Mack to play one more season for OSU women — Ellie Mack has decided to return to the Oregon State women's basketball team for one more season. Mack, a grad transfer from Bucknell who started all 20 games this past season for the Beavers, is taking advantage of the NCAA's decision to allow all students an extra year of eligibility due to the coronavirus pandemic. Mack, a 6-foot-3 forward who can play a number of positions, averaged 6.8 points per game, shooting 40.5% (45 for 111) from the floor. She was 22 for 60 from beyond the 3-point line and pulled down 3.7 rebounds a game this past season.

Ducks fill assistant coaching vacancy — Dana Altman has filled the vacancy on his staff with a fellow former assistant to Lon Kruger. Chris Crutchfield, who served as head coach at East Central (Ark.) this season after stints as an assistant at Arkansas in 2019-20 and Oklahoma from 2011-19, is joining Altman's staff at Oregon as associate head coach. "We are thrilled to be able to add a coach of Chris' caliber to our staff," Altman said in a statement. Crutchfield led East Central to a 10-9 record this season and recruited Buddy Hield and Trae Young to OU, which went 160-105 and appeared in six NCAA Tournaments during his eight seasons as an assistant coach. "I'm excited and honored to be joining coach Altman's staff at the University of Oregon," Crutchfield said in a statement. Crutchfield replaces Tony Stubblefield, who left to become the head coach at DePaul.

More importantly, they helped provide the blocking for an OSU running game that averaged 5.4 yards per play, second best in the Pac-12.

"We feel really good about that group, and we're building depth there as well," offensive coordinator Brian Lindgren said.

With its depth at tight end, Lindgren said it affords OSU's offense incredible flexibility. Lindgren particularly loves it when he can put two tight ends on the field, which in most cases is Quitoriano and Musgrave.

"It puts some pressure on the defensive coordinator," Lindgren said.

Quitoriano is looking to diversify his game this offseason and spring. The former Sprague of Salem High standout was an immediate success as a freshman blocking in the run game. But to complete the package, Quitoriano has to threaten as a receiver. He has slowly evolved. In his second college season in 2019, Quitoriano caught five passes for 100 yards, two for touchdowns. one was trying to get my speed up, because I had no speed on me at all. He helped me get my speed and my accuracy up. That balance has helped me be more confident."

The Ravens picked up right where they left off — in what Fischer said felt like a decade since they last played in 2019 — scoring multiple runs in all four innings. Senior Kiani NaIt was a solid outing for a team that had an entire season canceled and minimal practice time leading up to the start of this season because of the pandemic.

"I'm proud of them; we came out and did a lot of things right," Fischer said.

"It has been hard to get them to click because of COVID. It just took a little longer than normal. But we are happy to be back."

toriano topped the list. He's down nine pounds from his roster weight of a year ago, but Quitoriano's speed and power have increased.

"My main focus during this offseason was my mobil-ity and flexibility," Quitoriano said. "Trying to be the model worker in the room, as much as I can be."

Briefly: Oregon State holds its first spring scrimmage of length Saturday. Lindgren said they'll spend time during Thursday's practice going over plays and packages that have already been installed, then try to execute Saturday. Tempo and eliminating pre-snap penalties will be an emphasis.... Lindgren said freshman quarterback Sam Vidlak has his hands full learning the plays, but impressed last Saturday when "he put together a nice drive, made some big-time throws ... it was good to see." ... Second-year freshman receiver Zeriah Beason said a year under his belt at OSU is noticeable. "Last year I was just sort of running around and the game was pretty fast for me. This year I feel like the game is a lot slower," said Beason, who caught 16 passes for 148 yards and three touchdowns in 2020.

season, Quitoriano improved to 14 catches for 185 yards.

"I think I've made big jumps, every year. There's always room to improve," Quitoriano said. "I think I've gotten a lot better, and I'm gonna try to only go up from here."

Lindgren said Quitoriano's pass catching ability is somewhat overshadowed because of Musgrave's downfield playmaking ability.

"I look for his catches to grow, for sure," Lindgren said. There's some situations where I feel kind of bad for him because Luke is such a talented guy in the pass stuff. Sometimes, Teagan doesn't always get the opportunities." Such was the case during the first padded 11-on-11 play period of the spring. Musgrave was one of the receiving highlights, as he made big plays, particularly in third-down situations.

"That was really good to see," Lindgren said. "I think continuing to get those guys more involved in the pass game is something we're continuing to look at through the spring?

Coach Jonathan Smith said last week it came to those who caught his eye physically, Qui-
