

Colts' chief may have top deal in Fox

By United Press International
General Manager Paul Richards of the Houston Colts may have pulled the coup of the winter trading season when he acquired Nelson Fox from the Chicago White Sox for two minor league players valued at $100,000.

At 36 Fox doesn't have too many big league seasons left but the Colts are worried more about the present than the future. And for the present, at least, Fox is playing off like a runaway slot machine in a Las Vegas night club.

The little second baseman, who collected more than 2,500 hits in 17 American League seasons, is batting .364 after six games in the National League and Monday night shared honors with pitcher Dick Farrell as the Colts beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-1, for their third win of the year.

Fox drove in four runs with a two-run single and a two-run triple to provide the key blows behind the four-hit pitching of Farrell. He capped a four-run rally that drove Ray Sadecki to cover in the second inning with the two-run single and tripled home two more runs off reliever Harry Fanok in the fourth.

Farrell, whose low fast ball is very effective in the Houston park, struck out seven, walked four and allowed only one Cardinal to reach third until Ken Boyer homered in the ninth. Eddie Kasko and John Bateman each had two hits in the ninth-hit Houston attack.

Willie Mays zoomed his average to .444 as the San Francisco Giants downed the Cincinnati Reds, 5-2, the Milwaukee Braves dealt the Los Angeles Dodgers their sixth straight loss, 7-1, and the Boston Red Sox whipped the New York Yankees, 4-0, in the only other games.

Mays lashed out two singles and a double and Willie McCovey, who had been hitting .093, hit his first homer of the season to lead the Giants' seven-hit attack. Jack Sanford pitched a seven-hitter and struck out six to win his second game for the Giants. Chico Ruiz had three hits for Cincinnati.

Bob Sadowski weathered some rough going in the first inning and a fraction and then retired 21 consecutive batters before the Dodgers ended the shutout bid in the ninth on a single by Tommy Davis and a triple by Ron Fairly. Lee Maye homered for the Braves, who clinched the victory with three runs on three singles and as many walks against Bob Miller in the sixth. Nick Willhite suffered the loss.

Bill Monbouquette allowed seven hits in eight innings and star reliever Dick Radatz struck out the side in the ninth although two men reached base to hand Yogi Berra and his Yankees their fourth setback in five games. Rookie Tony Conigliaro homered and Carl Yastrzemski tripled to lead the Red Sox' attack.

Celtics cruising by Warriors with 2-0 lead

BOSTON (UPI)—If, as Wilt Chamberlain said, San Francisco can end the Boston Celtics' championship spree, Wilt and his Warriors better get cracking.

The final round of the National Basketball Association's long playoff extravaganza shifts to San Francisco starting Wednesday night for game number three. The fourth meeting between playoff champions of the East and the West will be played there Friday night.

But the Celtics haven't sold a single ticket for a fifth meeting in the best-of-seven series. That is because after whipping Cincinnati, four games to one, they've built a 2-0 lead in games over the Warriors.

Red Auerbach, the NBA coaching dean whose team is seeking its sixth straight playoff title and seventh in eight seasons, had to jerk out all the stops Monday night—to keep from giving the Warriors a record drubbing.

The Celtics were leading by 35 points early in the fourth quarter when Auerbach lit his famed victory cigar and went into action. He pulled starters and top reserves and swept his extensive Boston bench.

When the game ended, the Celtics had won by only 23 points, 124-101.

From a statistical standpoint, Sam Jones topped Boston with 31 points. Tom Heinsohn had 20 more. Chamberlain rolled up 32 and Tom Meschery popped in 24 in the losing cause. And in addition to outscoring Bill Russell, 32-9, Chamberlain had 25 rebounds to 24 for Russell.

Skinner's error enables Giants to beat Reds, 5-2

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bob Skinner, the Cincinnati Reds rangy outfielder from San Diego, had at least one consolation today.

The two-run error that he committed against the San Francisco Giants Monday didn't cost his team the pennant.

But it did cost them a 5-2 defeat at the hands of the Giants, who tallied three unearned runs during the eighth inning after two were out with Skinner's bobble opening the floodgates.

"No excuses," he said frankly, when asked what happened on Tom Haller's pop fly to short left field. "No sun in my eyes, no nothing. I just dropped the ball."

The Giants are idle today then open a 10-game road trip Wednesday in Milwaukee where Bob Hendly (0-1) probably will face the Braves' Denny Lemaster (1-0).

Willie Mays takes a hot streak out of town even if his home run spurge was cut off at six Monday. He collected three hits in four trips anyway to lift his batting average to .444 and cracked a single which helped keep the big eighth in-

Angels launch home campaign

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Los Angeles Angels launch their home season tonight at Chavez Ravine against the Detroit Tigers with Dean Chance opposing Frank Lary in a renewal of their duel last Friday.

Chance emerged the winner of that battle which the Angels won 8-3 with the lanky hurler working 5-2-3 innings to gain the victory. Tonight marks the first time Chance has pitched an opening game at home or on the road in the major leagues.

The Angels' short road trip ended with two victories, two defeats and two games rained out. Selected to appear in the presidential opener of the American League last Monday, the Angels used the occasion to defeat the Washington Senators, 4-0, as Ken McBride and Julio Navarro combined to hurl a one-hit shutout.

Manager Bill Rigney fielded a revamped team this season that featured better defense and more speed with rookie Bobby Knoop at second base, Billy Moran shifted to third base, Dick Stimpson in centerfield and veteran Joe Adcock at first base.

Joseph's grand slam top Coast poke as Dallas beats Spokane 9

By United Press International
Ricardo Joseph's grand-slam homer at Dallas provided most of the Pacific Coast League's offensive punch Monday night as pitchers pretty well dominated a quartet of low-scoring games.

Joseph's belt came in the third off Norm Koch of Spokane after two walks and an error had wiped out a 2-0 Spokane lead which had come on a two-run four-master by Bart Shirley.

Every run came as a result of homers since Al Ferrara of the Indians and Don Taussig of the Rangers added solo shots to account for the 5-3 Dallas win.

Rudy Hernandez went 7-1-3 innings to get the win, while Koch was the loser.

Elsewhere around the league,

Arkansas handed Seattle its first loss in a 2-1 thriller, Oklahoma City blanked Tacoma, 4-0, Denver hung on for a 3-2 win at Honolulu against Hawaii, and Portland was rained out at Indianapolis.

Arkansas' Len Clendenin made his first Pacific Coast League start a strong one as he tossed a five-hitter at the West-

Carburetor icing stalls strike most often when you stop for traffic signals before your engine's really warmed up. Read how Super Shell's anti-icing ingredient works to fight these pesky, embarrassing stalls.

EMBARRASSING STALLS

Even at 50 degrees, carburetor icing can stall your engine. Read how one of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients fights these mysterious stalls.

ODD as it may sound, your engine's more likely to need Super Shell's anti-icing ingredient at this time of year than in the middle of winter.

Another odd fact explains why: carburetor icing is most likely to stall your engine when the outside temperature is above freezing.

How carburetors can get cold

When air flows into your carburetor, it makes the fuel evaporate. This lowers the temperature inside the carburetor.

To get some idea of what happens when the fuel evaporates, moisten the back of your hand and blow on it. Notice how the skin suddenly feels quite cool? That's due to moisture evaporating. The same thing happens in your carburetor.

Now that you know how carburetors can get cool, it's easy to understand how ice can form. Here's the sequence:

1. You can't have ice without having moisture first. When the temperature goes below freezing, there tends to be less moisture in the air. But when it warms up a bit, the air can hold much more moisture.
2. With your engine running, your carburetor takes in great quantities of air. At this time of year, it's likely to be moisture-laden air.
3. The refrigerating process inside your carburetor can turn that moisture to ice almost instantly.
4. Once that ice sticks to vital carburetor parts and starts to build up to a critical level, you're an A-1 candidate for an icing stall.

How Shell's anti-icer works

Super Shell's anti-icer fights ice buildup in your carburetor by coating vital carburetor parts with a thin, protective film. This film helps carburetor surfaces shrug off the ice before it can build up to a critical level and cause you to stall.

The anti-icer in Super Shell gasoline does much the same job as melted butter in a frying pan. It helps keep things from sticking to metal surfaces. When ice can't stick, it can't build up. And your engine keeps running smoothly—instead of embarrassing you with a pesky stall when you stop. And that's how Super Shell's anti-icer works to help make your car work better.

Super Shell has 9 working ingredients to make your car work better

But anti-icer is only one of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients. Here's a quick rundown on the other eight.

TCP* and cat-cracked gasoline work for smooth running and power.

Anti-knock mix and Alkylate work to fight all kinds of knock for a quiet engine.

Platformate works to give good mileage.

Butane and Pentane mix work to give fast starts and smooth warm-ups.

Gum preventive works to help carburetors stay clean inside.

*Trademark for Shell's gasoline additive for ignition control. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2592112.
