WORLD CUP SKIING

Gut-Behrami's veteran skills win tricky World Cup super-G — It took the veteran skills of Lara Gut-Behrami to win a tricky World Cup super-G on Sunday. Even Gut-Behrami veered off the best racing line before making two gates on a fast, twisting course as she finished 0.16 ahead of Marta Bassino of Italy. World Cup super-G champion Corinne Suter was third, trailing her Switzerland teammate by 0.20. Racing early with the No. 5 bib, Gut-Behrami took a route few could fol- $\mathrm{low}-\mathrm{11}$ of the first 25 top-ranked starters failed to complete the course. They included Sofia Goggia, the winner of Saturday's downhill, who lasted barely 10 seconds before skiing out. Gut-Behrami's 13th win in World Cup super-G came more than 12 years after her debut victory in a discipline that demands speed and technical ability to improvise.

Austria's Schwarz wins World Cup slalom to lead standings — Marco Schwarz salvaged Austria's tough weekend in Switzerland by winning a World Cup slalom on Sunday to lead the season-long standings. Schwarz rose from fourth place after the first run to race though fast-fading light in the afternoon and finish 0.14 seconds ahead of Linus Strasser of Germany. The powerful Austrian team had just a single top-10 placing to show from giant slaloms on the previous two days at the storied Adelboden hill cherished by its neighbor Switzerland. Dave Ryding was third, trailing Schwarz by 0.15, to give the British racer his third career podium and best result in traditional slalom for four years. First-run leader Clément Noël had a difficult ride down the steep final slope and dropped to eight place, 0.38 back.

English wins Kapalua in playoff for 1st victory in 7 years — Harris English went more than seven years without winning on the PGA Tour, and he didn't mind going one extra hole to win the Sentry Tournament of Champions on Sunday. English missed a 10-foot eagle putt in regulation on the par-5 18th hole at Kapalua for a 4-under 69 to force a playoff with Joaquin Niemann, and he ended it on the 18th with a 6-foot birdie. Niemann, who closed with a 64, pulled his approach enough to tumble down the steep, shaggy hill. His full swing from thick grass got him to the fringe, but he missed the birdie putt. English capped off his remarkable turnaround at a tournament he ordinarily wouldn't be allowed to play. The Tournament of Champions is for winners only from the previous year, but the field was expanded to include anyone who reached the Tour Championship because of the COVID-19 pandemic that shut down the PGA Tour for three months.

PGA Championship leaving Trump National in '22 tour-ald Trump when it voted Sunday to take the PGA Championship event away from his New Jersey golf course next year. The vote comes four days after the Trump-fueled riot at the nation's Capitol as Congress was certifying the election victory of President-elect Joe Biden. This is the second time in just over five years the PGA of America removed one of its events from a Trump course. PGA President Jim Richerson says the board voted to exercise its right to "terminate the agreement" with Trump National in Bedminster, New Jersey. The PGA of America signed the deal with Trump National in 2014.

Kenin beats Putintseva to reach Abu Dhabi guarterfinals — Australian Open champion Sofia Kenin of the United States came back from match point down to beat Yulia Putintseva and reach the quarterfinals of the Abu Dhabi Open on Sunday. Kenin posted 57 unforced errors to Putintseva's 43 but still prevailed 3-6, 7-6 (5), 6-4 over the 13th-seeded Putintseva. Kenin dropped the opening set for the second consecutive match in Abu Dhabi. Putintseva had match point when serving at 6-5 up in the second set, but Kenin saved the point and broke Putintseva's serve to take the set to a tiebreak.

Tiafoe beats fellow American Fratangelois at Delray

Beach — Frances Tiafoe gained momentum Sunday in his bid for another Delray Beach Open title by winning a seesaw match against fellow American Bjorn Fratangelois, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. Tiafoe won his first ATP Tour title as a 20-year-old wild card at Delray Beach in 2018. His career record is 9-2 in the tournament and 62-93 elsewhere on the ATP Tour.

Seahawks

It's the second time in three seasons the Seahawks were ousted from the postseason in the wild-card round after losing in the 2018 playoffs at Dallas.

In the five playoff appearances since losing in the Super Bowl, the Seahawks have a 3-5 record.

Most franchises would be thrilled to have that many playoff appearances. But for the Seahawks, it's a continual run of what they see as missed opportunity.

"We got to be better. We got to find ways to win these type of matchups," Wilson said. "Frustration? I mean, yeah, of course I'm frustrated.

In previous seasons, there seemed to be an understanding or justification for why playoff runs fell short of reaching their full potential.

A year ago, there was a feeling of optimism after losing in the divisional round at Green Bay when Seattle was so depleted by injuries at the key position of running back that Marshawn Lynch was brought out of retirement to carry the load.

That was not the case in the aftermath of Saturday. Optimism was scarce. Left in its place was confusion about what happened and what the path is going forward after Seattle mortgaged a significant amount of its future by acquiring Jamal Adams and Carlos Dunlap to win this season.

"We got to make that next step. I think this is part of the process, to figure out this offseason along the way, and how we can do that and do whatever it takes," Wilson said. "So I'm looking forward to starting 2021 with a new season come next fall. Unfortunately today we didn't get it done."

The aftermath of the loss to the Rams made clear there are issues about identity on the offensive side for Seattle, which seemed unfathomable at the start of the season. Wilson was the leading MVP candidate throwing a record number of touchdowns to begin the season as Seattle started 5-0.

But the limitations of that offense which grew as the season progressed were on full display in the loss to the Rams. Seattle's' 278 total yards were a season worst, as was Wilson's 40.7% completion rate, the only time all season he didn't hit at least 55% of his passes.

Both Wilson and Carroll expressed a frustration at the lack of offensive adjustments as the season progressed, even as Seattle's defense was making dramatic improvement.

"At one part of the year, it was available, and we took it, and then in the second part of the year, against the really good defenses that we played, they were able to keep us out of that kind of a mode," Carroll said. "I wish we would have adapted better under those circumstances."
