

FAA grounds Paradise, suits follow crash

MINDEN, Nev. (UPI) — Authorities today continued their slow task of recovering and identifying the 85 victims who died in the crash of a Paradise Airlines Constellation, but activities in connection with the tragedy moved at a fast rate in California.

The bodies of 36 of the Californians who died in Sunday's crash near Lake Tahoe were brought down from a snow-covered Nevada mountain to a makeshift mortuary in Minden, and only nine were positively identified.

Sheriff George Byers of Douglas County, in charge of the recovery work, said it probably would be Sunday before all of the bodies of the 81 passengers and four crew members would be recovered.

Meanwhile in California: —The Federal Aviation Agency announced in Los Angeles that the airline was grounded for failing to conduct a safe operation.

—Damage suits totalling $3.25 million have been filed in San Jose and Salinas against the airline. The ill-fated Constellation carried 61 passengers from San Jose and 20 from Salinas on a "fun flight" to the gambling and ski resorts of Lake Tahoe.

—A custody battle shaped up in Salinas over three small boys who were orphaned when their parents perished in the crash. A $1 million suit has been filed against the airline on behalf of the youngsters.

The FAA, in suspending the commercial operator's certificate of the airline, said Paradise dispatched the fatal flight when the reported weather at the Tahoe Airport was below the minimum authorized in the company's operation specifications.

The authority said that neither the ill-fated plane nor one dispatched from Lake Tahoe the same day had adequate de-icing equipment, although the flights might be expected to encounter icing conditions.

The FAA said Paradise could appeal the suspension to the Civil Aeronautics Board, but that the airline would remain grounded during any appeal.

Four suits against the airline were filed in San Jose Wednesday. One sought $1 million on behalf of two minor children of crash victim Warren Roger Brown, one asked $750,000 for the wife of Billy Glen Robinson, and suits claiming $250,000 each were filed by Melvin Furtado and Walter B. Nielson, whose wives were among the victims.

The $1 million suit was filed Tuesday on behalf of the three minor children of Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey of Salinas. The action was taken by the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Jesse Jane Johnson, who also asked the court for guardianship for litigation purposes.

However, Harvey's brother, Herbert, filed suit in Superior Court Wednesday for legal guardianship of his nephews. He told newsmen he was "only interested in the welfare of the kids... the way things are going is not to my satisfaction."

Mrs. Johnson's attorney, William Bryan, said the grandmother would file a counter suit for legal guardianship "as soon as possible."

RETURNS VISIT
MISHAWAKA, Ind. (UPI)—Coolidge Benson is getting a little tired of uninvited guests—especially John A. Bella.

Last July a car driven by Bella hit Benson's home hard enough to put Bella in the hospital for 10 days. Bella hit the same house again Monday and was hospitalized in fair condition.

John Say new Chamber head

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE — New president of the Prineville - Crook County Chamber of Commerce is John Say, it was reported after a meeting of the board for the purpose of electing chamber officers.

Walt Haynes has been named vice president and Roy Johnson treasurer. Both Haynes and Johnson were newly named recently to the board.

A prime target for chamber efforts during 1964 will be the improvement of highways in the Prineville area, particularly highways 26 and 27. The chamber is also expected to continue its work in making Crook county a desirable spot for rock-hunters.

Plan for chapel to be discussed

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE — The proposed chapel to be built at the center of Pioneer Memorial Hospital and the Crook County Nursing Home will be the topic for discussion at the Chamber of Commerce meeting March 9, at noon, in the Ochoco Inn.

A delegation of women from the Prineville Rotana Club will be present. The Rotanans have spearheaded a fund-raising campaign for the construction of a chapel for joint use of the hospital and nursing home.

They will show sketches of the proposed construction, a unique and modern - styled unit marked by a soaring spire in the roof center. A model of the building is also to be displayed.

Construction of the building's exterior shell has been set at $3,000. Rotanans are currently engaged in seeking further funds, of a similar amount, to furnish the interior of the chapel. Approval of the plans has been given by officials concerned, but no date has been set for start of construction.

Graham named fire chairman

Special to The Bulletin
SILVER LAKE — Ken Graham was elected chairman of the Silver Lake Fire District at the organization meeting held March 2. Serving with him are Dudley Long, vice chairman and Everett Green, secretary-treasurer.

The group discussed budget items and some of the laws pertaining to district organization. Meeting with them was Jim Snider from the New Pine Creek community, who had experience in the organization of the district there.

Other members of the board are Mrs. May O'Keefe and Lawrence Iverson.

Teachers offer resignations in corn belt fuss

PLEASANTVILLE, Iowa (UPI) — More than half the school teachers in this small corn belt town had their resignations on file today in an uproar over what subjects they could teach their students.

A six-member delegation of parents went to the statehouse Wednesday to plead for help. They said the John Birch Society was "taking advantage of the situation."

The entire five-member faculty of one elementary school tendered their resignations Wednesday and joined 13 others in the system who handed in their resignation notices in January.

School Supt. Fred C. Nus, who has been told by the school board that he will not be re-hired, said part of the rharb involved the teaching of communism.

Nus said one teacher was told by school board members that he could teach about communism out of a text book but could not say anything except what was in the text.

BEE-STING PROVES STORY

LISBON (UPI)—Police were lenient Wednesday with Rui Lima Simoes, 32, an office clerk whose auto swerved and hit a large truck on the road.

Simoes blamed the accident on a bee which flew in his car and stung him on the face. The case was dismissed against him because he had a bee-sting to prove his story.

On another occasion, he said, a junior high school teacher was reprimanded by a board member for discussing menstruation in a class of both boys and girls.

Two ministers supported the teacher and she was "completely exonerated," Nus said.

Domenic Grasso, a high school history teacher who submitted his resignation, said ultra-conservatism was making inroads among some of his students.

He said one of his students criticized President Johnson for "being on friendly terms" with United Auto Worker President Walter Reuther.

Another student, Grasso said, told him federal aid to public schools was communistic.

Rockefeller zeroes in on his GOP rival

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller zeroed in on his Republican rival Sen. Barry Goldwater today. He said voters must be protected from Goldwater's "rash irresponsibility."

Rockefeller had planned to interrupt his campaigning to attend the funeral today of Mrs. Robert F. Wagner, wife of the New York mayor, but his plane was grounded by fog and rain.

Rockefeller campaigned in the southern part of the state in a homestretch drive for votes in the state's presidential primary five days hence.

The New York chief executive Wednesday turned loose his sharpest attack against both Goldwater and the Johnson administration.

In answer to a Goldwater charge that the voter must be given "a choice, not an echo" in the presidential election, Rockefeller said:

"In this November's election the American people should not have to choose between the Democratic administration's depressing record of world-wide failure on the one hand and an alternative of rash irresponsibility on the other."

This record, he said, included the conversion of Cuba into a Communist military base, making a shambles of the Monroe Doctrine, an Alliance For Progress that has failed to get off the ground, construction of the Berlin wall and disarray in the North Atlantic Alliance.

Southeast Asia also is in danger of being lost, he added.

"Sen. Goldwater, on the other hand, offers the American people impetuous answers to the most sensitive and complex issues involving the peace of the free world and the security of Americans at home," the governor said.
