Peace-keeping force awaiting reinforcements

NICOSIA (UPI) — Technicalities prevented the U.N. peace force from taking charge of the situation here today despite threats of a renewal of the violence which has taken the lives of seven Turks and two Greeks in the past two days.

U.N. sources said the peace force cannot begin operations until troops from at least one other nation arrive to reinforce the British and the Canadians already here.

Meanwhile, reports of new Turkish military operations in the Cyprus area heightened tension here. Turkey has threatened to land troops on the island if Greek residents continue to attack Turkish communities.

Turk Fleet Sails — Seven Turkish warships and two submarines were said to have sailed "on maneuvers" from the southern naval base of Iskenderun, less than 100 miles from here.

(Turkish newspapers said the warships, some of which were believed to be landing craft, used live shells for gunnery practice off the southern Turkish coast.

(Authoritative sources said after a cabinet meeting in Ankara the Turkish government does not agree with some of the proposed conditions for the U.N. peace force.)

Some sources said the Irish government may have postponed sending 500 troops because it wants Britain, Greece and Turkey to renounce their right to intervene in Cyprus.

No Confirmation — U.N. headquarters here said it still had no official confirmation of reports that 270 Brazilian troops were due to arrive shortly to join the peace force.

Turkish Cypriots strengthened their positions along the vital Nicosia-Kyrenia road with sandbags and machine guns after new fighting Friday at Kato Dhikomo, 16 miles north of Nicosia, in which one Turkish Cypriot was wounded and another man, believed to be a Greek Cypriot, was reported missing.

Military sources said the Greek Cypriots may try to retaliate for the incident, which British officials said was started by Turkish Cypriots.

Reprisals also were feared for the burning of the Greek village of Ayios Epiphaniou. Turkish Cypriots were believed to have set Ayios Epiphaniou ablaze to avenge Thursday's Greek Cypriot attack on the village of Ghaziveran.

'Aggression' charges posed by Cambodians

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodia will charge the United States and South Viet Nam with "aggression" before the U.N. Security Council, it was announced today.

The government press agency said Prince Norodom Sihanouk sent a letter to Secretary General Thant Friday denouncing South Viet Nam's attack on the Cambodian border village of Chantrea as "new and brutal aggression." The Cambodians charge that three white men, said to be American advisers of the South Vietnamese army, were involved in the attack.

The agency said Sihanouk also sent letters to Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Charles de Gaulle asking them to persuade the United States to yield "without delay" to Cambodian demands for a Geneva conference to guarantee this country's neutrality and territorial integrity.

South Viet Nam formally apologized to Cambodia today for the incident and pledged full restitution. Well-informed sources said the U.S. Embassy here expressed sympathy for the victims of the attack.

It was not known what effect if any the apology would have on Cambodia's intentions to bring the issue before the Security Council.

Sixteen villagers were reportedly killed in the village attack and 15 persons were wounded.

Clothes buying proposal made by OEA speaker

PORTLAND (UPI) — Use of federal funds to buy clothes for needy public school students was advocated in a speech to the Oregon Education Association here Friday night by Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo.

He told the teachers many high school junior and seniors drop out of school because their parents "cannot afford to dress them at a respectable level of appearance."

McGee said he would make the money available as a grant for clothes, and not a loan.

The Wyoming liberal also said he isn't sure America really believes in education and credits the Russians with forcing most educational advances and other gains made by the United States in the last 20 years. He said progress has had to be disguised as something that will help the Pentagon or help beat the Russians.

"Thank God for the Russians, but I don't think the cold war will provide enough impetus to carry us another 10 years," he said.

He said it was time teachers and all citizens fought to improve education for the betterment of the nation, not to beat the Russians.

The OEA closed its two-day convention Friday night with presentation of communication citations to a weekly newspaper and two television stations.

The winners were the West Lane News of Veneta, KOIN-TV in Portland, and KEZI-TV, Springfield.

An 18th Century silk merchant left his mark

It appeared on every bolt of silk he sold. What was his reason for identifying his work? So his customers could immediately buy with confidence. His reputation was always on the line. If the quality wasn't consistent his sales would suffer.

When you shop today you look for familiar "marks" too—Leadership Brands. Products that you know and trust; quality you've depended on for years. These products don't have to mask themselves. The manufacturer "goes on record" with his advertising—he must live up to the standard he sets (or his sales will suffer). He knows he can deliver good quality, so he readily identifies himself with his products. You can depend on Brand Names, for they are the "mark of 20th century confidence" in all you buy. When you buy Leadership Brands, you know you are getting your money's worth.
