lopez Mateos at his side, used the strongest terms of his White House career to appraise the squabble between Moscow and Peking.

The President called for an end to bloodshed on Cyprus, and "absolutely fair" settlement of differences with Panama and he also advised Communists to realize they were playing "a deeply dangerous game" in South Viet Nam.

Larger than any of these troubles, Johnson said, was what he called "the spreading civil war among Communists."

"And larger still," he said, "is the steadily growing strength of the worldwide community of freedom."

Meet at Airport

Johnson flew to Los Angeles from Palm Springs this morning and met Lopez Mateos at International Airport. After the special convocation at UCLA where both men spoke and received honorary degrees, Johnson and Lopez Mateos planned to fly to Palm Springs by Air Force jet transport and start their diplomatic conversations at Johnson's residence at about 1 p.m. PST.

Tight security precautions were maintained at the airport and on the campus. Security guards were stationed atop most buildings at the airport and again at the university.

On this 96th anniversary of the university's charter, Dr. Clark Kerr, university president, conferred the honorary degrees on Johnson and Lopez Mateos.

"The world has become small and turbulent," Johnson said. "New challenges knock daily at the White House, America's front door."

With this generalized introduction, the President then explored a series of crisis areas in which the United States has a major stake. Despite what he called "the dangers of today," the President said the United States would not be pushed from the path to peace by disruptive efforts of communism.

He said the United States never would be "intimidated by any state anywhere in the world that chooses to make itself our adversary."

"There is no panic on our agenda," he said. "We are interested in the deeds of our adversaries, not their creeds. Let them offer deeds of peace and our own response will be swift."

Lopez Mateos in his remarks prepared for the UCLA ceremony steered clear of topical references and concentrated instead on a philosophic approach to world problems.

Strong language at L.A.

President sees Sino-Russian rift as 'spreading civil war'

By Merriman Smith
UPI Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Johnson, shortly before starting his formal diplomatic talks with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico, today pictured the Sino-Soviet rift as "spreading civil war."

In a speech to an outdoor audience of more than 35,000 persons at the University of California at Los Angeles, Johnson with Lopez Mateos at his side, used the strongest terms of his White House career to appraise the squabble between Moscow and Peking.

The President called for an end to bloodshed on Cyprus, and "absolutely fair" settlement of differences with Panama and he also advised Communists to realize they were playing "a deeply dangerous game" in South Viet Nam.

Larger than any of these troubles, Johnson said, was what he called "the spreading civil war among Communists."

"And larger still," he said, "is the steadily growing strength of the worldwide community of freedom."

Meet at Airport

Johnson flew to Los Angeles from Palm Springs this morning and met Lopez Mateos at International Airport. After the special convocation at UCLA where both men spoke and received honorary degrees, Johnson and Lopez Mateos planned to fly to Palm Springs by Air Force jet transport and start their diplomatic conversations at Johnson's residence at about 1 p.m. PST.

Tight security precautions were maintained at the airport and on the campus. Security guards were stationed atop most buildings at the airport and again at the university.

On this 96th anniversary of the university's charter, Dr. Clark Kerr, university president, conferred the honorary degrees on Johnson and Lopez Mateos.

"The world has become small and turbulent," Johnson said. "New challenges knock daily at the White House, America's front door."

With this generalized introduction, the President then explored a series of crisis areas in which the United States has a major stake. Despite what he called "the dangers of today," the President said the United States would not be pushed from the path to peace by disruptive efforts of communism.

He said the United States never would be "intimidated by any state anywhere in the world that chooses to make itself our adversary."

"There is no panic on our agenda," he said. "We are interested in the deeds of our adversaries, not their creeds. Let them offer deeds of peace and our own response will be swift."

Lopez Mateos in his remarks prepared for the UCLA ceremony steered clear of topical references and concentrated instead on a philosophic approach to world problems.

Talent show, coronation due tonight

By Web Ruble
Bulletin Staff Writer

They're here... and still arriving.

Skiers and carnival-goers poured into Bend in a steady stream all day today, as the 8th Annual Portland State College Winter Carnival got off to a good start under blue, sunny skies.

Competition started this morning at 10 when slalom skiers began doing their stuff in two runs on Bachelor Butte. Cross-country skiing started at 2:30 this afternoon on a course that an invasion of possibly 4,000 skiers, carnival participants and camp followers.

Portland State officials made no estimate on the number this morning. Skiers were flowing in to and through Bend to Bachelor Butte. The officials did say, however, all indications point to "certainly not a small" number.

Count Perhaps Tonight

It will be late tonight before any kind of a count can be made. At noon, Carnival officials had no way of telling how many tickets had been sold.

Tomorrow the carnival reaches its fever pitch. In the morning a Bend Chamber of Commerce breakfast at the Pine Tavern will honor the queen and her court.

It will be at 8. Dr. Bramford Millar, Portland State College president and carnival officials will be present.

More skiing, of course, will be in store for the collegians. A giant slalom starts at 11 a.m. There will be only one run. At 1 in the afternoon, men and women skiers will compete together in a non-classified slalom. Here again, there will be only one run.

At 2, the carnival offers its spectacular of spectaculars. Daredevil ski jumpers will begin action.

All ski events except jumping will be held on Bachelor Butte. Jumping will run at the old Skyliners' ski jump site west of town on the road to Tumsalo Falls.

Tomorrow evening a spaghetti feed will be held at the Bend High School cafeteria from 6 to 7:30. The Waiterers, professional entertainers, will present two shows. The first one will be at 7, the second at 9:15. Both shows will be in the high school auditorium.

Sunday concludes the whole affair. Competition will continue. Downhill skiers will start their runs at 11 a.m.

Weatherman cooperating for Carnival

Fair weather through Saturday.

This was the forecast received this morning as skiers participating in the Portland State Winter Carnival moved into the white hills to the west of Bend, Bachelor Butte their destination.

Bachelor and its escort of peaks, including the Three Sisters, were stately and cloudless on the western skyline. Through the blue Mid-Oregon sky drifted a few cirrus clouds, thousands of feet above mountain tops.

The forecast for continued fair weather came following a rather chilly night, with a low of 22 recorded in Bend. However, Thursday was near spring-like with a high of 55 reported.

By Saturday, the temperature may reach into the 55-60 bracket — but it will again be cool tonight. A low in the 12-30 degree range is forecast.

Not only is good weather predicted for the weekend that will bring hundreds of skiers to the slopes of Bachelor, but it is expected that clear skies will continue into the first of the coming week.

The five-day forecast for Central Oregon indicates little or no moisture.

Clear, calm weather was reported this morning from Bachelor Butte, where the snow depth was 150 inches. The sliding surface was packed powder and variable.

There were ice spots on the last 10 miles of the 21-mile road out to the ski area from Bend.

Parking space control factor

Oregon State Police reported today that control of traffic headed for the Bachelor Butte ski area this weekend will depend entirely on available parking space at the butte.

Sgt. L. L. Hirtzel of the OSP said the gate just west of Bend will be closed just as soon as word is received by short wave that the parking areas are filled.

After that, no traffic, aside from buses and cars carrying Winter Carnival officials will be permitted to pass the control point.

It is believed that by noon Saturday, all parking space will be filled.

Working with the OSP are sheriff's deputies.

started and ended at the foot of Bachelor.

A racer's banquet is scheduled for 6 this evening. Tonight will see a talent show and crowning of the 1964 intercollegiate Winter Carnival Queen at the Bend High School Auditorium.

16 Princesses

Sixteen selected princesses from Pacific Northwest colleges are vying for the honor. Central Oregon College's Micki Siskles, last year's queen, will crown the '64 queen.

Coronation will be late, after the talent show, which starts at 8. A dance will follow the crowning.

Though skiers kept arriving in a steady stream, it was hard to determine the size of the throng. Pre-Carnival speculations offered that Bend would receive its largest crowd, ever.

Castro refuses to return boat

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro balked today at returning a stolen 60-foot American shrimp boat unless Florida returns equipment and flags "robbed" from four Cuban fishing boats held for two weeks in Key West.

Castro, in a speech monitored here, said 29 Cuban fishermen who returned home aboard their four boats had told him they were "robbed blind" while being held in the Key West jail.

The fishermen were permitted to sail home Thursday, apparently after an informal swap which permitted an American pilot and his hijacked plane to fly back to Florida.

The Cuban fishermen received a heroes' welcome today in ceremonies broadcast over Havana Radio.

Castro chose the occasion to announce that he would not relinquish the 60-foot shrimp fishing boat that Denys Lee Kirby, a 22-year-old Californian, stole two weeks ago in Key West and fled to Cuba. Kirby said he was "tired of the American way of life."

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Gov. Harold E. Hughes sat down in his sleek new luxury automobile Wednesday and tried to turn on the windshield wipers.

Hughes, a former truck driver, hit the wrong button and the car's hood popped into the air.

LOST HIS TOUCH

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Gov. Harold E. Hughes sat down in his sleek new luxury automobile Wednesday and tried to turn on the windshield wipers.