Hobgood loses collection suit

Stanley Hobgood, Redmond feed lot operator, was unsuccessful in an attempt to collect some $3700 from Cameron Cliff, Burns rancher, in a circuit court trial Thursday. A jury of seven women and five men deliberated one hour and 10 minutes, to find for the defendant.

Hobgood charged that he did not receive adequate compensation for feeding 396 of Cliff's calves on a consignment arrangement. Cliff's contention that money he paid the plaintiff fulfilled his agreement was upheld by the jury.

Anna Mae Richards, Bend, was jury foreman. Other jurors were William J. Hall, Terrebonne; Helen M. Terrence, Sisters; Forrest L. Yeoman, Billy Martin, Fayette A. Scoggin and Howard K. Kaufman, all Redmond, and Irene Sholes, Mildred S. Hendricks, Evelyn R. Samples, Anna L. Oldaker and Wynonna Zemke, all Bend.

Circuit Judge Edward R. Howell of Canyon City, judge of the 11th judicial district, presided in place of Circuit Judge Robert H. Foley.

Memory loss reported by man

A 25-year old Aberdeen, Wash., man, suffering memory lapse, was brought by police to St. Charles Memorial Hospital this morning for treatment of a two-inch face cut and other abrasions of the face and hand.

Police picked up John Landi a little past midnight after he wandered up to the Keystone Trailer Park and asked for police aid. Landi could not remember how he received his injuries. He only remembered traveling via train to California with two companions, and that he stepped of the train in Bend Wednesday.

Police said Landi also told them he was recently discharged from the Western State Hospital in Fort Steilacoom, Wash. An attempt to contact relatives in Aberdeen is underway.

Avalanche kills ski patrolman

JACKSON, Wyo. (UPI) — Richard Pittman, 30, of Jackson, a professional ski patrolman, was killed Thursday by an avalanche which roared down 7,700-foot Snow King Mountain.

Pittman and another Jackson skier, Frank Ewing who survived the avalanche, were on patrol duty when they were swept about 1,000 feet down the mountain. Ewing, who was able to free himself, said he found Pittman almost immediately but was unable to revive him with mouth-to-mouth respiration.

A doctor said Pittman died of suffocation.

The seminar is sponsored by Rho Epsilon Kappa. Subdivision laws, trade policies and land value taxation are among the subjects to be covered. Mrs. Phillips accompanied her husband on the trip.

THE REV. GIFFIN

Evangelistic services due

Forest Avenue Baptist Church in Redmond is currently hosting Evangelist The Rev. Herb Giffin to lead a series of evangelistic services which began March 8 and will continue through March 18.

Rev. Giffin is pastor of Calvary Baptist Church of Vancouver, Wash. A Northwest resident of the past two years, he became pastor of the Calvary church a short time ago.

Services are being conducted in recognition of the first foreign missionary movement launched by Baptists of America 150 years ago.

The services begin at 7:30 each evening.

Employment increase noted

SALEM (UPI) — Employment in Oregon increased by 2,900 over January to 683,700 in February. Employment Commissioner David H. Cameron announced today.

He said the state appeared to be over the normal winter unemployment hump. Compared to February last year, 13,900 more Oregonians had jobs this February. In manufacturing, transportation equipment made the biggest rise with ship building and repair setting the pace.

In nonmanufacturing, trade services, finance and government continued to hire additional workers, forging ahead of even last year's record levels.

Unemployment at 47,900 fell 500 from January's mark and was 1,100 lower than last February.

The seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment climbed slightly from January's 4.1 per cent to 4.2 per cent. The national rate is 5.4 per cent.

Brown delivers farm pitch for jobless workers

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown today asked farmers to remember California's more than 400,000 unemployed when they look for laborers to replace Mexican Braceros.

"Our job must be to make the fullest and most effective use of our labor supply right here," he said.

Brown said just finding a new farm labor supply to take the place of some 63,000 Mexicans by next year would not be enough. He said the state must also try to solve the "gigantic paradox" of a rich economy side by side with deprivation.

Brown addressed growers, labor spokesmen and state officials who were assembled at his request.

The Mexican Bracero program, under which Mexicans are imported for the farm season, expires at the end of this year.

After Brown finished speaking, labor and agriculture spokesmen condemned each other's handling of the problem.

Thomas L. Pitts, secretary-treasurer of the California Labor Federation, charged that "country slicker publicists" for "Montgomery Street (San Francisco) farmers" were attempting to stampede state and federal agencies into "an approach that would greatly aggravate the problem while significantly increasing the taxpayers' direct burden and compounding hard core unemployment in our cities."

Pitts said government could no longer afford "to wet nurse the giants of this industry."

But Keith Meters, of the California growers farm labor committee, accused labor of "sharp shooting tactics."

"The AFL-CIO calls our program unrealistic," said Meters, "but does not come forward with any program which provides solutions."

PTA to purchase new projector

SPECIAL TO THE BULLETIN
SISTERS — The Sisters PTA group has voted to purchase an opaque projector for the Sisters school system. The project was brought up for discussion last November in a regular PTA meeting when table discussion groups were formed to give PTA members a chance to express their opinions on various topics of PTA interest. Ten possible projects were considered. It was decided an opaque projector would be of value to more students than any other item.

An opaque projector is a machine which will project an enlarged picture in color on any illustration in any book or magazine onto a screen or wall by means of mirrors and lights. A demonstration model is now at the high school for parents to inspect.

Mrs. Bale among nominees for Eugene honors

Mrs. B. Curtis Bale of Eugene, the former Mary Louise Hudson of Bend, is one of six candidates nominated for the Community Service Award given annually to the outstanding young woman of the Eugene area. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hudson, 434 Kansas Avenue.

Candidates are nominated by women's organizations and are judged by a committee on the basis of their community activities. The Eugene Jaycee-ettes sponsor the contest.

Mrs. Bale is sponsored by Alpha Delta Pi Alumnae, in which she is an active member. She is now secretary of the Eugene Council of Women's Organizations and has been active in the Jaycee-ettes, the River Road Cooperative Nursery School, Howard School PTA and the First Congregational Church. She is the mother of two boys, Bruce, 7, and Jeffrey, 5.

The winner will be announced at a Jaycee-ette luncheon and style show Saturday, March 14, in the Agriculture Building at the Lane County Fairgrounds.

Weather offers snow, top skiing

If skiers can make it in to the ski runs, (and reports say they can if their automobiles carry chains), it will be a weekend of good skiing at local ski facilities.

It was snowing this morning on Bachelor Butte, and at 8 a.m. there was eight inches of new snow. The total depth of the snowpack is now 202 inches.

Chair, T-bar and rope tows will operate through the weekend.

In the Hoodoo Ski Bowl near Santiam Pass, there is a good powder snow skiing surface. The temperature at 8 this morning was 24. The total depth is now 152 inches.

Nearly four feet has fallen there this week, owner Ed Thurston said today. It is probable it will get more.

A five day forecast offers partial clearing late today and Sunday but for more snow early next week all over eastern and central Oregon.

Applying to withhold ballot title for proposed new constitution to give chance for court test

By Zan Stark
UPI Staff Writer
SALEM (UPI) — The ballot title for a new state constitution to be submitted to the voters as a constitutional initiative will be withheld by Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr. to give supporters an opportunity to test the issue in the Oregon Supreme Court.

Appling announced he would withhold the title after Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton said late Thursday that the voters could not initiate a complete new state constitution.

But Thornton forwarded a ballot title to Appling—thus leaving the decision up to the secretary of state.

Supporters of the proposed new constitution hope to get the measure on the November ballot.

Court Test Waited
Appling said "Acting on the attorney general's advice that the constitution cannot be legally amended in its entirety through the initiative process, I shall decline to perform any of the duties normally required of me in connection with the circulation of an initiative petition."

He said his refusal would provide a basis for a court test of the question.

The ballot title assigned by Thornton reads: "Proposed revised state constitution."

The statement of purpose declares: "Makes governor, secretary of state only statewide executive officers elected by people. Authorizes 20 departments; governor appoints heads, Senate approves. Elected auditor. Changes legislative apportionment."

When former Gov. Robert

Holmes made the preliminary filing last week, he said "There is a legal question over whether a complete constitution can be submitted to the voters as an initiative measure." He added the citizens committee for constitutional revision was prepared to test the legal issue in the courts.

Question Raised
Thornton told Appling "A serious question of compliance with procedural requirements prescribed by the Oregon constitution is raised by the presentation of this petition to your office."

Thornton said "A revised state constitution may be submitted to the voters by either (1) The Oregon Legislature or (2) a constitutional convention, but that the initiative power to amend the constitution... may not be employed to submit to the voters a complete revision of the constitution."

Thornton said the proposed initiative measure "is in reality either a new constitution or a complete revision of the present constitution." He said drafters of the state constitution "did not conceive that a whole new document could be proposed except by a constitutional convention."

A proposed new state constitution was considered by the 1963 legislature. It won approval in the House, but failed to get the needed two-thirds majority in the Senate.

The document proposed as an initiative measure is similar to the constitution considered by the legislature, except that the legislative apportionment section has been modified, and a secretary of state—to run in tandem with the governor—has been added as a statewide office. The proposed secretary of state would in reality serve as a lieutenant governor.
