TV cameras visited guarded sanctuary of the Players Club

By Rick Du Brow UPI Staff Writer HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Groucho Marx once said he wouldn't join a club that would have him as a member. What's more, I know a press agent who belongs to a prestigious club that his famous boss can't get into. The point is that clubiness is next to guardedness. And Wednesday night, CBS-TV's "Chronicle" series took us on a brief tour of a New York club of happily guarded reputation: The Players Club, founded in 1889 by the great American actor Edwin Booth.

The half-hour broadcast marked the first time television cameras had been permitted inside the theatrical establishment, which is immediate proof of its civility. And the members on hand to inform, guide and recall were: Actors Jason Robards Jr. and Dennis King; playwright-actor Howard Lindsay, president of the club; Marc Connelly, playwright-actor-director; and Charles Colingwood, who is also the "Chronicle" host.

The subject, what little we learned about it, had intriguing possibilities, and the atmosphere, what little we felt, had the promise of gentle and adult enjoyment. Yet, either because of restrictions or unfortunate decision, we did not appear to get a very close look at the club, except for the remarks by Robards from Booth's apartment. And strangely, for a place of relaxation, there was a frequently stifled air that the show's director might have avoided by doing away with the affected informality and taking a more straightforward approach.

Booth, of course, was the brother of John Wilkes Booth, who assassinated Abraham Lincoln, and Robards touched on this, perhaps leaving some viewers wanting to know more of the family relationship. Still, the show had good moments, including a few stories by the amiable, if camera-conscious, participants in the club bar. And there was pleasure in what Lindsay described as the club's "Bill of Rights": "Harm no man — then do as you please."

Glass company plans expansion

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Brockway Glass Co. has been given a tentative go-ahead for purchase of eight plants of the Hazel-Atlas Glass Division of Continental Can Co.

A man who identified himself as Frank Zajac of Chicago was hustled away by police when he broke through police lines and threw a punch at one of the Nazi pickets.

Rocket purchase set by NASA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) plans to purchase eight more Delta rockets from Douglas Aircraft Co.

The Delta is the United States' most reliable space booster. Of the 23 launched thus far, the first one failed and the other 22 have been successful.

The new purchase, announced Wednesday, will bring to 47 the number of Deltas NASA has acquired. Those fired to date have put in orbit a variety of scientific spacecraft, 8 Tros weather satellites, and communication satellites of the Echo, Syncom, Telstar and Relay series.

Omaha handles largest volume of livestock

By Gaylord P. Godwin UPI Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The sprawling stockyards on the south side of Omaha, Neb., handled a larger volume of livestock than any other terminal market in the United States during 1963, according to the Agriculture Department.

Almost 6.2 million head of cattle, calves, hogs, sheep and lambs were received at the Omaha stockyards last year, a Department summary showed.

Omaha ranked first in total receipts of cattle, 2,023,495 head; eleventh in calves, 76,965 head; first in hogs, 3,473,768 head; and sixth in sheep and lambs, 610,271 head. Omaha was first in volume of all livestock handled in 1962 with a first in cattle, twelfth in calves, second in hogs, and fourth in sheep and lambs.

The Chicago market was second in total receipts of cattle, 1,696,983 head, followed by Sioux City, Iowa, 1,378,961 head, Kansas City, Mo., 1,323,790 head, and South St. Paul, Minn., with 1,098,995.

Milwaukee, Wis., ranked first in total receipts of calves and weaners, with 297,862 head, followed by South St. Paul, Sioux City, Houston, Kansas City, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Clovis, N.M., and Springfield, Mo.

Total hog receipts at the Omaha yards were 3,473,768 head. South St. Paul was second with 3,120,712 head, St. Louis National Stockyards third with 2,529,468 head, and Sioux City fourth with 2,228,658 head. Markets with total hog receipts of more than one million head each included St. Joseph, Mo., Chicago, Peoria, Ill., Indianapolis, North Salt Lake City, Utah and Kansas City.

The Denver, Colo., stockyards held first rank in total receipts of sheep and lambs with 1,565,278 head. South St. Paul was second with 819,846 head, followed by Fort Worth, Tex., with 710,796 head; Ogden, Utah, with 646,967 head; and Kansas City with 632,529 head.

The department said 52 terminal markets in 1962 handled total receipts of 16,894,197 head of cattle. The markets also handled 2,528,540 head of calves and weaners, 29,743,887 head of hogs, and 8,771,210 head of sheep and lambs.

Total receipts of goats during 1963 were 61,306 head at San Antonio, Tex., and 6,071 head at Fort Worth, Tex.

The department said the number of stocker and feeder cattle shipped into the eight north central states during January totaled 525,000 head, up 56 per cent from January, 1963. Shipments of stocker and feeder sheep and lambs into the same states were 146,000 head, down 24 per cent from a year earlier.

The government's current weather and crop bulletin said frost in Florida on Feb. 21 and 24 did not damage the citrus crop.

The Agriculture Department said it would discontinue the land purchase program after buying about 3.3 million additional pounds.
