ALPINE SKIING | WORLD CUP ROUNDUP

Swiss skier Odermatt wins to go to top of GS standings

Weather(W): s-sunny, pc-partly cloudy, c-cloudy, sh-s

Associated Press

KRANJSKA GORA, Slovemen's World Cup giant slalom on Saturday to go top of the discipline standings with one race remaining.

The Swiss skier had a blistering final run as he improved from fourth position to win the race by more than a second.

Odermatt overtook his main rival in the GS standings, Alexis Pinturault, and built a lead of 25 points. A race win is worth 100 points.

The Frenchman finished Saturday's race in fourth.

One more GS is scheduled — at the season-ending finals in Lenzerheide, Switzerland, next week.

"I really don't know how I managed to do this today. I was tired," Odermatt said. "My emotions are somewhere, I don't know where. I am really happy about my skiing today."

Pinturault and Odermatt are ranked 1-2 in the overall standings, with the Frenchman's lead now reduced to just 31 points.

However, Pinturault was expected to gain points again in Sunday's slalom, an event which Odermatt will be sitting out.

Odermatt also has a shot at the super-G title next week in the Swiss skier's breakout season on the World Cup.

A four-time gold medalist at the 2018 junior world championships, Odermatt won his first World Cup race last season, before adding three more wins in the current campaign.

In December, he ended a 10year Swiss victory drought in men's giant slaloms.

On Saturday, Odermatt led a Swiss 1-2 finish, 1.06 seconds ahead of Loïc Meillard, who was fastest in the opening run but posted only the 26th-fastest time in the final run.

It was Meillard's seventh career podium, including one win from a parallel GS a year ago.

Stefan Brennsteiner of Austria was 1.09 behind in third, two

Liensberger ends Austrian 6-year wait for women's slalom victory: ÅRE, Sweden — Katharina Liensberger ended Austria's six-year wait for a women's World Cup slalom victory on Saturday. In the last race before the World Cup Finals, Liensberger overtook first-run leader Mikaela Shiffrin with a free-flowing final run, beating the American by 0.72 seconds.

"I felt like flying, it was a flight from top to bottom," Liensberger said. "I just gave it all. That's really amazing. If there's something you love and you put all your energy in it, you can really achieve it."

Shiffrin, who turned 26 on Saturday, was chasing her 70th career win. She led Liensberger by 0.19 after the opening run, but had lost her advantage by the second split of her final run.

"I knew Liensberger would be pushing very hard," Shiffrin said. "I tried to push and kind of keep up with the pace, so I can take some good things from it."

Discipline leader Petra VIhova, who won Friday's floodlit slalom on the same course, finished only in eighth following a big mistake in the Slovakian's opening run. The result re-opened the fight for the season-long slalom title, as Vlhova had her lead over Liensberger reduced to 22 points, with Shiffrin 37 behind in third.

The last race is next Saturday in Lenzerheide, Switzerland.

'The only thing you can really expect is that it will be an exciting show," said Shiffrin, who finished third in Friday's slalom after she just avoided skiing out following a mistake.

start in the second run. Liensberger's win marked the first victory for Austria in any women's World Cup race this season. The team never had a full season without a victory in the World Cup, which started in 1967.

Swiss skier Wendy Holdener finished Saturday's race 1.65 behind in third, and Shiffrin's teammate Paula Moltzan finished fifth for her career-best result in slalom.
