Single-dose shot from J&J works, FDA says

BY LAURAN NEERGAARD AND MATTHEW PERRONE

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Johnson & Johnson's single-dose vaccine offers strong protection against severe COVID-19, according to an analysis released Wednesday by U.S. regulators.

The long-anticipated shot could offer the nation a third vaccine option and help speed vaccinations by requiring just one dose instead of two. Food and Drug Administration scientists confirmed that overall the vaccine is about 66% effective at preventing moderate to severe COVID-19, and about 85% effective against the most serious illness. The agency also said J&J's shot is safe.

The analysis is just one step in the FDA's evaluation. On Friday, the agency's independent advisers will debate if the evidence is strong enough to recommend the shot. With that advice, the FDA is expected to make a final decision within days. The COVID-19 death toll in the U.S. topped 500,000 this week, and the vaccination drive has been slower than hoped, hampered by logistical and weather delays. So far, about 44.5 million Americans have received at least one dose of vaccine made by Pfizer or Moderna, and nearly 20 million of them have received the second dose required for full protection.

Tests showed the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines were 95% effective at protection against symptomatic COVID-19.

J&J tested its single-dose option in 44,000 adults in the U.S., Latin America and South Africa.

NATIONAL BRIEFING

Biden signals change in course for Postal Service

President Joe Biden announced three nominations to the board of the U.S. Postal Service, signaling confidence in voting by mail and a possible change of course after months of turmoil over slowed delivery under Postmaster General Louis DeJoy.

Biden named Ron Stroman, a former deputy postmaster general; Anton Hajjar, former general counsel of the American Postal Workers Union; and Amber McReynolds, an expert on election administration who leads the National Vote at Home Institute.

The three would fill vacant seats, and if confirmed by the Senate would give Democrats a majority of the nine presidentially appointed slots on the Postal Board of Governors. The board selects the postmaster general, and Democrats have urged Biden to move to dismiss DeJoy, a logistics executive and Donald Trump donor.

Ex-Cuomo aide accuses governor of harassment

A former member of embattled New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo's administration who previously accused him of sexual harassment offered new details Wednesday, saying he once kissed her on the lips without consent.

Lindsey Boylan said that during her more than three years in the Democrat's administration, Cuomo "would go out of his way to touch me on my lower back, arms and legs," she said.

Cuomo's spokesperson called the allegations false.

Warm Springs

Repairing the water distribution system at Warm Springs, including a new water filtration plant and the network of water delivery pipes, could cost as much as $130 million, according to Chico Holliday, Warm Springs water and wastewater supervisor.

"Hopefully I get to see it in my lifetime," Holliday told The Bulletin.

The Western Tribal Water Infrastructure Act would make Warm Springs eligible to apply for the Indian Reservation Drinking Water Program. The legislation, currently $20 million per year, would increase to $50 million per year under passage of the new act.

On Wednesday, Interior Secretary nominee Deb Haaland said during her confirmation hearing that she will seek solutions to tribal water challenges.

"We will look at water in a new lens in 2021 when we know climate change is a drastic issue," said Haaland. "And I hope we can find ways to conserve, recycle, move all those issues forward so that nobody is stuck in a desert without water to drink."

Flint Scott, a Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs member, moves a rack of 5-gallon containers of water while working at the distribution center in August 2019. The water was collected in 2019 when residents were asked to boil their water before they used it. The tribes have an outdated water system that has been plagued in recent years by failing pumps and cracked pipes.
