Oregon Arts Commission grants $1.25 million in artist aid

The Oregon Arts Commission has announced recipients of a new Artist Relief Program, which is distributing $1.25 million in relief grants to 646 artists across Oregon.

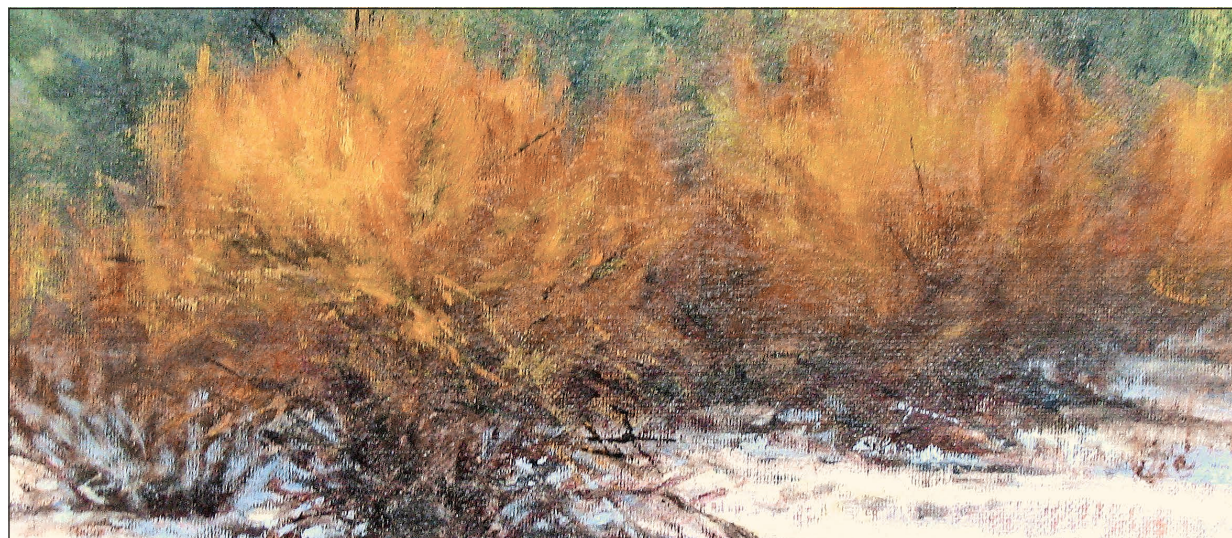

The award was created in partnership with the Oregon Community Foundation and the James F. and Marion L. Miller Foundation and includes 25 Deschutes County recipients receiving a total of $38,600. The recipients are primarily residents of Bend or Sisters and include multidisciplinary artist Jason "MOSley WOTta" Graham ($2,700), dance instructor Joshua Deininger ($1,900) and musician Matthew Gwinup ($2,200).

Mehama Kaupp, a cofounder and performer in Bend Burlesque Co., received $1,000 and told GO! "We are struggling as a live entertainment business. Any sort of relief would be beneficial even just to know bills are paid for the next couple months. I think live entertainment is so important, and I've considered closing up shop due to lack of income the last few months. It's really special this program exists."

Additionally, three Jefferson County artists, all of Warm Springs, received a total of $9,700 in grant money.

"Artists are the creative core of our communities and help define who we are. They inspire us to innovate, to learn and grow," the press release quoted Brian Rogers, executive director of the Oregon Arts Commission. "We are thankful to be able to provide support as our artists continue to suffer great losses due to the pandemic."
