

GO!

RESTAURANT REVIEWS, DINING DEALS &amp; FOOD NEWS

Valentine's Day dinner can be lovely, even during a pandemic

STORY AND PHOTOS BY BARB GONZALEZ • For The Bulletin

Valentine's Day has traditionally been the time when couples go out for a romantic dinner. Romance is often served on a plate as lobster or steak followed by decadent chocolate desserts and enjoyed with a bottle of wine as couples gaze lovingly at each other. Instead of savoring a dinner in a darkly lit dining room, this year will be far from traditional. Special dinners may need to be eaten outdoors or picked up for takeout.

Continued on next page

Wooden hearts and twinkling red light decorations as you walk through Jackalope to the courtyard.