WOMEN'S COLLEGE BASKETBALL OREGON DUCKS

No. 10 Oregon falls to No. 11 Arizona, loses 3rd of last 4

BY RYAN THORBURN

The (Fugene) Register-Guard The three-time defending Pac-12 champion Ducks their current reign in Tucson,

There wasn't much for birthday boy and Oregon coach Kelly Graves to celebrate this time. The No. 10 Oregon women's basketball team was drubbed 57-41 by No. 11 Arizona on Thursday at McKale Arena. The Ducks (9-3, 7-3 Pac-12) have dropped three of their last four games, all to ranked teams, after shooting 32.6% (15-for-46) from the field and committing 23 turnovers. Öregon was averaging 83.2 points, 11 turnovers and leading the Pac-12 in field-goal percentage (48.6%) entering the game.

"I'm an offensive coach and I don't think I've had a team that looked that undisciplined or scared ever," said Graves, who turned 58 on Thursday. "Maybe community college. But my community college team could put up 41."

Nyara Sabally led Oregon with 15 points on 6-for-9 shooting and seven rebounds. The sophomore forward also had six turnovers, a block and a steal in 23 minutes.

True freshman forward Sydney Parrish was the team's second-leading scorer with seven points on 2-for-8 shooting.

Oregon only scored five points in the third quarter and 19 points in the second half.

The Ducks made their last five shots, including a Taylor Chavez 3-pointer, after the game was decided.

"We're too good to have that right now," Graves said of the sloppy performance. "I just think we play really well as frontrunners, but when things get tough and teams get physical against us we have not shown we can respond."

One bit of positive news was the return of Sedona Prince from a leg injury. The redshirt sophomore forward scored only one point and grabbed five rebounds in 14 minutes.

"I'm just glad she got her feet wet," Graves said. "She hasn't even practiced. We threw her out there after maybe 10 minutes of practice."

Aari McDonald scored 16 points to lead the Wildcats (9-2, 7-2), who snapped their 10game losing streak to Oregon.

Arizona, which was only 34.6% from the field (18-for-52), finished with 26 points off turnovers.

'We defended well enough to win this game," Graves lamented.

The Ducks trailed 14-2 at the first media timeout after starting 1-for-7 from the field and committing four turnovers. Oregon committed a season-high 23 turnovers overall. True freshmen forwards Kylee Watson and Angela Dugalic missed open layups during an 11-0 run by Arizona.

Parrish ended an Óregon scoring drought of 6:05 with two free throws and banked in a 3-pointer for the visitors' first field goal in 7:26 to make the score 18-7.

A 3-pointer by Trinity Baptiste, who finished with 14 points, with seven seconds left in the first quarter extended the Wildcats' lead to 22-7. The Ducks were 2-for-12 from the field and committed six turnovers in the first quarter.

Sabally scored Oregon's first six points in the second quarter and assisted on a 3-pointer by Jaz Shelley that cut the deficit the half.

McDonald scored eight points down the second-quarter stretch, including a layup with three seconds left, to give Arizona a 36-22 advantage at the intermission.

Graves was hit with a technical in the final minute after Oregon's first-half turnover total climbed to 13. The Wildcats scored 16 points off the miscues.

"We lost our composure, including the coach, there at the end," Graves said. "That (technical) was more to fire my team up than (directed) at the officials."

Oregon's game Sunday at Arizona State has been postponed due to the Sun Devils' COVID-19 issues.

The Ducks are scheduled to host No. 25 Washington State on Jan. 22.

"If we play like this, we're not going to win another game all year," Graves said. "That's the honest truth."

Pac-12

• The 11-year lease on the downtown-San Francisco headquarters will end up costing the conference $90 million in rent when it expires in 2022. The Pac-12 could have bought a plot of land and built its very own high-rise building for that cost. Maybe even turned the thing into a moneymaker by leasing space to some other entity.

 Conference commissioner Larry Scott double dips with his salary, collecting $5.4 million annually for himself. The big boss should have worked for about half that. Also, he shouldn't have been whisking around on chartered jets for the last decade or throwing lavish

Rose Bowl parties. Don't think that the athletic directors in the conference would have liked to split those wasted tens of millions among themselves.

• The Pac-12 Network was an ambitious swing. It's been terrific for women's basketball, the Olympic sports, and it hired some gifted people out of the gates. It had big ideas. But it now looks as vibrant as Blockbuster Video. It became an easy target, too, for Scott, when he was asked by his bosses months ago to keep the expenses down. Instead of addressing the costly office space or his own bloated salary, the commissioner targeted the network and furloughed or laid off a line of people who were once sold on the notion that the network was a big part of the Pac-12's future.

The SEC and Big Ten programs haven't accidentally risen to the top of college football. Each of them has had a staggering financial advantage over the Pac-12 members. In the last six years, for example, the average SEC athletic department has received $65 million more from its conference than the average Pac-12 program. That's not just because of more lucrative media rights deals, but also because the SEC headquarters costs far less in rent than the Pac-12 headquarters and the commissioner, Greg Sankey, doesn't command a ransom. He's passing the dollars to his members. $65 million over the last six years?!?!

You could hire and retain better with money like that. Also, increase the recruiting footprint. Also, provide better nutrition, training, and amenities for athletes. You could pay for opponents to come to your stadium instead of playing on the road, too. There isn't a Pac-12 university that wouldn't salivate today at the notion of investing the bulk of that $65 million back into football and men's basketball, where it could reap a greater financial benefit.

Texas stole a prized special teams coordinator from Alabama Thursday. The lucky guy will make $1 million a year to do the job. Meanwhile, at Oregon, Bobby Williams will do the same job for $350,000. And at Washington, Bob Gregory will do it for $575,000 a year. And we wonder why the Pac-12 is left out.
