

Jury trial amendment to rights measure is offered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic and Republican leaders jointly introduced today a jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill intended as a concession to Southern opponents.

The compromise amendment provides for guarantee of a jury trial under all sections of the bill when penalties for criminal contempt of court exceed a $300 fine or 30 days imprisonment.

The jury trial provision as written into the House - passed bill would affect only penalties exceeding a $300 fine or 45 days in jail.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., who co-sponsored the substitute for one offered earlier by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., said he hoped for a vote early next week. The amendment was introduced by GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill.

Thoroughly Consulted

Mansfield and Dirksen said they had consulted thoroughly with fellow senators before offering their amendment.

The Senate opened its 39th day of debate on the anti-discrimination measure with discussion of the public accommodations title of the bill.

The Senate met until 8:42 p.m. Thursday night, then resumed at 10 a.m. EST.

The legislation would ban racial discrimination in voting, public accommodations, education, employment, unions and use of federal funds.

The jury trial amendment was but one of three areas being explored by the bipartisan leadership seeking to break the seven-week legislative deadlock. The others under consideration are relative to the public accommodations and fair employment sections of the bill.

Senate Democratic Whip Hubert M. Humphrey, Minn., the bill's floor manager, told newsmen, "things are looking great. I'm feeling better all the time."

The Southern-proposed jury trial amendment would assure trial by jury in any criminal contempt case in any federal court.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., said the jury trial amendment he and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., were working on would not go "outside this bill."

In general, both sides appeared to favor extending to all sections of the bill the limited jury trial guarantee embodied in the 1957 civil rights law. At present, that guarantee extends only to two sections of this year's bill.

GOP group offers program

PORTLAND (UPI)—Stronger civil rights laws and a sales tax are called for in "Republicans Positions 1964" published by the Oregon Republican Study Group.

The 59-page report was signed by Gov. Mark Hatfield, Secretary of State Howell Appling, State Treasurer Howard Belton and John R. Howard, president of Lewis and Clark College and chairman of the GOP State Central Committee's committee on arts and sciences.

Recommended was a 3 percent retail sales tax which would exempt out-of-state food and prescription drugs. It was suggested that the property tax on business inventories be abolished and the present capital gains tax be eliminated, or substituted with a tax one-half the normal rate for capital gains.

The report said gains "in the crusade for equality" were made by GOP legislatures of 1940, 1951 and 1953. It proposed the extension of the Fair Employment Practices Act to all employers in the state and the administration of the state apprenticeship program to insure equal opportunity for all citizens.

Safety record brings honors

Special to The Bulletin

REDMOND — Central Oregon District Hospital has received national recognition for its perfect safety record.

A certificate awarded by the American Hospital Association and the National Safety Council states that COD Hospital has the best hospital safety record in the state of Oregon and stands sixth place in the nation in its group (hospitals with up to 99 employees).

Administrator Fred Baer says he gives full credit for the honor to the some 80 hospital employees. To win the award, the employees chalked up 345,548 man-hours without a single accident. Since the contest closed, another quarter has passed, still accident-free, bringing the man-hours to 379,180.

In addition to the displays, several art work demonstrations will be given by Karen Harmon, oils; Mrs. Burdgerfer, water; and Kim Austin, collage.

Music will greet festival guests played by Alton Hemmingson on the organ and several numbers will be presented by students at COC. At 8 p.m., excerpts from "Under the Yum-Yum Tree" will be presented. Refreshments will be served.

IN this way, fair directors feel, experienced arrangers can compete in their own skill bracket, while newcomers and amateurs can compete at their level.

Another new move will be to have competition among Crook County garden clubs for ribbons and cash awards. A special area will be set aside in the floral building for this purpose, giving all clubs an equal opportunity to excel.

The fair board announces that the new floral superintendent will be Mrs. Ruth McKenzie. Another innovation at the 1964 Crook County Fair will be the awarding of a $25 prize to agricultural groups for a prize booth.
